T. F. MCMAHON, CLERK! Worth.

Ho For "Local Option!"

Let the words as with a trumpet, Through our land resound: With a thousand echoes piercing, To its utmost bound.

Till each village, town and city, As in links, we gain, Girding all our vast dominion, With its mighty chain.

Waking up the sleeping Christians with the clarion notes, Till each roused to earnest action, As a christian votes.

Sweeping from our land the stigma, With the franchise broom, In the cesspool of oblivion, Finding there its doom.

Bringing joy and peace to homesteads, Where the hungry cry; Where the money spent in drinking Would home-comforts buy.

Yes! we are our "brother's keeper!" We dare not deny! Forward then! unto the rescue!

Save them ere they die! Snatch them from the monster's clutches! Ere it be too late! Free them from his cruel bondage!

Do not hesitate! Save the boys from the temptations, Which beset their way, From the stratagems that lure them,

'Tis a slice of Prohibition, From the giant loaf; Let us take the meted portion, Till we get enough.

Ere they go astray.

Use it with profound thanksgiving, Work with might and main; Faithful in the granted measure, We will more obtain.

Though the powers of darkness threat Countless be your foes; In the strength of right to conquer,

Fearless, wrong oppose. To the winds all weak excuses; They will give you pain. In the future, if some loved one,

By the curse is slain. Let not fear of loss deter you, Act as in God's sight; Greater blessings will reward you,

Keep your armor bright. P. L. GRANT. Richmond Hill, Nov. 9, 1905.

NORTH YORK

Aylesworth and McCallum nominated -McCallum and Maclean absent.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Postmaster General, and Mr. Arch. McCallum, a farmer of King Township were nominated at the Town Hall, Newmarket, yesterday, a contest made necessary by the retirement from the Cabinet of Sir William Mulock. Mr. A. S. Williams was named as Mr. Aylesworth's agent, and Mr. J. D. McKay as Mr. McCallum's agent. Neither Mr. Mc-Callum, Mr. W. F. Maclean, M. P., Mr. T. Herbert Lennox, M. P. P., nor any Conservative spokesman was present at the nomination, and naturally this singular occurrence was much commented upon. After the Returning Officer, Mr. S. H. Lundy, declared the nominations were closed, Mr. W. C. Widdifield took the chair and opened the proceedings with a short ad- follows :dress. The chairman invited Mr. Mc-Callum, or any person on his behalf, to address the meeting, but although the Conservative candidate was in Newmarket, neither he nor any person on his behalf responded.
