REVEALED

CHAPTER XIII.

Women adore strength when it is allied to courage, and men respect looked up to him, not only as their or joyous. superior in social rank, but as their superior in pluck; for though there ingly, protectingly, and unconsciouswere not many cowards in the camp, ly they wandered away. few would have cared to tackle the was in one of his savage moods.

They learned, too, that their new comrade could not only fight but work.

many ways, but chiefly in horsetrading, he being an excellent judge display a valuable animal to the ped shrinkingly. buyer, and, therefore, managed to dispose of him at a fair profit.

admire "Mr. Jack," as he was called by those who liked him; but Long Bill and Steve could not concoal their dislike when anything was said in Royce's favor. The truth was, Steve realized that "Gypsy Jack," as some of the tribe named him, was daily winning the love of Madge, the girl on whom he himself had set his heart. It is not wonderful, then, that Steve viewed his rival's preference by Madge with eyes that glared with deadly hatred.

A scheme to injure him, by inducing Gypsy Jack to act as wrestler against all comers, at the Markham Fair, was frustrated by the firm command of Madge, who readily guessed that the instigators had strong hope that in one of the contests he might be maimed, or otherwise injured.

It was at this same fair at Markham that a groom from Monk Towers had recognized Royce, although the latter did not recognize him, as he was hastening to another part of the fair, to attend to a matter of some import.

By this time Madge had ceased to shun Royce; and often in the evening, when the labor of the day was done, they wandered hand in hand beyond the light of the camp fire, to indulge in the sweet converse which denotes the highest esteem. On one of these occasions he laid bare his heart before her in impassioned words, and asked her to become his wife.

"Your wife! No, no!" she faltered, the agony of renouncing her exquisite bliss trembling in her voice, "You-you forget! You forget what you are, and what I am! A-a common gypsy, a vagabond; while you-Ah, I must not let you forget."

"I forget nothing," he said, his face flushing, his eyes bent with passionate love upon her upturned face; her eyes melting with mingled love and pain, hope, trust, and-yes, desamounts to nothing. If I were a king upon a throne, instead of being what I am-an outcast, disowned by a coward, and doesn't deserve to the place was proud to assist. get what he wants. See, dearest! L'unless you don't care for me."

filled her heart to overflowing.

say good-by, and clear out of your readiness to receive her guests. in love with-some one else! I the Landon diamonds. speak to me, dearest, dearest!"

"Let me go! Ah, let me go! It is tionless. you;" she faltered.

breast, her face hidden, her whole clothes. frame shaking with sobs.

-failed.

ed her to him, took her face in his created what is called in newspaper is estimated at £46.400,000, showhands and raised it, and kissed the parlance a sensation. lovely eyes and trembling lips.

brokenly. "My darling! My darling white silk, which, colorless as it was, nually a further sum of nearly £14,-And you said you did not love me? did not dim the glorious ivory of 000,000, the total deficit on State Which is true? Whisper dearest. No, her neck and arms. She wore no railways alone would appear to be give me one kiss-one kiss from your jewelry, but a white rose nestled in thirteen millions sterling (£14,000,heart, and then I shall know."

put her arms around his neck and her dress. drew his head down, and then with The officers, all the young men, in gineer. that surrender of self, of which only fact, opened their eyes, and found a girl in the throes of her first pas- their hearts beating at this vision of sion can be capable, she put her lips loveliness, and even Seymour was to bis.

restlessly close by, a camp fire shot evening like himself. up luridly in the darkness. It was From the hour Royce had forced wipes away with one sweep of his pale. the knife from Steve, the gypsies fleshless hand all earthly scenes, sad

He put his arms around her, lov- night," he said.

ing, my dearest!" he knew that the hour together." gave back the refrain.

of horseflesh. He knew a superior dream which is the sweetest to us sort of disgrace. His people have of invention. I will admit that I er that under such conditions the animal, and was, therefore, a shrewd all, they drew near the camp fire and 'sent him to Coventry,' isn't that had to solve the problem of growpurchaser. He knew, also, how to Madge, waking with a start, stop- so?"

and was drawing the shawl around on him, and not fair." her with the newly-born, protecting The gypsies learned to respect and tenderness of possession, when her said Irene. name struck on their ears.

tened.

the voice, but presently both knew young Landon had stood his ground that it was Steve's.

was saying. "D'ye hear, all of you? was and is a perfect brute, and that I say it must be put an end to! It's he exasperated Landon beyond mor-Madge's fault as well as his, but tal endurance. The colonel had he's the worst. Who's he that he grudge against him, and lost no opshould bring disgrace upon us?"

voice. "Who's going to bring dis- "I understand, I know; Go on!" al temperature. grace on us, I should like to know?" murmured Irene, breathlessly.

panting hard.

through his clinched teeth. "What and hurriedly.

cease as she listened, but though have been any difficulty in reinstatwith a kind of shiver she panted, ing Mr. Landon." "No, no!" and hid her face still "And-and did he, the earl, try him in loving surrender.

CHAPTER XIV.

Madge Lee, the gypsy, that he loved was of no use. We should have been pair. 'I know all you mean, but it her, and had asked her to be his sure to have heard of it if he had wife, there was a dinner party at applied at the War Office; these the Monk Towers.

A dinner party at the Towers was his own people-I should say the an event. It was the principal house to-to restore Roy-Mr. Landon?" same. You see, I can't help it! A in the country; the countess was, adman can't help loving, Madge; and mittedly, the first lady in the dis- I believe has, a great deal of influ-

Her breath came and went, and ters; four or five squires and their you to death, Miss Tresylian, but the ten or 12 teats. thor, who was staying with them.

"In that case, Madge," he said, Exactly at eight o'clock the coun-and see you, perhaps-perhaps falling wore priceless lace, and a part of ute or two.

wrong, all wrong! Must I speak, Seymour appeared on the scene borne off by some other man. must I tell you? Then-then-" next, and went about with a smile, She paused as if on the verge of a sleek and benevolent, upon his fair verge of a great effort, then raised face. He was dressed with the exher eyes to his, "I-do not-love tremest care, and yet had contrived to give to his appearance the air of The next moment she was on his a man who cares nothing for his

As the befl rang for dinner, Irene State railways is estimated at £47,-She had tried to do her duty and entered the drawing-room. She came 300,000 and expenditure on them, in quietly and noiselessly enough, including working expenses, improve-Royce uttered a low cry and press- but, nevertheless, her appearance ments and purchase of rolling stock,

"Madge! Madge," he murmured in white. Her frock was of soft ernment railway bonds absorbs anthe silken coils of her golden hair, 000-£900,000), exclusive of ad- trees. Many state crop correspond- quick at the art that he often gets With her face hidden she slowly and another rested on the bosom of vances of guaranteed interest, etc., ents say that stable manure has in advance of the dictator, and not

startled.

storry night; the horres neighed a revelation. The blood quickened in our cook!"

his veins as it had never done at anything before-excepting baccarat. He had valued her hitherto for her money, but to-night he realized her indescribable beauty, and it made his pulse quicken.

The young officer who had taken Irene in, and was more than half afraid of her celestial beauty, fell head over heels in love with her before the third course, and, though he was a silent man as a rule, found himself trying to amuse and interest

He did not know who she was, and tess' ward, and living in the house; but regarded her as a guest of the

He told her some anecdotes of bara fitting scene for Madge's betroth- rack life, which delighted her because al, and one that she would not for- Royce had been a soldier; but preget until the hour comes when death sently he made her start and turn

> "I had hoped to see the earl's brother, Mr. Royce Landon, to-

"He is not here," said Irene in a low voice.

He could feel her heart throbbing 'No, I am sorry for that for young gypsy, especially when he wildly against his side, her breath wanted to see him very much. A more skim milk to dispose of during mer time on free range. stirred his hair, and as he bent to young brother of mine is in the same kiss her now and again and mur- regiment, and he is quite mad about warm ones. During September and the farmer was censured for letting mured-"I love you, Madge, my darl- him, and will talk about him by October a large number of my pigs his poultry have the range of the said poor Irene.

"Yes," faltered Irene.

"Why do you say that? Tell me,"

"Well, I fancy the whole truth of Mechanically they stopped and lis- the business isn't generally known. I've got the rights of it from my Neither of them at first recognized brother, and I'm convinced that if he would not have had to resign. "It must be put an end to," he My brother says that the colonel portunity of rounding on him-I beg "Disgrace," cried mother Katie's your pardon, that's barrack slang!"

there when she wouldn't let him go have been wiped out with blood. All the skim milk clear, but make that enough to show you what was went on. "He was the favorite of dlings and dried beet pulp. the fire; then suddenly the passionate generosity as-as this glass is full of better than a slop made in this way. indignation seemed to flicker out, wine! My brother took Landon's and she sank on Royce's breast, resignation so much to heart that he called upon the earl, Lord Landon-'

"Hush, hush, Madge," he said "Called upon the earl?" said Irene. "Yes, rather a cool thing to do, does it matter what they say! They but he has plenty of cheek. He went don't know any better. We'll show to him and laid the whole case betouched her hair, and whispered long terest at the War Office, and get Mr. against intestinal worms. Landon back again; and my brother She started, her breath seemed to is convinced that there wouldn't breathlessly.

with some hesitation. "But I think Two nights after Royce had told not. I suppose he thought that it things always leak out, you know."

"Do you think it is too late now and his voice grew husky, "I'll-I'll tess entered the drawing-room in said Irene so sweetly that her voice a good litter of pigs if bred then. viz., he has buried no fewer than, way, for I couldn't stop in the camp | She was dressed in black satin, ears, and kept him silent for a min- pigs, or is a poor milker or a care- stay here. If you are fortunate couldn't do that! Tell me, Madge; Her handsome face was almost glanced across at the two keenly. He without a wrinkle, and the dark saw the sensation Irene had pro-"What shall I do? What shall I eyes shone clear and moonlike, and, duced, and it set him thinking that do?" broke from her quivering lips. like the moon, impassive and emo- he had better not postpone his attack, unless he wanted to see her

(To be Continued.)

RUSSIAN RAILWAY RETURNS.

In the Russian Railway Budget for 1904 the gross revenue from the ing a net revenue of £900,000. But The lily maid was dressed entirely as the payment of interest on Gov-

MONEY IN FALL PIGS.

Many farmers claim there is no money in fall pigs. I believe I can make as much growth for the same feed with a fall pig as I can with a spring pig, writes Colon C. Little. had no idea that she was the coun- Of course, a man must provide suitable feed and shelter and know how to take care of fall pigs or he will not be satisfied. The fall pig cannot hustle for himself around the barn yard, eat out in the snow, Poultry News, claim that the egg sleep in a cold nest, and thrive very production is increased and they may do this if he has plenty of corn young stock. The feed boxes are and a little slop. But the young kept filled with a variety of grains, pig, farrowed say in October, must the grit box is full and also a box have special care and feed in order to make a reasonable growth.

the cold months than during are farrowed. I must have them feed yards, where was always a sup-He proved himself to be useful in though the lips were silent her heart "Mr. Landon has-left the army," to utilize this by-product of the ply of corn, and of the barn, with dairy profitably. In my case, I its wheat and oat bins. It was a All unconsciously, rapt in the 'T know, and I suppose he's in a proved that necessity is the mother source of wonder to the town breeding fall pigs.

best advantage before a prospective He had turned to lead her away, "Well, I think it's rather too hard outdoor hog house works very well, very different from the dry feed sysbut it is not the place for the fall- tem if chickens are supplied with farrowed pig. He needs a good pure water, housed warmly in dry roomy pen that is warm and dry. For weeks at a time he ought not feed bins. If they are supplied with to go out of doors. Every pleasant grit and charcoal they will doubtless day the doors of our pen are open- lay as well as the fancier's fowls on ed to give the hog house an airing dry feed and free range. and to allow the pigs to take outdoor exercise if they choose, yet they prefer to remain in the pen most of the time. Some days they Course of Two Streams That Feed ge out in their yards for a short time. But they act as if they were pleased when the doors are shut and the pen again assumes its norm-

The fall pig should have a balanced "Who?' he retorted with an oath. "Not a day passed but Landon had ration. He should not be allowed "The fine gentleman that's sneaked to endure some open or covert inso- to eat too much corn or too large in among us; this Mr. Jack, as you lence, and he bore it wonderfully un- a proportion of skim milk. My excall him! I'm not blind, if the rest til the night when the other man perience is that the milk should be of you are! I tell you she's clean threw the wine in his face. Why, in in about the ratio of three pounds gone on him! Wasn't some of you the old times such an insult would to one pound of corn. I never feed on the wrestling platform? Wasn't the sympathy was with Landon," he slop of it by mixing wheat midhappening? I tell you if it aint't the regiment, and the colonel was former is splendid food for growing stopped that Madge will bring ruin detested. According to my brother, young pigs. It contains the proon herself and disgrace on all of us." Landon was just what an officer tein and the carbohydrates in just Madge drew herself upright, and should be. Kind and considerate to about the right proportion. There her eyes turned with a flash toward the men, and as full of pluck and is nothing that a young pig likes

About once a week the pigs are giver a feed of charcoal, which helps keep the digestive organs in good condition and sweetens the stomach. Every little while, also, wood ashes are put into their troughs. them-" He stopped, thought a fore him, gave him the full particu- also helps to keep the digestive ormoment, then bent till his lips lars, and begged him to use his in- game in good condition and guards

CHOOSING A BROOD SOW.

When selecting the brood sow, go to a pen where a number of gilts are kept and the fattest and best developed ones will always come to more completely, she still clung to and do what he could?" she asked the trough first. From these select a brood sow. The gilt selected "I don't know," replied the officer should come from a large litter and from a sow that is a good feeder, gentle and easy to handle. if she is gentle and kind and a good feeder, she will usually be a good milker, a very essential point in a brood sow. One cannot judge accurately of the milking qualities in "N-o, I don't think so. The earl e gilt, but a chunky, heavy boned, short legged sow is not as good a the man who loves as I love you trict, and the function was one at ence with the Government, and could milker as one with a longer body and doesn't speak out is a cur and which every person of standing in bring tremendous pressure to bear at and legs, and less rounded sides. the War Office. But I don't think Under all circumstances avoid line The guests numbered twenty, and he himself is very hopeful. Perhaps that is wild, or nervous, or has a Bon't hold off from me, Madge, un- were representative. The Earl and he fancies that it would only make low back, The legs must be strong less-" his face paled suddenly, Countess of Balfarras, a neighboring the unfortunate affair more public and straight. The sow must stand baronet, his wife, and two daugh- than it is. I'm afraid I've bored entirely on her toes and should show

she drooped her head, that he might wives; a couple of officers from the fact is my brother is always drum- The age at which to breed depends not read in her eyes the love-the garrison town; the rector and his ming the business into my ears, and on the maturity more than the age. in our employ for the past three all absorbing, passionate love, that wife and son; and a celebrated au- I've caught something of his enthus- A gilt that has been properly hand- months. During that short period led will weigh 200 pounds or more he has had the most unfortunate ex-"I am not bored in the least," at eight months, and ought to raise periences of anyone that we know, rang like music in the young fellow's When a young sow has only a few three grandmothers during his short less mother, she should be sent to enough to secure his services we Every now and then Seymour the meat barrel at once. But if would strongly advise you to insert she is a good milker, and attentive the grandmother clause in any to her young, she should be tried agreement you may make with him. again, for the second litter will usu- Also, singular to say, he was always ally be larger than the first. If her the first to be attacked with any second litter shows increased num- prevailing epidemic in his neighborbers, and the first one developed in- hood. Another matter worthy of to good hogs, she might be retained notice is that we could never get for a breeder until a better sow can him to agree with our office clock be obtained.

FEEDING ORCHARD TREES.

as much plant food as the rest of senger did not get to see him. a portion. Too often orchards get of his devotion to duty. about the same attention as forest He writes shorthand, but he is so to private companies .- London En- proven the most satisfactory. This wishing to waste his time we decidmay be due to the fact that by the ed that he shauld take our correuse of it, both humus and plant food spondence in longhand. are given to the soil. There may be "We treat our cook just like one soils so rich in plant food that ferof the family," said Mrs. Gilfoyle. tilizing would be wasteful, but they Behind them were the glare and He had never seen Irene in her "We don't," added Mrs. Poindexter. are unquestionably rare. Heavy crops 'fertility of the soil.

Full crops are the ones that make fruit growing profitable and unless the fertility is maintained exhaustion will follow, and the result will be unproductive and unprofitable orchards. Give to the soil such plant food as is required for the development of the tree, or fruit and the feeding question is solved. But a soil rich in all the elements of plant food, but deficient in humus or neglected as to cultivation, will not bring the desired results. To supply humus and fertility nothing excels the leguminous plants.

MERITS OF DRY FEEDING.

The dry feeding system is meeting with increasing favor. Breeders who have tried one season of it, says the A pig several months old have more uniform growth with the of charcoal. From these the fowls take their choice, balancing their Mine is a winter dairy. I have own rations as they do in the sum-

It has not been very long since farmer's flock laid an egg, yet they continued to pay the grocer. Where For mature hogs, the temporary, there is a variety of grains it is not quarters and really have access to

FLOW FROM THE SEA.

An African Lake.

Lake Assal is a small body of very salt water lying seven or eight miles inland from the Bay of Tadjoura, one! of the French possessions in East! Africa. It comprises only about sixteen square miles. It is surrounded by a wonderful! confusion of jagged mountains, descending to the water's edge, so that it is almost impossible to travel around it. Its waters are salt to the point of saturation, and its lowest level there is seen upon its bank layer of nearly pure salt over a foot!

For years nobody knew whence it derived its water. The few men who visited it could not ascertain that any stream flows into it. It was thought that the lake probably had subterranean affluents, but this theory was not demonstrated. The mystery of Lake Assal was solved in 1885 by the French explorer, Henry Audon. He carefully examined the shores, though he found it very difficult, His hard work was at last rewarded by the murmur of a waterfall. Guided by the sound, he approached the spot, and the solution of the enigma was before him. He found a large brook of crystalline water foaming over the stones and throwing itself impetuously into the lake. He tasted the water and found it as salt as the ocean, of which indeed it had been a part.

Lake Assal lies considerably below the surface of the sea, It has been ascertained that the water that pours into it comes from three brooks which flow from the Gubbet el Karab, a little bay at the extreme western end of the Bay of Tadjoura.

The waters of the Indian Ocean are carried inland to fill this depression in the interior, and when they reach Lake Assal they are about 400 feet below the level of

THE CLERK'S TESTIMONIAL.

The bearer, John James, has been His watch was generally about ter minutes behind it, especially on re suming his work in the morning.

Indigestion was somewhat severe While this is done by some in a on hir: as on Monday mornings he systematic way, the great mass of had occasion to stay away frequentfruit trees are not receiving any ly; indeed, so bad was he one day special attention as to feeding. Often when we sent down for him that he the orchard has to produce crops in had been compelled to hurry away the farm rotation with only about to the doctor himself, and our mes-

the farm received. This is better | We never knew him to be absent than no feeding for the trees will on Saturday morning, our pay-day. appropriate to themselves at least which, of course, is another instance

Yours truly, BLAND & CO.

People can be much more sweets the din of the fair, above them the "war paint," and to-night she was "We don't dare. We are polite to of fruit are a severe drain upon the tempered after a fist-fight than and argument with their torgues.