North York Liberals

HON. E. J. DAVIS HONORED

Monster Demonstration at Newmarket

North York Liberals have never been known to do anything by halves.
In years gone by they have had great demonstrations but that of Saturday last eclipsed all predecessors. The attendance in the Fair Grounds where the stalwarts assembled was probably 9,000, or 10,000. So great was the crowd that the speakers were compelled to deliver addresses both inside the main building, and in the open air.
The speeches were interesting, and were all highly complimentary to Mr.
Davis who had every reason to be delighted at the magnificent demonstration in his honor. The most important speech was that of Hon. G. W.
Ross, who declared his intention of fighting his opponents, and expressed his confidence that he would be able to conduct the government of the Country.

The town of Newmarket was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The main street looked well, and many of the private residences presented a gay appearance. A large evergreen arch had also been erected over one of the principal streets. Every polling subdivision in the riding was well represented, and many of the wagons and other vehicles bore amusing and appropriate mottoes. Mr. Davis and the members of his family were enthusiastically cheered along the line of march, and the whole affair must have been gratifying to all concerned.
Brass bands accompanied the delegations from Aurora, Nobleton and Stouffville, and the Highlanders' pipe band was an interesting feature of the day. Everything went to show that North York was proud of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, and that Mr. Davis was proud of his constituents.

The procession wound up at the Fair grounds, where the main building had been seated to accommodate 2,000 people. In a very short time it was crowded to the doors, and an overflow meeting had to be arranged on the grounds outside, where six or seven thousand more people had congregated. The grand stand was filled to its utmost capacity, and the grounds and track and field were so crowded that locomotion was difficult and the various games were conducted at a disad-vantage. The hall was decorated on a magnificent scale, scarcely a foot of the walls or ceiling being visible.
Among the many mottoes in the hall were, "North York Honors Davis," and "Welcome North York Old Boys."

Mayor Cane of Newmarket, presided in such a way that everybody around him felt perfectly at ease.
There were short addresses of welcome and appropriate replies. When Mr. Davis rose to speak he was received with much applause. He said he was unable to find words to express as fittingly as he would desire his sense of appreciation of the kindness shown him by the electors of North York on the present occasion. He felt that they had honored him far more than he deserved. He could not have had the privilege and the opportunity of representing the grand and historic riding of North York had it not been for the Liberal electors, and he desired to express his appreciation of their continued confidence. One fact noted in the address had been a source of great satisfaction and pleasure to him.
That was that at each succeeding election he had been honored by an increasing number of votes. The first time he was their candidate he polled, if he remembered correctly, about 1,700 votes.
At the election following that, 2,000 electors were good enough to express their confidence in him. In 1898 2,500 cast their ballots for him, and in the last campaign 2,800 and some odd voters honored him with their confidence.
("Hear, hear," and applause.) It was a source of satisfaction to him to know that the number who believed he was representing the riding to the best of his ability was not growing less as the years passed by. (Applause.) Continuing, Mr. Davis referred to the many difficulties and discouragements in public life, and the many sacrifices to be made and disagreeable things to be encountered and endured. He thought he gaged it correctly when he said that public life and the campaigns incident to such a life were becoming more strenuous in this country, and, therefore, an occasion such as the present was a bright spot in the career of any public man.
It was an inspiration, and would strengthen and help him to be more valiant and earnest in the service of the people. They all required encouragement and strengthening in all the pursuits of life, and the present magnificent demonstration was certainly a source of great inspiration and satisfaction to him. (Applause.) He did not feel that in anything he had tried to do he had done any more than his duty as their representative on the floor of the Provincial Legislature.

Their confidence had kept him in public life for fourteen years, and if he were to continue in public life it could only be by reason of a continuance of that confidence. In his public life he had been actuated by only one resolve —to be of service to the people. (Applause.) He had no personal ends to serve. He did not intend to make a speech. They had present with them the distinguished leader of the Liberal party in the Province, Premier Ross. (Cheers.) He felt he was not saying anything in disparagement of those preceding him when he said that Mr. Ross was the equal of any of them in his management and conduct of the public affairs of the Province.
(Applause.) If public affairs were to be discussed on the present occasion who better could discuss them than the Premier of the Province?

Crown Lands Department.

After a eulogistic reference to Sir William Mulock and several of the other visitors Mr. Davis spent a few moments in the discussion of matters pertaining to the management of the Crown Lands Department, of which he is administrator. So onerous and pressing were the duties of that large department that the electors of North York need scarcely wonder that it was no longer possible for him to get from one end of the riding to the other as frequently as he had at one time. He spoke of the good effect accruing to all classes in the Province by the saw-log policy of the Government. Later he had suggested a similar policy with reference to pulp-wood on Crown lands, which had had the effect of establishing pulp and paper mills throughout New Ontario. More recently he had placed hemlock in the same list, and after April 30 next the export of that article was to cease.
Mr. Davis also dealt briefly and comprehensively with the mining conditions of the Province, the control of which rests with him. He spoke of the growth and development of the industry, and made some reference also to the work of colonization, which is another feature of his departmental duties. Instead of settlers going to the United States they were now going in a steady stream to the newer portions of the Province.

In conclusion Mr. Davis thanked the farmers of the riding for the support which they have always accorded him. He also wished to thank the workmen who had so nobly stood by him. The manufacturers and the business men of the riding were also good enough to give him a very cordial support. He felt that this support, with that of the farmers and workmen, was a signal honor conferred upon the Administration which he represented. (Applause.) Again he thanked them from the bottom of his heart for the splendid evidence of continued confidence they had given.

Rousing addresses were afterwards given by Hon. G. W. Ross, Sir Wm.
Mulock, Mr. R. F. Sutherland, M. P.; Mr. I. J. Gould, M. P.; Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M. P.; Senator Landeekin, N. W. Rowell, and others.

Want of space prevents a more lengthy report, but some of the excellent addresses will be referred to in a future issue.

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. I. Carts, when his youngest daughter, Emily, was married to Mr.
Archie MacCallum of this place. Rev.
Mr. Robinson performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of guests. The bride wore a pretty gown of white organdie. She was attended by her niece, Miss Verna Winter, who also looked pretty in white. After the ceremony a dainty repast was fully enjoyed. The bride received many pretty and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. MacCallum left on the evening train for London and Detroit.
They have the very best wishes of their many friends.

In All Saints' Church on Saturday afternoon Miss Annie Gilliam was married to Mr. William Perkins. The ceremony was performed by the Rev.
J. H. MacDonald, assisted by Rev.
Ernest Dymond of Port Hope. The procession to the altar was led by the girls of the junior choir, who acted as flower girls. Miss Perkins was bridesmaid, while Mr. E. Mason of Richmond Hill, assisted the groom. Bride and bridesmaid each looked lovely in white organdie. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, at which about ninety guests were present. Many beautiful presents showed the popularity of both bride and groom.

MacDonald & Son's millinery parlors were thrown open to the public on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. All the ladies and some of the men called to see the stylish display of fall millinery which Miss Martin had to show them.

We are pleased to see that Mr. Victor Hall is again able to be out.

Mr. Alex. Gray spent Sunday at his home at Port Credit.

Rev. Ernest Dymond, of Port Hope, spent a few days in town, the guest of Dr. Lockhart.

Mrs. Ben Curley of Central Ontario Junction, is visiting her mother, Mrs.
Brown.

Miss Rose Desmond returned home on Monday.

Surely the most interesting and exciting scene of the week was the mustering of vehicles and horsemen for Newmarket on Saturday morning.

DON'T LISTEN

To what people say when they would discourage your hope of exchanging womanly weakness and sickness for perfect health. Women who have been invalids for years, scarcely able to be up half the time, and the other half of their time spent in bed, have been made healthy, hearty women by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the womanly diseases which und-dermine the strength. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"With pleasure I send a few lines to let you know that I feel much better than for eight years before taking your 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. Pierce Geise, of 822 West Philadelphia Street, York, Penna.

"I will recommend Dr.
Pierce's medicine to every person who may inquire as to what has done for me. I was troubled with female weakness and began to think I would never be well. If I had continued the treatment prescribed by my doctor I don't know what would have become of me. When your treatment was commenced my weight was 108 lbs.; at present it is 130. Have healthy color and my friends say I look well. My best thanks to you and my best wishes too, for what you have done for me."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.
