EPWORTH LEAGUE.

At the meeting of the Epworth League on Friday evening, Mrs. J. A. E. Switzer, the newly-elected President, resigned the office, as she found it would be impossible for her to attend to all the duties required. A ballot was cast for the election of a new president and Mr. Will Trench was chosen by a very encouraging majority. Mr. Trench accepted the new office, but in doing so said it would be necessary to resign his office in the literary department, and the league most heartily appointed Miss G. Harris to take charge of that department.

THE DELINEATOR FOR JUNE.

The June number of the Delineator leaves nothing to be desired in its fashions, in the timeliness of its household matter, in the interest of its literature, and in the beauty of its illustrations. Portrait Photography of To-Day is interestingly treated by J. C. Abel and many representative pictures by the leaders of the new school are given. In the athletic series Edwin Sundays, the expert, discusses swimming—its value as an exercise for women, how to become proficient, and fancy swimming; a remarkable series of pictures accompanies the article. Marguerite Tracy contributes Five Minutes Grace, a story clever in dialogue and original in plot; and Margaret Whillans Beardsley has written a strong bit of fiction in When Justice Was Appealed. The third paper in Dr. Murray's Series on Child Training deals sympathetically, yet wisely with the disobedient child and discusses with parents the vexed question of rewards and punishments. The departments present matter of interest for every branch of the household—Summer Furnishings, Cookery, the Garden, etc.; and there are also ever-entertaining Pastimes for Children.

For Men and Boys! Better than ever! Better style, cloth and tailoring for the money than ever before—which means better service and durability. There is more to durability than the wear of the cloth.
