WM. TAGGART'S KIDNEY DISEASE CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Well-known Tilbury East Farmer Tells How Easily He Got Rid of His Trouble.

Tilbury, Ont., July 31—(Special).—Mr. Wm. Taggart, a well-known and highly esteemed farmer of Tilbury East, tells of his remarkable cure of long standing Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For about four or five years," says Mr. Taggart, "I was a sufferer from Kidney Trouble, and the scores of medicines I used gave me no relief. I was forced to get up three or four times every night and my life was simply miserable."

"At last I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and I get relief from the first. After using two boxes I was completely cured, and you can bet I was a happy man. I cannot speak too highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

All urinary complaints are caused by diseased kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the kidneys and therefore always cure urinary complaints.

AN ANSWER READY.

Even a severe criticism may be divested of its severity by a happy answer that changes its meaning, and it is often no less fortunate to be able to turn a good-natured one. Sir John Watson Gordon, who ultimately became President of the Royal Scottish Academy, used to tell this story of Lord Palmerston:—"I had exhibited for several years, but without any particular success. One year, however, Lord Palmerston took a sudden fancy to my picture called 'Summer in the Lowlands,' and bought it at a high price. His lordship at the same time made inquiries after the artist, and invited me to call upon him. I waited upon him accordingly. He complimented me upon the picture, but said there was one thing about it he could not understand."

"What is that, my lord?" I asked. "That there should be such long grass in a field where there are so many sheep," said his lordship, promptly, and with a merry twinkle of the eye. It was a decided hit, and, having bought the picture and paid for it, he was entitled to his joke. "How do you account for it?" he went on, smiling, and looking first at the picture and then at me.

"Those sheep, my lord," I replied, "were only turned into that field the night before I finished the picture." "His lordship laughed heartily, and said 'Bravo!' at my reply, and gave me a commission for two more pictures, and I have cashed since then some very notable cheques of his, dear old boy!"

EVER TREAT YOU SO?

Coffee Acts the Jonah and Will Come Up.

A clergyman who pursues his noble calling in a country parish in Iowa, tells of his coffee experience.

"My wife and I used coffee regularly for breakfast, frequently for dinner and occasionally for supper—always the very best quality—package coffee could never find a place on our table."

"In the spring of 1896 my wife was taken with violent vomiting which we had great difficulty in stopping."

"It seemed to come from coffee drinking but we could not decide. In the following July, however, she was attacked a second time by the vomiting. I was away from home filling an appointment, at the time, and on my return I found her very low; she had literally vomited herself almost to death, and it took some days to quiet the trouble and restore her stomach."

"I had also experienced the same trouble, but not so violently, and had relieved it, each time, by a resort to medicine."

"But my wife's second attack satisfied me that the use of coffee was at the bottom of our troubles, and so we stopped it forthwith and took Postum Food Coffee. The old symptoms of disease disappeared and during the 9 years that we have been using Postum instead of coffee we have never had a recurrence of the vomiting. We never weary of Postum, to which we know we owe our good health. This is a simple statement of facts." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

PERSONAL POINTERS.

Interesting Gossip About Some Prominent People.

There is a singular coincidence about the two English Royal Princesses named Louise. They are both the daughters of British monarchs, they are of very fair complexion, and both married out of the blood Royal. Each also selected Scottish peers—the Dukes of Argyll and Fife—both of whom are as fair-skinned as their wives. Still further goes the coincidence, for neither of the Royal duchesses has presented her husband with a male heir.

One of the most picturesque characters in Europe is the Countess Schimmelmann of Denmark. She devotes her life to missionary work. For eight years she has travelled extensively in heathen lands. She sold nearly all her property, and out of the proceeds bought the Pigeon, a vessel with which she visited fifty-seven cities in fifteen countries, preaching the Gospel to sailors and the poor. She has founded religious journals in England and America. This method of spending money does not appeal to her relatives, who do not share her views. She has adopted three children and given them her name.

The Empress of Russia spends $10,000 a year on perfumes, pastes, soaps, and toilet waters, which she has sent her exclusively from the French capital. Violet is Her Majesty's favorite scent, but her taste in perfumes is so catholic and general that every day she vaporizes the Royal apartments with the concentrated essences of lilac, jasmine, narcissus, jonquil, tuberose, and white violets. The Empress's toilet water is perfumed with violets, which are gathered specially at Grasse between five and seven o'clock in the evening—the time when, according to Her Majesty, their perfume is the most delicate.

Some time ago, when King Oscar of Sweden was on his way to Norrland, the Royal train stopped at Solleftea Station. The platform was deserted by all save two bowing officials, the stationmaster and the captain of police. "Where are my people?" the King sternly inquired. "Your most gracious Majesty," the stationmaster humbly replied, "I have excluded everybody from the station while your Majesty is here." There was a look of annoyance on the King's face as he said: "Then I will go out to greet my people." And so he did, and was rewarded by the hearty welcome which he received from the crowd outside the station.

The Japanese Emperor's yearly expenses of living are limited. For this purpose he draws $3,000,000 from the national treasury. His personal wealth is not to be spent on his own living, so that $3,000,000 is really his salary as manager of the country. He is required to pay out of it a good many employees. The Emperor's daily fare is Japanese. He is perfectly satisfied for breakfast with a bowl of bean soup and a few other dishes, but his dinner usually appears in splendid style, in some twenty courses, although he always denounces it as a useless extravagance. When any official feast is held—the cherry-blossom viewing party at the Kioshikawa Botanical Garden or the chrysanthemum party at the Akasaka Palace, for instance—he will not spare any expense in preparing an elegant European banquet.

Princess Irene, the wife of Prince Henry of Prussia, enjoys the unique distinction of having more godfathers than any other woman in the world—namely, 4,000. Born in the course of the war of 1866, her father, Prince Henry of Hesse, requested the officers and men of the Hessian regiments forming part of the cavalry brigade under his command to stand sponsors to his baby-girl, and at the christening, which took place on the termination of hostilities, deputations of officers, non-commissioned officers, and men from each regiment were present in order to express in the names of their respective corps the readiness of the latter to assume the customary spiritual, moral, and material obligations towards their god-child. The name Irene—which means peace—was given to the little Princess, whose christening was coincident with the end of the war.

CHINESE DOCTORS CONSULT.

The Richer the Patient the Larger the Number of Doctors.

A physician has just returned from China, heavily laden with stories of Chinese medicine.

"Medical consultations are carried to their extreme limit in China," he said. "There, when anyone becomes seriously ill, a consultation of fifteen or twenty doctors is held. The doctors fill the house with their arguments. They make as much noise as a political convention. But such a consultation as that would be considered small and futile if a great man—a mandarin, say, of the third class—were to be ill. To consult on his case at least 100 doctors would gather together."

"A member of the royal family was taken sick while I was in China, and my Chinese host told me with a good deal of pride that the largest consultation known to history had been held over the sick man. No less than 316 physicians, he said, had come from every part of the kingdom to study and discuss the case."

"The royal patient, I heard afterward, died. This mammoth consultation had been held in vain."

MAKING THE PANAMA HAT.

Material is Costly and they Are Woven by Hand.

Much misconception exists as to the construction of the Panama hat. Many are under the impression that they are made in Panama and are woven under water. The latter belief is entirely wrong, though it is true that the majority of Panamas are made in South America. A large number now, however, are made in London and also on the continent.

The hats, of course, are made of grass. It is very scarce, and can only be obtained from Ecuador, Colombia, and Guayaquil in South America. It costs about $1.25 per pound wholesale price. It is very fine material, about 18 inches to 24 inches in length. It takes a woman from seven to ten days to weave a hat, working eight hours a day. It is then bleached a pure white, and after being thoroughly seasoned by giving them a sun-bath they are passed to the pressing department for the final touches.

The cheapest Panama made costs about $4.00 wholesale. The reason why they are so dear is because they are made by hand. The finer the straw or grass the dearer the hat. Probably the highest price ever given for a Panama was $700, which was the sum paid only two summers ago for one of these wonderful creations.

SOLDIERS' TEETH.

One of the Points of the Reform in British Army.

According to the new instructions, British army officers commanding are to see that the medical officers report upon the physique of all men under their command, with a view to seeing if they are fit to remain in the regiment, and elaborate directions are given as to what constitutes fitness.

Great stress is laid upon the state of the teeth. The volunteer, if he is to remain on the force, must have sufficient sound teeth for proper mastication, while he must be free from all organic disease, and have a first-class constitution. Any defects which would prevent a man marching well or going on active service will also be fatal. Generally he must come up to the physical equivalent of nineteen years, and not be over 45. But even if a man passes these tests satisfactorily, before he is to be counted as fit for active service he must be reported as a first-class shot.

Reports on these points having been completed, the officers commanding are to inform the War Office of the number of fit and unfit under their command, in the latter case specifying the causes of unfitness. The duty is also cast on officers commanding of stating whether in their judgment unfit units should be disbanded or amalgamated with more efficient corps.

QUAINT WEDDING CUSTOM.

At Eglingham, Northumberland, England, a quaint wedding custom, which has been in existence for hundreds of years, still prevails. There was a wedding in the parish church the other day, and after the ceremony the newly-married couple found that a bench had been drawn across the doorway. Over this bench the bride and bridegroom were compelled to jump before they could leave the sacred building.
