Fattening Poultry for Christmas.

By W. R. GRAHAM, B. S. A.

Well-fledged poultry of a superior grade is always in demand for the Christmas market and commands a price very much larger in proportion than does that of an inferior class.

Chickens intended for the Christmas market should be shut up in fattening crates or in a pen, from two to three weeks previous to the time they are to be killed. A seven-foot crate will hold twelve chickens, or a stall eight by ten feet will hold twenty. Choose good healthy chickens of one of the general purpose or meat producing breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Orpingtons, etc. A chicken weighing about four pounds feeds more economically than a larger bird, because it develops as it fattens, although birds weighing five, six or seven pounds can be placed in good condition for killing in two weeks. Before being cooped the chickens should be dusted with insect powder to kill the vermin.

Feeding.—For the first twenty-four hours after the birds are cooped they should be fed very little, and throughout the first week light feeds at frequent intervals should be the rule. Heavy feeding during the first three or four days usually sickens the chickens and prevents them from doing well afterwards. At this season of the year the days are so short that not more than three feeds can be given. During the second week the chickens should be given all they will eat twice a day, grit being supplied once or twice a week.

The following rations have been used with good results:—

Two parts of each of barley meal, corn meal and shorts, and one part each of finely ground oats and animal meal. If the animal meal is not to be had, skim milk will answer, preferably sour.

Two parts of corn meal, 2 of ground buckwheat, one of finely ground oats which is mixed with milk, or about 12% of animal meal, if milk is not available.

Another very good ration is ground oats 4 parts, ground barley 3 parts, and animal meal one part.

Ducks which are being fattened should be kept from the stream or pond and confined to small yards. They could be fattened on whole grain very nicely, peas, corn and wheat being the best grains. Such feed should be put in a trough or pan and covered with water to a depth of two or three inches. The ducks appear to relish the food better when given in this manner.

Ground corn and shorts in the proportion of three of corn to one of shorts wet with milk makes a good ration. If water is added meat meal or cooked liver, or other refuse meat must be used.

Turkeys that are intended for Xmas trade should be brought in from the fields about three weeks previous to marketing time, and during this period they should be fed with corn once or twice a day. They may also be fed a mash consisting of two parts of corn meal, one of shorts, one of oats and one of beef scraps, but if sour milk is in abundance, the meal may be dropped. Small boiled potatoes are also a valuable addition to the rations.

Turkeys should not be confined too closely. A large shed is perhaps the ideal place for fattening purposes.

Special value in coffee at 25, 30 and 40c. lb., ground while you wait. Atkinson & Switzer.

A New Dairy Paper for Canada.

It is probable that Canada will shortly have a new dairy paper. Committees appointed by the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Associations have been considering the matter, as a result of which it has practically been decided to form a joint stock company to start such a paper and conduct it as the official organ of both associations. Stock in this company will be limited to parties directly interested in dairying. It is expected the first number of the magazine will be published in time for distribution at the annual convention of the Dairymen's Associations in January.

Although dairying is one of the leading industries of Canada, there has never been any regular dairy paper, and dairymen generally have long felt the need for such an organ. It is estimated that there are about 325,000 people in Canada directly interested in dairying, of which almost 100,000 live in Ontario. It is probable that the dairy paper and the Canadian Horticulturist, the official organ of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, will be published under one management. The dairy paper will be issued semi-monthly for 60 cents a year, or two months for $1, thus ensuring a large circulation. As both papers have fields of their own, it is not expected there will be any conflict with the already established farm papers.

Warden Hartman Banquetted.

The York County Councillors, county officials and a number of outside friends met at the Clyde Hotel Friday evening to do honor to Warden L. L. Hartman, who has presided over the council during the year 1904. The assembly surrounded the festive board about 8:30, and after doing justice to an excellent spread provided by the host and hostess, an interesting toast list followed. Councillor Johnston was chairman, and the vice chairs were filled by Councillors Gardhouse and Ley.

After honoring "The King," Mr. J. D. Evans was called upon, who presented Warden Hartman, on behalf of the councillors, with a handsome gold-mounted ebony cane, suitably engraved. Mr. Hartman made an appropriate reply, thanking his colleagues for their token of appreciation, and referring to the pleasure it has given him to work with his fellow councillors year after year.

"The House of Commons" was responded to by Arch. Campbell, M. P., and W. H. Pugsley; "The Ontario Legislature" by J. W. Moyes, Dr. Gilmonr and W. J. Hill; "Agriculture" by T. Hood, W. H. Lundy, and Messrs. Rogers and Underwood; "The Learned Professions" by R. Gibson, C. O. Robinson and Dr. Walters; "County Officials" by Clerk Ramsden and ex-Warden Stokes; "The Ladies" by Arch. McCallum and Levi Annis; "The Press" by T. F. McMahon and Mr. McDonald. Mr. Bennett, humorist, gave a number of entertaining songs during the evening.

The Inside Inn.

Probably the Inside Inn was the most popular and best known hotel at the St. Louis World's Fair, which closes to-day. As the hotel is large and its interior intricate, it is natural that visitors would ask many questions before deciding on their location. The following is one of the conversations reported, between a prospective guest and the clerk at the hotel desk. The writer walked timidly up to the clerk and asked:—

"Excuse me, sir; is this the Inside Inn?" and if so, is the proprietor of the Inside Inn in?"

"Yes," replied the clerk, with a far-away look in his eyes, "this is the Inside Inn, and you will find the proprietor of the Inside Inn outside by the Inn's side. He has been keeping the inside in for several weeks. He told me once that when he took an ocean trip he couldn't keep his inside inn, but that was inside information, and he didn't intend it to get outside." "All right," said the guest, "if this is the Inside Inn we want to see its inside, as well as its outside, before we look inside any of the outside Inns. If we like the Inside Inn's inside and outside better than we like the outside Inns' outside and inside, we may bring our things from outside inside and stop inside the Inside Inn, because we won't have to go from the inside outside, or come back from the outside inside, when we're seeing the fair, but can remain inside or outside the Inside Inn, it being the only inn inside the grounds. The other ones are on the outside, and furnish no more comforts for the guests' inside or outside than does the Inside Inn, which exhibits close outside at the inn's side—that is the Inside Inn's side. In—"

But the clerk had fainted and fallen inside the Inside Inn's desk, and bell-boys were hurrying for water for his outside and brandy for his inside, though in their excitement they got that which was meant for his inside outside, and that which was meant for his outside inside.

Carrville

The blissful silence of our peace-loving neighborhood was disturbed on Monday evening by a monotonous clanging, which on investigation proved to be produced by a couple of lone boys thumping an old mould board in hopes of drawing forth sufficient noise to carry on a charivari. The man whose boys were making such desperate efforts to honor was Mr. Levi Baker, a quiet resident of our little burg. The eclairsissement runs thus: On Tuesday, Nov. 22, Mr. Joshua Hills of Gornley, and Miss Nancy Smith of Edgely, were quietly united in the holy bonds of matrimony. In a few days it became reported that Mr. Levi Baker was the bridegroom. A young gentleman of the neighborhood, who was related with the true state of affairs, saw an opportunity for a huge joke, so he invited a few of the boys to join in a charivari in which he—the instigator—made himself conspicuous by his absence. As expected, however, the invited ones decided to carry out the program on their own account. But as their leader did not appear they soon decided to give it up for a bad job, and went home. At time of writing they were still in blissful ignorance of their mistake.

A WIFE'S CONFESSION.

Of course every one knew when they were engaged and every one pretended to be surprised when they suddenly heard it was broken off. It was broken off she had broken it off, then that his heart had changed, but finally she confessed that she had driven him away. Her good looks were vanishing. She was getting thin, pale, and hollow-cheeked, with dark circles around her eyes. Suddenly all society was pleased again to hear of the engagement being renewed, and it was not long before a beautiful and radiant bride was taken to the altar. She had regained her good looks, her former happy disposition and strong nerve all through a secret friend gave her. A few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is what made two more lives happy and a radiant bride more beautiful than she had ever appeared before.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

Mrs. O. O. Scripture, of Prescott, Ariz., L. Box 536, writes: "For nearly two years I was a great sufferer with ulceration and enlargement of womb, also suffered severely with dyspepsia and was run down—a perfect wreck. I doctored for several years; got no better, until about seven months ago I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets. I can stand on my feet and work hard all day. I feel that life is now worth living, and shall ever feel grateful to you and shall always recommend your medicines to all who are suffering in any way."

Expense money advanced. Commission extra. Permanent engagement. Business successful. Previous experience not essential. Enclose self-addressed envelope.
