BROKE LOOSE.

Mr. Walter Scott's driver became frightened of a Metropolitan car coming south on Friday afternoon and broke away from a tie post at Elgin Mills. There was an exciting speeding contest between the car and the horse down Yonge street to the village, but the latter having a "through" ticket and no stops to make turned the corner at Sanderson's drug store in advance of the car. The animal with its head pointing homeward ran to the 2nd of Markham, turned north, and was finally stopped near Mr. Heise's house, near Victoria Square. Many sharp turns were made, but fortunately neither horse nor rig were injured.

M. Teefy, Esq., Postmaster

The World of yesterday contained a very good photograph of M. Teefy, Esq., our esteemed postmaster, with the following account of his life:—

Fifty years of service in the Post-office Department is a record unique in the history of the Dominion of Canada and Matthew Teefy of Richmond Hill enjoys this proud distinction. The World called upon Mr. Teefy in his office yesterday and was struck no less by that gentleman's perfect grasp of public affairs than by his erect figure and splendid physique. Born in Newport, Tipperary County, Ireland, on April 18, 1822, his parents emigrated to Canada two years later, and settled in Toronto, then York, and he resided there until the death of his parents a few years subsequently. Mr. Teefy came to Richmond Hill in the year 1848, and four years after was appointed postmaster of the village, a position he has held continuously ever since, a period of more than 51 years. Rich in reminiscences and with a mind well stored with information, no more interesting companion could be desired. Compared with the Yonge St. of the present day and the limited travel now passing over that road, the stirring scenes of 40 or 50 years ago present a striking contrast. Yonge St. was the great highway between Toronto and Newmarket, Aurora, Bradford and an immense tract of country to the north of these points. Mr. Teefy states that during a large portion of the year this great highway was thronged with teams, a condition of affairs rendered necessary by the absence of railways. Mrs. Teefy, the postmaster's consort in life, is likewise remarkably vigorous, and, like her husband, is in full possession of all her faculties. The junior slightly of her husband, Mrs. Teefy is in her 70th year. A remarkable fact in connection with this interesting couple is that in the very office where 51 years ago Mr. Teefy assumed the position of postmaster he is to day still discharging his duties. The claim is made, and probably without fear of contradiction, that Mr. Teefy is today the oldest acting postmaster in the Dominion of Canada. Three sons and three daughters are living, the eldest of whom Father Teefy is president of St. Michael's college, while the second son is a banker in Stockton, Cal., and the youngest a barrister in Chicago. E. R. C. Clarkson the well known accountant of this city is a brother of Mrs. Teefy. Although a life-long Liberal Mr. Teefy was throughout the life of the late Sir John Macdonald a warm admirer of that statesman. A man of irreproachable character, of a kindly and generous nature, there are none who will cherish the hope that many years of useful life may yet be spared to Mr. Teefy and his venerable consort.

Mr. Alfred D. Wright, who spent twelve weeks in the Toronto General Hospital, and while there had an operation performed for Bright's Disease, has been staying at his old home for the past week.
