Watch Repairing

So often we notice that jewellers charge $1.00 for watch fixing regardless of what the watch really needs, evidently they think that is all the customer is willing to pay when he is in doubt of what kind of job he is getting. We charge for whatever repairs the watch needs, regardless of the sum total, (if the watch is worth it). If it costs too much to our customer we refuse the job. Why? because we do only good work and all good work costs more on account of the extra time it takes. We have charged from 10c. to $19.00 for repairing one watch and our customer was well satisfied because the watch gave good results. We charge whatever the job is worth, it may cost 10c. and it may cost $10.00, and we hold ourselves responsible for our work.
