RICHMOND HILL, April 13, 1905

Two young men have been in the village since Friday claiming to be engaged in religious work. They held forth the first evening in front of the Palmer House, and we understand have since held meetings in private houses. They are not connected with any church or denomination, in fact they are opposed to churches. There are people in this village, as there are in all villages, who are willing and anxious to listen to strangers, but sensible people will always be ready to admit that the churches have done, and are doing, a good work.

Rev. C. W. Gordon, pastor of St. Stephen's Presbyterian church, Winnipeg, and better known as "Ralph Connor," preached in Bloor St. Presbyterian church, Toronto, Sunday evening, and calmly took up the North-West school question. He asked his hearers to refrain from hasty judgment and concluded a dispassionate review of the present situation in the following words:—"This is not a matter to be settled by angry men, by ambitious men, by revengeful men, by party men, but by Christian men—and Canadians."

A few days ago Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., dared the Government to open up North York or Centre York, saying that he longed to try conclusions with the Postmaster General or Mr. Arch Campbell. Of course the Government did not take up the challenge, but what an excellent opportunity now presents itself to test public opinion on the great question before the country. The promotion of Mr. Oliver to a position in the Cabinet necessitates an election in Edmonton, N.W.T. If Mr. Maclean does not offer himself as a candidate people cannot be blamed for saying that another bluff has been put up by the courageous (?) member for South York.

Loyal Orange Lodge, Toronto Junction, has passed a resolution condemning the Federal Government for the clauses dealing with education in the autonomy bill, congratulates Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., on the stand he has taken in opposing the obnoxious clauses in the bill, and adds in the resolution that "we also consider that Mr. Arch. Campbell, M.P. for Centre York, is deserving of the strongest censure for giving out that it is his intention to vote for the bill, and we pledge ourselves on any and all occasions to use our vote and influence against him or any other member, whether federal or provincial, who will support any such measure."

Mr. Frank Oliver, M.P. for Edmonton, has been sworn in as Minister of the Interior, succeeding Hon. Clifford Sifton. The newly-appointed minister states that he is quite in accord with the Government's policy as regards the Northwest autonomy bill, though he adds "the bill was perhaps not the height of human wisdom." Mr. Oliver justifies his course by saying that "the educational law which has been in force for the past thirty years in the Northwest Territories is simply to be perpetuated. During those thirty years no member of parliament nor any other person has made any move to bring in a bill abolishing the conditions as they have existed."

When talking or writing about the school clauses in the Northwest autonomy bill we would commend a number of the clergymen and church newspapers to the calm and earnest words of "Ralph Connor," Rev. C. W. Gordon. That Presbyterian minister from Winnipeg is a believer in "Provincial Rights," but he recognizes the fact that there are two sides to the question, which should be approached, not in an angry spirit but in a Christian spirit. The first page of last week's Christian Guardian contained a full column of items bearing on the schools under discussion, and every item was written from a party standpoint. If The Guardian hopes to retain its reputation as a religious newspaper it should be prepared to discuss public questions not in a party spirit, but in a Christian spirit.
