

DOUMA ANGRY AT THE CZAR

Amnesty and Land Scheme Are Definitely Rejected.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The crisis in Russia's destinies has grown more acute, the outlook is dark, and no man can foretell the final issue. The Government in its declaration to the Douma on Saturday granted universal suffrage, but refused complete amnesty and expropriation of the lands, the two demands on which the people through the Douma insist in the same spirit that the American colonies resisted taxation without representation in 1776.

The Douma responded at once with a demand for the dismissal of the Ministry and the appointment of one representative of the country. Thus the issue is drawn.

The Crown's address through Premier Goremykin is specific enough; nevertheless the impression is widespread that the Government has no fixed policy, and many believe that the Czar will yield much more under greater pressure.

There is not the slightest doubt that this pressure will be forthcoming, but the perilous question arises, Will the later concessions suffice to save the throne? In other words, can a revolution be averted?

THE DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

When the Douma met on Saturday morning the Ministers were present for the first time. Premier Goremykin read the Ministerial programme, which is the reply to the Douma's address to the Czar.

The statement declared that the Government was fully prepared to lend its entire support to an elaboration of the main points suggested by the Douma, provided they did not go beyond the limits of legislative initiative assigned to the Douma. The Council of Ministers, the Premier said, must exercise special caution in regard to questions raised by the Douma on immediately satisfying the needs of the rural population and placing the peasants on an equal footing with other classes; of satisfying the requirements of the work people; of framing a measure for obligatory elementary education; of making the wealthier classes liable for the payment of taxes and of reorganizing the provincial administration and introducing a system of self-government with special consideration for the peculiar conditions in the frontier provinces.

TO COUNTERACT ABOVE.

The council, the Premier said, attaches no less importance to the suggested law of liberty of the subject, of conscience and of the press and the freedom of meeting and association, but it considers it necessary when preparing such laws to provide the administration with such effective means as will enable the Government to prevent and counteract any abuse of the liberties conceded.

With reference to the solution of the agrarian question with the help of Crown appanages and monastery and Church lands, and by the forcible expropriation of private lands and property, which includes the private property of the peasants, the council, the Premier declared, holds it to be its duty to declare such a mode of settlement absolutely inadmissible.

ONLY PARTIAL AMNESTY.

In regard to amnesty, Premier Goremykin declared that the pardoning of persons convicted of whatever form of crime they may have committed was the prerogative of the monarch. The council considered that it would not be beneficial to grant amnesty to persons implicated in murders and acts of violence. The Cabinet had taken steps to procure the release of those by whom the public safety was not threatened.

Dealing with the Cabinet's intentions in the legislative field, Premier Goremykin declared that the welfare of Russia was unattainable so long as the prosperity of agriculture was not assured.

The reforms announced by the Emperor, the Prime Minister declared, cannot be thought of so long as the power of law is not firmly established. The council will place in the forefront of its labors the question of the creation of local courts of justice on lines which will simplify the change of procedure in trials from the present system.

BOMBS AT SEBASTOPOL.

A despatch from Sebastopol says: Several bombs were thrown here on Sunday while a review of troops was being held after the Te Deum in celebration of the anniversary of the Emperor's coronation. Three persons were killed and several wounded. Among the wounded are the commander of the fortress, General Neptueff, who received slight hurts, and the chief of police, who was gravely injured. Other high dignitaries escaped. Vice-Admiral Chouknin, commanding the Black Sea fleet, who is a special subject for terrorist revenge, was not present. Two of the bomb-throwers were arrested.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: Despatches received here concerning the bomb outrage during the review of the troops after the celebration of the anniversary of the Emperor's coronation at Sebastopol on Sunday say that eleven persons were killed, including five children, and that over one hundred persons were wounded. The despatches also say that four arrests were made.

WHITE MAN LEADS REBELS.

Forced to Leave Switzerland for Attack on Soldier.

A despatch from Geneva, Switzerland, says: One of the Zulu chiefs who have rebelled against the British Government is a Swiss named N. Doby. Doby was a hooligan in the Village of Schupfer, in the Bernese Oberland. After a particularly brutal attack on a cavalryman, in 1893, he was forced to leave the country, and he worked his way to South Africa.

After being concerned in some transactions which demanded the attention of the police at Durban, he went into the interior to escape arrest. He mastered the Zulu language and finally married the daughter of the chief of a small tribe. On the death of the chief, Doby was appointed in his place. He fought with the Boers during the late war, and when Bambaata revolted, Doby induced his tribesmen to join the rebel forces.

One of the rebel Zulu chiefs frequently mentioned in telegrams from Natal is Ndube, which is the Zulu version of Doby.

LIST OF DEAD STILL GROWING.

San Francisco Coroner Believes 1,000 Perished.

A despatch from San Francisco says: The conflagration death list is steadily lengthening. Four skeletons just found swell the roll which Coroner Walsh thinks will reach beyond 1,000, notwithstanding statements that fewer than 500 were actually killed.

Just five weeks after the fire Payot Upham and Company, the largest jobbing book house on the Coast, opened its vaults on Thursday morning. Instantly everything inflammable in the vaults burst into flames. All the company's books, accounts and records were destroyed.

Every possible precaution had been taken to avoid the very thing that happened. Before opening the vault the services of a chemical engine were secured to extinguish any blaze that might occur. The flames that sprang forth when the doors were opened, however, defied the efforts of the engine crew and not a paper was saved.

THEIR CANOE UPSET.

Two Young Men Were Drowned Near Westmeath.

A despatch from Pembroke says: A very sad accident occurred near Westmeath, Ont., on Thursday morning. Two Westmeath young men, Thomas Dudson, school teacher, and Richard Murdoch, telegraph operator, attempted to run Paquet's Rapids when their canoe upset, and both were drowned.

PULLMAN TURNED OVER.

Accident on the Intercolonial near Amqui, Quebec.

A despatch from Montreal says: The rear Pullman car of the L.C.R. Maritime express, due on Sunday, jumped the track and overturned near Amqui, Que., about four hundred miles from Montreal, at 5 o'clock on Sunday morning, and though it carried twelve sleeping passengers, none of them were reported seriously injured. The escape was rather remarkable, and may be attributed in part to the low embankment and to the immediate action of the emergency brake, which operated automatically, owing to the break in the coupling. The car lay on its side, and so severe was the jolt that all the lower windows were smashed and the framework badly wrenched. The front Pullman was forced from the track, but did not turn over. It is supposed the accident was due to spreading rails, even though the engine and three colonist cars had passed over safely. When the passengers in the overturned Pullman regained composure and managed to get out, they observed that if the car had left the track a few yards farther ahead they would have been hurled over a fifty-foot embankment to a stream of water.

SLIDING INTO THE RIVER.

Ogilvie Elevator at Fort William in Danger.

A Fort William despatch says: The Ogilvie Company's grain elevator at this place, which was erected some two years ago, started to slide into the river about nine o'clock on Friday night, caused by the displacement of the pile foundation. The Canadian Pacific Railroad and the other elevator companies promptly rendered all possible assistance, and men were at work all day Saturday making arrangements for the removal of the grain, of which there is about 350,000 bushels, a portion of which belongs to outside parties. At the moment it looks as though 75 to 80 per cent. of the grain might be saved, as the bins are intact, and the total loss on grain and elevator will not amount to more than $250,000.

The elevator was designed and constructed by the McDonald Engineering Co., of Chicago. It was of fireproof steel and concrete on a pile foundation, which was driven to the rocks and was tested and loaded to its full capacity the past two seasons, and up to the time of the sudden collapse, it showed no signs of weakness.

ANYTHING FOR A FIGHT.

Zulus in South Africa Spoiling to Get at Each Other.

A London despatch says: The situation in Natal is unchanged. Little news comes through, but early in the week it seemed as if several leading chiefs would lay down their arms. Of the five chiefs who met on Tuesday only one announced his loyalty to the Government and ordered his men to disarm. Two others have since been organizing raids in Zululand. The rebellion continues to draw support from the natives who want to fight each other as well as those who want to fight the whites. This adds to the difficulty of suppressing it.

WANTS 2,000 MORE MEN.

The Pietermaritzburg correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says that Col. Mackenzie has notified the Government that he requires 2,000 more men in order to cope with the rebellious natives. It is the opinion of those at the front that the natives will refuse to stand and fight. The prospect of long guerrilla warfare is certain.

FIVE KILLED AT BALL GAME.

Bolt of Lightning Struck Among Spectators in Alabama.

A Mobile, Ala., despatch says: During a ball game in an open field, three miles from this city on Sunday afternoon, a thunderstorm came up accompanied by vivid lightning, which struck in the midst of a crowd of spectators, instantly killing five persons and injuring about 25 others more or less seriously. They were shocked and knocked down by the stroke, but the majority quickly recovered and were able to leave the scene. The field was strewn with bits of shoes and clothing from those who were killed or seriously injured, and the bodies of the dead presented a terrible spectacle. A silver dollar from the pockets of one of the victims was melted on both sides.

EARTH'S DISTURBANCES.

Shocks Felt at Houghton and Hancock, Michigan.

A despatch from Houghton, Mich., says: The most severe earth disturbances ever experienced in this region occurred at the Atlantic Mine on Saturday. There were more than 50 shocks. Buildings rocked violently, and in several places there are cracks in the earth from two to six inches in width. The shocks were distinct in Houghton and Hancock. No damage was done. Great alarm prevails, and miners and their families are preparing to leave for other points in the copper country.

ALL BANKS OPEN DOORS.

The San Francisco Public May Now Draw Money.

A despatch from San Francisco says: Practically every bank in the city that has been able to secure temporary quarters threw open its doors on Wednesday to the public. There was no sign of a run. Never in the history of San Francisco was there so much bank money on hand.

TRAGEDY AT RAILTON.

Frontenac Farm Hand Avenged Deserter of Home.

A Kingston despatch says: John Joyce, a farm laborer, on Friday morning shot his wife and father-in-law, Cornelius Wood, in a log shanty near the Village of Railton, and then committed suicide by cutting his own throat with a razor. Mrs. Joyce is fatally wounded, and her father lies in a precarious condition, with a bullet in the upper portion of his body.

Joyce, who was 33 years of age, came to Canada as a boy, and had worked for farmers in the district. Lately he was employed by William McAuley, a farmer residing near Railton. Last January he married the 19-year-old daughter of Cornelius Wood, and the two lived together in apparent harmony, although the wife's reputation was not of the best. Last Friday Mrs. Joyce left her husband's home at the solicitation of one of her brothers, and returned to her father's house. This angered Joyce, and the following morning he visited his father-in-law and demanded that his wife return to him. The old man refused, and Joyce, threatening vengeance, went away. In a short while he returned with a Lee-Metford rifle, which he had borrowed.

In the house with Wood were Mrs. Joyce and the wife of Wood's son Angus. They saw Joyce coming and went out to remonstrate with him, but Wood received a bullet in the shoulder, which dropped him. Joyce then forced his way into the house, and in spite of his wife's entreaties, shot her with the cartridge remaining in his rifle. The bullet passed through the stomach and back, and the woman's recovery is impossible. Having shot his wife, Joyce, ignoring her terrified sister-in-law, went outside and cut his own throat from ear to ear.

THOUSANDS KILLED BY FLOOD.

Chinese Walled City Destroyed by Fire Survivors Fear Famine.

A Victoria, B.C., despatch says: The steamer Teucer, just arrived from Japan and China, brought further advices regarding the disastrous floods of the Hai-Nang-Hao, in China. All the valleys along the river were inundated, homes swept away by hundreds, and thousands of men and animals drowned. At Hsiangtu fire broke out and the greater part of the walled city was destroyed. This news was telegraphed by the Japanese Consul at Hsiangtu, who says that, although an immense loss of life occurred among the Chinese, none of his nationality was lost. It is feared that the destruction of the rice crop in the flooded areas may cause an extensive famine.
