EXCELLENT EGGS.

Eggs a La Suisse.—Four eggs, one-half cup cream, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons grated cheese, salt, pepper, cayenne. Heat a small omelet pan, put in butter, and when melted add cream. Slip in the eggs one at a time, sprinkle with salt, pepper and a few grains of cayenne. When whites are nearly firm sprinkle with cheese. Finish cooking and serve on buttered toast. Strain cream over the toast.

Eggs a la Buckingham.—Make five slices milk toast and arrange on platter. Use recipe for scrambled eggs, having the eggs slightly underdone. Pour eggs over toast, sprinkle with four tablespoons grated mild cheese. Put in oven to melt cheese and finish cooking eggs.

Eggs a la Finnoise.—Have ready a shallow pan two-thirds full of boiling salted water, allowing one-half tablespoon salt to one quart of water. Put two or three buttered muffin pans in the water. Break each egg separately into a cup and carefully slip into a muffin ring. The water should cover the eggs. When there is a film over the top and the white is firm carefully remove with a buttered skimmer to circular pieces of buttered toast and cover with tomato sauce, seasoned with salt and pepper and butter.

Shirred Eggs.—Butter an egg shirrer. Cover bottom and sides with fine cracker crumbs. Break an egg into a cup and carefully slip into shirrer. Cover with seasoned buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until white is firm and crumbs brown. The shirrers should be placed on a tin plate that they may be removed easily from the oven.

Eggs in Tomatoes.—Cut a slice from stem end of tomato, scoop out the pulp, slip in an egg, sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake.

Eggs a la Goldenrod.—Three hard-boiled eggs, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, five slices toast, parsley. Make a thin, white sauce with butter, flour, milk, and seasonings. Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Chop whites finely and add them to the sauce. Cut four slices of toast in halves lengthwise, arrange on platter, and pour over the sauce. Force the yolks through a potato ricer or strainer, sprinkling over the top. Garnish with parsley and remaining toast cut in points.

Egg Farci.—Cut hard-boiled eggs in halves crosswise. Remove yolks and put whites aside in pairs. Mash yolks and add equal amount of cold cooked chicken or veal finely chopped. Moisten with melted butter or mayonnaise.

CELERY SALADS.

Celery and Apple Salad.—Pare three fat apples and cut into dice; mix with two cupfuls of celery; cut into half inch lengths. Arrange lettuce leaves with cups for individual serving; fill with the apples and celery; pour over a plain French dressing just before serving. Posy tinted apples, having a slice cut off the end to make them sit firmly, and carefully hollowed out, make a pretty receptacle for this salad. The apples should not be prepared long before serving, as they turn dark after they are cut.

Plain Celery Salad.—Wash and cut into small pieces the white stalks of two bunches of celery. Arrange lettuce in cups for individual serving, pile little mounds of the celery in each, and dress with mayonnaise.

Chicken and Celery Salad.—Chop two and a half cupfuls of cold boiled chicken into dice, and one cupful of celery into small pieces. Mix well together and marinate with a French dressing. Chill thoroughly, pile in lettuce cups, and pour over a little mayonnaise.

Celery and Nut Salad.—Remove the shells from about two dozen English walnuts, turn boiling water over the meats, let stand fifteen minutes, then drain, remove the skins, and break into small pieces. Cut an equal quantity of celery into small pieces, mix with the meats, marinate with French dressing, heap into lettuce cups, and dress with mayonnaise and garnish with whole walnut meats.

Celery and Tomato Salad.—Wash and wipe the tomatoes, cut a cap from the stem end of each, and remove the seeds and pulp. Mince the celery fine, mix with French dressing and the tomato pulp, pile it in the tomato cups, and dress with mayonnaise.

Celery and potato salad.—One cupful of cold boiled potatoes, cut into dice an equal quantity of celery, finely minced, and one teaspoonful of minced parsley. Mix well together, marinate with a French dressing, and set away to chill thoroughly. Arrange on lettuce leaves and garnish with hard-boiled eggs cut into circles.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

A little chloride of lime dissolved in warm water makes an effective deodorizer for vessels to which the odor of kerosene clings.

Do not waste time and strength ironing knit underwear. If folded down smoothly when taken from the line these garments will need no ironing.

If whitening is used for polishing glass put it in muslin bags. Dampen the glass slightly, then rub with the bag, and polish with crumpled newspapers.

If cold water is poured on grease immediately after it has been spilled on the table or floor it will harden it so that it can easily be removed with a knife.

Shellac poured over the worn places in granite ware and the vessel held over the fire so that the shellac can cook hard, will make them usable for a long time.

To freshen up old potatoes and withered apples soak them in cold water over night. The potatoes should be pared, but the apples should be soaked with their skins on.

To prevent cheese from molding wrap in a cloth wrung out of vinegar, then roll in paper.

A screen is indispensable in a sick room, for it is needed to keep the light from the patient's eyes, to guard the bed from draughts or to shut out the sight of medicine bottles or any corner of the room where work is done. An emergency screen may be made by using a small clothes horse for a frame. It should be enameled in white, then a pretty figure or cretonne stretched and tacked to it; before tacking on a number of pockets should be made on one side; in these pockets may be kept woolen and linen cloths, articles for portlisses, absorbent cotton, surgeons' scissors, a box of mustard papers, a hot water bag, a clinical thermometer.

Cement for Broken Glass.—Plaster of Paris, mixed into a paste with white of egg, makes a strong cement for mending broken glass or china; and another excellent cement is made as follows: Into a small bottle press as much isinglass as will fill it, then pour in by degrees unsweetened gin, which will gradually dissolve the isinglass if the bottle is kept in a warm place.

The era of the divan made out of a barrel is over, but many pieces of furniture which are the outgrowth of special needs are often satisfactorily developed from irrelevant beginnings. A set of book shelves, for example, with a drawer at the bottom, was produced recently from an old-fashioned walnut dressing bureau. The marble top was removed and the fine oval toy swing glass taken out of its frame to serve another purpose. Shelves were fitted in the drawer slides of the upper three drawers, the wood of these being utilized for the purpose, a partition fitted up from the top of the bottom drawer at half the depth of the bureau. This allowed the drawer that was retained to be of its full depth, while preserving a suitable depth for the book shelves. The space thus gained was utilized to pack away magazines, access being gained to it by cutting away the back piece of light board. Of course, the book shelf had to be moved out to get at this recess, and its use simply was that of storage. A top piece was fitted on and stained to match the rest of the wood. When the piece was completed it was much stouter and better made than an ordinary cheap set of book shelves, and the possession of the drawer was a great addition to the convenience of its owner.

FOR PARENTS ONLY.

This world's a rare and joyous place
For those who deem it so,
With smiles enough for every face—
This is no tale of woe.
But yet, when all's been done and said,
Some little children creep,
At cuddling time, unknissed to bed
And sob themselves to sleep.

Their daddy's off at work, somewhere,
Their mammy's tired and worn,
Both burdened down with carking care
From the first break of morn.
Each love-starved young one on the list
Has troubles by the heap,
Yet each must go to bed unknissed
And sob himself to sleep.

Oh, world of sunshine mixed with storm,
Oh world of tears and joy,
Oh, world of frozen hearts and warm,
Oh, world of man and boy,
Less were your sorrow, less your dread,
If, when night's shadows creep,
Each little lad went kissed to bed
And smiled himself to sleep!

TORTURED BY INDIGESTION

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured After Doctors Had Failed.

Mrs. T. J. Jobin, 368 King street, Quebec, wife of the circulation manager of L'Evenment, is one of the best known and most estimable ladies in the city, and her statement that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her of a very severe attack of indigestion will bring hope to similar sufferers. Mrs. Jobin says: "About a year ago I was seized with indigestion which had an alarming effect upon my health. Day by day my strength grew less. I suffered from terrible headaches, dizziness, palpitation of the heart and sleeplessness. I was in this condition for about six months. I consulted two doctors and although I followed their treatment carefully it did not help me in the least. Last October, seeing that instead of regaining my health I was growing worse, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After I had taken the second box there was a change for the better, and after taking the pills for a month longer the trouble entirely disappeared, and I am again enjoying the best of health. I have so much confidence in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I always take them occasionally as a safeguard."

Just as surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Jobin's indigestion they can cure all other ailments which come from bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, red blood. That is the one thing they do—but they do it well. In making this new rich blood this medicine strikes straight at the root of such common ailments as anaemia, headaches and backaches, general weakness, nervous debility, neuralgia, rheumatism and the torturing weakening ailments that afflict women and growing girls. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

One of a thousand good stories of Coquelin, the great French actor, relates that while listening to the reading of a new play he fell asleep. The author, much piqued, stopped and awoke him, asking:—"How can a man who is asleep form an opinion?" "My dear sir," said Coquelin, with a yawn, "sleep is an opinion."

There is only one reigning sovereign who does not smoke at all, and that is King Oscar of Sweden; but the greatest smokers are King Edward, who smokes the very best cigars, and King Leopold of Belgium, who smokes not fewer than a dozen cigars a day. The Emperor of Austria smokes a pipe morning and evening, but the other Sovereigns are contented with cigarettes, the Czar consuming about thirty a day.

The Lord Mayor-elect of London, Sir William Treloar, when he was a youth, desired to enter the Army. On leaving school he proposed to his father that a commission might be procured for him. The father, however, had no encouragement to offer. He would not purchase the commission, he said, but promised that if the future Lord Mayor cared to enlist he would not buy him out. This hint was enough, and the youngster abandoned dreams of military glory.

GAMBLERS INDEX.

Vienna Police Keep Close Tab on Notorious Gamblers.

The Vienna police, with the assistance of the police of most other capitals, have prepared a "Gamblers Index," containing the names of the great professional gamblers and card-sharps of Europe.

This index, in the form of a small lithographed book, has now been sent to the authorities of all large cities and health resorts in Europe.

It contains more than a thousand names, among which are a number of high-sounding titles, such as princes, marquis and count. Most of these titles are, of course, self-assumed, but some are genuine.

To each name a personal description and some biographical details are attached and a reference to the particular methods and tricks employed, such as railway card sharps; billiards, playing dark; false cards; cardsharps with accomplices, etc.

The object of the index is to enable the authorities at health resorts to recognize undesirable characters and expel them as soon as they arrive, the fear of making mistakes having hitherto prevented the police from taking sufficient measures to protect visitors.

BABY'S BEST FRIEND

Baby's Own Tablets have saved many a precious little life. There is no other medicine to equal them for stomach and bowel troubles, colds, simple fevers or teething troubles. They are good for children of all ages—from the new born babe to the well-grown child. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they do not contain opiates or harmful drugs. Mrs. John C. Gildart, Prosser Brook, N. B., says: "I have proved that Baby's Own Tablets are a great help to mothers, and are baby's best friend. They act almost like magic and I will always keep them in the house." The Tablets are sold by druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POCKET TELEPHONES.

In Warsaw telephone subscribers are now supplied with a "waistcoat-pocket telephone," the invention of an engineer named Weingott, and with a little key which unlocks public telephone boxes distributed at convenient street corners and public offices. The pocket instrument is used to establish connection with the "exchange," and to call up subscribers in the usual manner.

QUEER FISHING METHODS.

The idea of catching fish by means of a beehive with a hole in the top of it is a strange enough one. Yet this does not inadequately describe the method employed by fishermen in the Philippine Islands, who clap their apparatus down over the sluggish bottom-feeding fish, and then, putting their hands through the hole in the top, extract their victims.
