WALKER MADE FIRST MATCH.

But the Druggist's Invention Was Not a Success.

In the nineteenth century—the century in which so many wonderful things were done—the fourth step in the development of the match was taken. In 1827 John Walker, a druggist in a small English town, tipped a splint with sulphur, chlorate of potash and sulphid of antimony and rubbed it on sandpaper and it burst into flame.

The druggist had discovered the first friction chemical match, the kind we use to-day. It is called friction chemical, because it is made by mixing certain chemicals together and rubbing them. Although Walker's match did not require the bottle of acid, it nevertheless was not a good one. It could be lighted only by hard rubbing, and it sputtered and threw fire in all directions.

In a few years, however, phosphorus was substituted on the tip for antimony, and the change worked wonders. The match could now be lighted with very little rubbing, and it was no longer necessary to have sandpaper upon which to rub it. It would ignite when rubbed on any surface, and there was no longer any sputtering match, the match with which we are so familiar.

After the invention of the easily lighted phosphorus match there was no longer use for the dip-splint or the strike-a-light. The old methods of getting a blaze were gradually laid aside and forgotten. The first phosphorus matches were sold at 25 cents a block—a block containing 144 matches—and they were used by but few.

Now a hundred matches can be bought for a cent. It is said that in the United States about 150,000,000,000 matches are used a year. This, on an average, is about five matches a day for every person.

THE SPAN OF ANIMAL LIFE.

The span of human life seems of late to have been extending under favorable conditions, and it exceeds that of most animals. Camels live for forty or fifty years, cattle, at most, thirty, sheep eight or nine, and dogs about fourteen. Instances are on record in which elephants have lived 150 years in captivity, which were of unknown age at that time of their capture, and it is believed that they may reach 300 years. Whales have, it is thought, a still longer span, and there is the well-known instance of longevity in the tortoise which was captured in 1693 and was killed by an accident in 1753. Among birds the eagle and the swan seem to enjoy the longest spell of active life, and among fish the record seems to be held by carp, which have been known by authentic records to live 200 years. Pike and river trout may attain respectively to ninety and fifty years.

Mrs. Littlewit (proudly): "Only just think! Charles has gone to address a public gathering." Friend: "I didn't know he was a speechmaker." Mrs. Littlewit: "Nor I; but he has been called upon to make a statement before a meeting of his creditors."

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION.

How Food Headed off the Insidious Disease.

The happy wife of a good old-fashioned Mich. farmer says: "In the spring of 1902, I was taken sick—a general breaking down, as it were. I was excessively nervous, could not sleep well at night, my food seemed to do me no good, and I was so weak I could scarcely walk across the room. "The doctor said my condition was due to overwork and close confinement and that he very much feared that consumption would set in. For several months I took one kind of medicine after another, but with no effect—in fact, I seemed to grow worse. "Then I determined to quit all medicines, give up coffee and see what Grape-Nuts food would do for me. I began to eat Grape-Nuts with sugar and cream and bread and butter three times a day. "The effect was surprising! I began to gain flesh and strength forthwith, my nerves quieted down and grew normally steady and sound, sweet sleep came back to me. In six weeks' time I discharged the hired girl and commenced to do my own housework for a family of six. This was two years ago, and I am doing it still, and enjoy it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

A Sure Cure for Headache.—Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

"Why have you never married, Miss Antique?" he thoughtlessly inquired. "You never asked me before," she said coyly, as she gave him her hand.

A queer-looking customer inserted his head into an auction room, and, looking gravely at the knight of the hammer, inquired, "Can I bid, sir?" "Certainly," replied the auctioneer, "you can bid." "Well, then," said the wag, walking off, "I bid you good-night."

To Those of Sedentary Occupation.—Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

DEATH TRAPPINGS STOP WEDDING

Bridegroom Regarded Them as Augury of Bad Luck.

A funeral, a wedding that was to be, and a broken engagement are the principal features of an extraordinary lawsuit which will shortly be tried in the Paris courts.

In the will of Mme. Marris, an eccentric old woman who died not long ago, was a proviso to the effect that $14,000 should be spent on her funeral. The heirs spent all they could, but found when they had concluded the arrangements that they had a few dollars still in hand. To get rid of this they gave orders that the black and silver draperies put up over the door of the house on the occasion of the funeral should be left for five days.

Another resident of the house, whose daughter's nuptials were to be celebrated, objected to the trappings of woe, and asked the concierge to remove them, and when the prospective bridegroom saw the funeral signs he saw, too, he said, an omen of ill-luck, and broke off the engagement.

The father of the disappointed bride has now begun an action against the landlord, holding him liable for the concierge's action in not removing the draperies.

AND THEN HE WENT.

Little Brother (to sister who is sitting with her fiance)—"Do you know what I think?"

Sister—"No, what is it?" "I think if I were not in the room Mr. Jones would kiss you." "You impudent boy! Leave the room instantly."

STRANGE.

"I don't suppose he meant anything unkind," said the young woman, "but it was a very startling coincidence." "What do you mean?" "Just before Harold and I got married his friends persuaded him to join a 'don't worry club.'"

He: "Did I ask you to marry me last night at the dance?" She: "Good gracious, no! Why?" He: "Well—er—you know, I got excited, and I often do silly things when I'm like that."

The Poisoned Spring.—As in nature so in man, pollute the spring and disease and waste are bound to follow—the stomach and nerves out of kilter means poison in the spring. South American Nerve is a good purifier, cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and tones the nerves. The best evidence of its efficacy is the unsolicited testimony of thousands of cured ones.—76

One of the most wonderful things in the world is the amount of good advice we can get along without taking.

There is no turning a windmill with a pair of bellows and there is no turning in your chair if you have lumbago or lame back, but it would be quite easy if you had "The D & L" Menthol Plaster on your back.

HE HAD.

Life Insurance Agent—My dear sir, have you made any provision for those who come after you?

Harduppe—Yes, I put the dog at the door, and told the servant to say I'm out of town.

So popular is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup as a medicine in the treatment of colds and coughs or ailments of the throat, due to exposure, to draughts, or sudden changes of temperature, that druggists and all dealers in patent medicines keep supplies on hand to meet the demand. It is pleasant to take, and the use of it guarantees freedom from throat and lung diseases.

HER FAVORITE.

Miss Younger—"What is your favorite musical instrument?" Miss Elderly—"The mandolin." Miss Younger—"Oh, of course; there is a man to begin with."

Heart Sick People.—Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is a heart tonic that never fails to cure—is swift in its effects—goes closer to the "border land" and snatches from death's grip more sufferers than any other remedy for any family of diseases and ailments in the category of human sufferings. Gives relief in 30 minutes.—75

"Now, were you drunk or sober?" enquired the magistrate of an Irish defendant. "Neither, sorr," replied the defendant; "I'm a teetotaler."
