

THE INCURABLE CURED AGAIN

J. J. PERKINS OWES HIS LIFE TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Manitoba Man Helpless from Kidney Disease Made Strong and Hearty by the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tyndall, Man., April 18.—(Special)—Among the many in the great West who confidently state that they owe their lives to Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mr. J. J. Perkins, a well known resident of this place.

"For two years I was troubled with my kidneys," Mr. Perkins states, "and at last became so bad that the doctor gave me up and said I was incurable.

"I, at times, had such severe pains in my back and kidneys that I thought I would have to give up all hope and die. I was unable to work and was becoming destitute.

"While in this condition a friend persuaded me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I had little faith in them, and it was more to please him than anything else I gave them a trial.

"To my surprise the first box did me so much good that I felt like a new man. Five boxes cured me completely.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life and I cannot praise them too much."

Thousands of cases similar to that of Mr. Perkins are the proof that any Kidney Disease from Backache to Bright's Disease yields readily to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

HUMAN COPYRIGHT.

Its Infringement Has Sometimes Led to War.

One special feature of many of the tribes inhabiting New Guinea is the unwritten law of copyright in the designs with which they tattoo their bodies. Each tribe has its own particular system of ornamenting the body, and should a member of any other tribe imitate the pattern, it is regarded as quite a sufficient reason for a declaration of war between the two tribes.

A traveller who has lately given to the world his impressions of this part of the globe, confirms this statement, and emphasises it by mentioning an instance in which war actually broke out owing to an infringement of this human copyright.

A young warrior fell in love with a girl of a neighboring tribe; the girl favored his suit, but there was a rival in her own tribe. This rival wished to know why the girl did not look upon him with equal favor, and why she went outside the tribe for a husband.

The girl hesitated, and then replied—either as a subterfuge or as a statement of actual fact, but probably the former—that the rival was not so well ornamented as was the suitor from the neighboring tribe. The home rival watched for the successful suitor, took note of the pattern, and copied it. The other tribe resented this infringement, and declared war, in the course of which both suitors were killed.

ARMY TRIALS.

An Infantryman's Long Siege.

This soldier's tale of food is interesting.

During his term of service in the 17th Infantry in Cuba and Philippines, an Ohio soldier boy contracted a disease of the stomach and bowels which all army doctors who treated him pronounced incurable, but which Grape-Nuts food alone cured.

"In October, 1899, when my enlistment expired, I was discharged from the Army at Calutute, Philippines, and returned to the States on the first available steamer that left Manila. When I got home I was a total wreck physically and my doctor put me to bed saying he considered me the worst broken-down man of my age he ever saw and after treating me 6 months he considered my case beyond medical aid.

"During the fall and winter of 1900 and '01 I was admitted to the Barnes Hospital in Washington, D. C. for treatment for chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels, but after 5 months returned home as bad as ever.

"I continued taking medicine until February, 1902, when reading a newspaper one day I read about Grape-Nuts and was so impressed I sent out for a package right away.

"The result is quickly told for I have used Grape-Nuts continually ever since with the best results, my health is so I can do a fair day's hard work, stomach and bowels are in good condition, have gained 40 pounds in weight and I feel like a new man altogether.

"I owe my present good health to Grape-Nuts beyond all doubt for medical science was exhausted." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Had he consulted any one of several thousand physicians we know of they would have prescribed Grape-Nuts immediately.

STRENGTH OF THE JAPANESE

Most Unique Among the Peoples of the World.

A Japanese house is one of the simplest things ever built, for it consists of little more than four posts and a roof. But such "impermanence," which is also seen in other things, is a part of the strength of the nation, writes Mr. Douglas Sladen in "Queer Things About Japan," for no people in the world have so few wants.

The Japanese have no bread, no beds, no fires, no boots or shoes, no trousers for the men, no petticoats for the women—for both sexes wear several dressing-gowns, one over the other. In their houses they have no windows, no doors, no walls but paper shutters fixed in grooves, no ceilings, no chests of drawers, not even a washstand.

In the kitchen they have no range no pots, no pans, no flour-bias, no kitchen tables. But then they have no tables or chairs in the drawing-room, and in the real native house the drawing-room itself is only a lot of bedrooms with the paper shutters taken down. There is no reason why you should find anything in a Japanese house except mats and a charcoal stove for warming your fingers and making tea.

These and a cushion or two, and a quilt to sleep on, with an elaborate conventional politeness, constitute the furniture of a Japanese house, except the guest-chamber. And the articles in the guest-chamber consist of a screen, a tokemono and a flower-vase.

Along with his magnificent want of wants, so to speak, the Japanese combines a capacity to get huge pleasure out of what we should regard as trifles, and after labors and sacrifices that we should think intolerable. This extraordinary patience and whole-hearted enjoyment under all the niggardliness of his lot marks the Japanese as unique among the peoples of the world.

He lives on next to nothing and thrives on it. He always has a smile. He works whenever he can get any work to do. They are all week-days to him. Instead of a seventh day, Sunday, he has his festa, a national holiday or a temple festival. In either case he goes a-faring to some temple, and takes his children or a friend. He is never too poor to have money to treat them.

He only gives himself a holiday when he is out of work, and his holidays are inexpensive. He just walks a hundred miles to see some famous garden in its glory; he carries his luggage in a box, wrapped in oiled paper, and gets a bed at an inn for a halfpenny. His food is almost as cheap; and when the last turn in the road shows him the irises of Horikari, or the house and cherry-trees of Yoshino, on the day of all the year, he would not change places with the King of England.

Heart-Sick People.—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is a heart tonic that never fails to cure—is swift in its effects—goes closer to the "border land" and snatches from death's grip more sufferers than any other remedy for any family of diseases and ailments in the category of human sufferings. Gives relief in 30 minutes.—75

GAVE UP THE CASE.

An old lawyer tells a good story about a case he had, but which he didn't keep.

An Irishwoman sent for him in great haste one day. She wanted him to meet her in court, and he hastened thither with all speed. The woman's son was about to be placed on trial for burglary. When the lawyer entered the court the old woman rushed up to him, and in an excited voice said:—

"Mr. B.—, Oi want ye to git a remand for me b'y Jimmie."

"Very well, madam," replied the lawyer. "I will do so if I can, but it will necessary to present to the Court some grounds for a remand. What shall I say?"

"Shure, ye can jist tell the Court that Oi want a remand till Oi can git a better lawyer to spake for the b'y."

After telling the woman that she would have to get another lawyer to take up the case, he hurried back to his office a very angry man.

Sarcastic Father.—"Julia, that young man Smily has been here three nights in succession, and it has been nearly midnight when he left. Hadn't you better invite him to bring his trunk and make his home with us?" Innocent Daughter:—"Oh, papa! may I? It is just what he wanted, but he was too bashful to ask you. He'll be delighted when I tell him this evening."

"How long has the minister been preaching?" whispered the stranger, who had wandered into the church and sat down away back. "About thirty years, I believe," replied the other occupant of the pew. "That being the case," rejoicing the stranger, "I'll stay. He must be nearly done."

The Irish are scarcely less noted for their gallantry than for their wit, and an example of this virtue is found in the case of an Irish judge who presided at a trial in which the plaintiffs were a lady and her daughter. In summing up the case, the judge thus gallantly began:—"Gentlemen of the jury, everything in this case seems plain—except Mrs. O'Toole and her charming daughter."

PUTTING IT MILDLY.

A traveller tells of a trip on a jaunting-car in Ireland where he had as a fellow passenger an ugly-looking man whom he was not sorry to leave behind at an inn.

"That was a queer-looking fellow, Pat," I remarked to the waggish driver as we proceeded on our way.

"Faith, yer honor, and he's as queer as he looks. He's a villain. He's done fifteen years for laving his wife without visible manes of support."

"Oh, get out, Pat! A man can't get fifteen years' penal servitude for 'laving his wife without visible manes of support.'"

"Shure, and can't he, sir?" said Pat, with a twinkle in his roguish eyes. "He did, though. And, be-dad! isn't it leaving yer wife 'without visible manes of support' when ye throw her out of a window on the third floor?"

Rheumatism will Succumb to South American Rheumatic Cure because it goes right to the seat of the trouble and removes the cause. Many so-called cures but deaden pain temporarily only, to have it return again with doubled violence. Not so with this great remedy. It eradicates from the system the last vestige of the disease and its cures are permanent.—74

WHAT RADIUM CAN DO.

It is stated that a small fraction of an ounce of radium, properly employed, would provide light for any large building, and would not require renewal for a century. It has been calculated that in a single gramme of radium there is sufficient energy stored up to raise 500 tons weight a mile high. An ounce would suffice to drive a 50 h.p. motor-car at the rate of thirty miles an hour round the world.
