RICHMOND HILL, August 13, 1903

The last number of Toronto Saturday Night gives a collection of rank phrases said to have been delivered in speeches in the Sydney. N. S. W. Parliament. No good purbose would be served by repeating the objectionable expressions burled across the floor of the House. Suffice it to say, however, if the editor of Saturday Night is shocked by the language it must be bad indeed. Many a good piece of reasoning in Chat so-called society paper is spoiled ly coarse and vulgar expression. For instance in the number before the last any reasonable person might admire the clever way in which the Stupidity of the editorial page of The Mail and Empire was referred to, but the language used boardered very closely on blasphemy.
