Dancing began at 10 o'clock and was kept up for a few hours, the music being all that could be desired. A dainty lunch was served about midnight in which all took some share of doing their duty to the good things provided. The bachelors are to be congratulated on their At Home.

NOT CREDITABLE.

A number of our citizens asked the editor why no mention was made in THE LIBERAL of a disgraceful scene in the street on Wednesday evening of last week. Passers-by were shocked at the language they were compelled to listen to in going to and from the Post Office. THE LIBERAL has on many occasions very reluctantly referred to unseemly rows and indecent occurrences and has often been reminded that such paragraphs are a poor advertisement for our village. We can truthfully say we have never written in malice, and have always regretted having to make reference to anything of an unpleasant nature. But newspaper writing has apparently not had the desired effect. The fact of the matter is that those who have a tendency to be unruly know that our municipality has no village constable, and that they can do just about as they like. THE LIBERAL has long contended that we should have a constable employed by the village, whose duty it would be to maintain order and decency, but apparently our citizens are content to allow matters to rest as they are. On the evening referred to, dozens of people whispered to each other and wondered what could be done to stop the street exhibition, but they all seemed powerless, and the affair continued for more than half an hour.
