CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

The opening feature of the November Canadian Magazine is a profusely illustrated account of the Duke's Tour across the continent. Nor is this account an ordinary one. It is entirely different from anything which has appeared in any of the newspapers and is full of historical references and quaint imaginings. The illustrations are reproductions of photographs of the chief events connected with the Royal Reception at Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa. The reproductions are perfectly done. The second feature of the number is a series of three sporting articles, Capt. R. K. Barker reviews the Rowing Season; John E. Hall Secretary of the Canadian Cricket Association, reviews the Season's Cricket; while Mr. F. J. Campbell, Secretary of the Lake Yacht Racing Association, writes of the various Yachting events of the season. There are other very interesting articles in the issue, including one on "City Government in Canada," by Dr. S. Morley Wickett, Ph. D. Short stories, the usual departments, and superb illustrations make up what is a most interesting and valuable issue of the National periodical.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Tuesday afternoon as Mr. John Hislop, 2nd con. Vaughan, west of Elgin Mills, was returning from Toronto, having sold a load of produce, a boy apparently 14 or 15 years of age, riding in the same direction on a bicycle, asked him for a ride in his wagon. The boy afterwards asked if he might go home with Mr. Hislop and stay all night, saying he was looking for employment. Mr. Hislop took him home, gave him supper, bed and breakfast. After breakfast Mr. Hislop went to the barn and the boy rode away. Shortly afterwards Mr. Hislop's sister observed that a trunk upstairs was open and becoming suspicious informed her brother. The latter found at once that $54 in mixed bank bills had been taken from the trunk. He suspected the boy, came hurriedly out to this village, and overtook the lad about a mile and a half south of this place. The boy at once handed Mr. Hislop $54 which he said he had stolen. He was brought back and tried before Mr. Teedy, J. P., and Reeve Savage yesterday afternoon. The prisoner made no defence and was committed to stand trial. Later in the evening Mr. Brownlee took him to the Toronto jail. To the constable he also acknowledged stealing the bicycle from St. Michael's College. The boy gave his name as John Thompson.
