The presentation was made at the Sunday School. Miss Lily Reaman read the following address, and Miss Annie Wood presented the gifts.

To Mr. W. Tyndall and Mr. E. Baker: DEAR FRIENDS.—We, as members of Carrville Methodist Sunday School, greet you on the eve of your departure from among us, and desire hereby to assure you of the very kindly feeling we entertain for you, and to place on record our sincere appreciation of your splendid services rendered, and the interest you have always shown in connection with our school.

We deeply regret that the time has come when your life-work calls you to leave us. And, although we would not wish you to remain when duty calls, we wish to express to you how much we shall miss your presence and help.

It will afford us great pleasure to remember the work done by you and we consider your activities in the Sunday School and church life generally to have wrought an incalculable good in influencing the lives of many touched by you and by your work.

You will please accept this address and these little gifts as a token of our esteem for you and as a remembrance of days gone by.

Our earnest prayer is that rich blessing and prosperity may be yours through life, and when we are done with all things here may we meet in the Heavenly Home to part no more.

Signed on behalf of the school,
Mrs. Wm. Cook, Superintendent.
