

SOUND ADVICE.

The license commissioners for North Oxford have set a good example for officers holding similar positions. They have addressed a circular to license-holders, making certain sections clear, and advising hotel-keepers to observe the law not only in letter but in spirit. The hotel-keeper that pays no attention to the warning should not expect sympathy if he gets into trouble. We take the following from the circular:—

"The law now is that you must not sell to minors, order or no order. Do not forget this. Do not sell to weak men, men who you know are injuring themselves and begging their families through drink. You must know these men and you should refuse them drink and so instruct your help. Do not suffer any loafing about your place, outside or in. If a man is seen coming out of your place, or loafing in the neighborhood of your place drunk, it gives your place away. Keep the law strictly as to Saturday nights and Sundays. Keep your premises tidy and allow no unseemly conduct about."
