Mr. Hawley was a wealthy dealer in malt and when a young man of twentyfive had fallen desperately in love with a young lady from Liverpool, who happened to be visiting some mutual friends. Miss Adams at the time was, unfortunately, already engaged, but Hawley, who appears to have held. the old belief that "All's fair in love and war," begged her to break off the engagement and marry him. Miss Adams naturally declined to do this, first because it would have been dishonorable, second because she loved her fiance, and third because she did not care in any way for the impetuous Hawley. She returned to Liverpool after receiving an impassioned letter from her would-be lover and, so curiously do things turn out, a few months later her fiance was
