

CHRONIC CATARRH NOSE AND THROAT

 "At the Advice of Friends I Tried Peruna and the Results Have Been Highly Satisfactory."—So Writes Mr. Pilon.

MR. RAOUL PILON, 116 Rue Notre Dame, Lachine, P. Q., Can., writes:—"I write you a few words to express to you my satisfaction at being cured! I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and nose and suffered much. I was greatly discouraged. I had a bad breath and bad taste in my mouth in the morning.

"I took treatment for some time without obtaining relief. At the advice of friends I tried Peruna and the results have been highly satisfactory. At the end of four months I was completely cured."

Neglected catarrh becomes chronic. Having developed into the chronic stage, a longer and more persistent treatment will be required to cure it than if the disease were treated at the onset.

However, Peruna will bring relief, whether the catarrh is acute or chronic. If you are wise you will keep Peruna on hand and take a few doses at the first appearance of a cold or cough, and thus save yourself both suffering and expense.

Patients have the privilege of writing to Dr. Hartman for free advice. A book on "Chronic Catarrh" will be sent upon request.

INTELLIGENT ELEPHANTS

HUNDREDS EMPLOYED IN SAW-MILLS IN BURMA.

These Giant Workers May Give Place to Machinery in Another Decade.

To see the working elephant in all his glory one must go to Burma, the centre of the teakwood industry. Some of the great sawmills of Maulmain and Rangoon employ hundreds of elephants some with and others without a mahout or driver.

The companies own immense timber concessions, and each year a certain number of trees are marked for cutting down. Those so marked are girdled to prevent the sap rising. This causes the tree to die.

In three years it is quite seasoned and dry. It is then cut down, the branches are looped off, and one, two, or three elephants are attached to it by chains to haul it to the nearest stream.

The creek in which the elephant has deposited its log may be dry in the timber cutting season; nevertheless the creature continues to pile log after log in the bed of the torrent against the time when the monsoon shall break and wash the accumulation of logs into one of the main rivers.

When this is done men collect at various points and examine the various owners' marks. The logs are sorted and bound into rafts, and a family of Burmans forthwith installs itself upon each, and bulials.

A LITTLE HUT OF BAMBOO

and leaves in which to live while the big raft of teak logs is coming down the river to Rangoon.

When the rafts arrive opposite the saw-yard herds of working elephants are in waiting to heave the logs out of the water and take them to different parts of the mill. They display an intelligence almost human; and when the dinner bell rings at midday logs are dropped in every direction and the ground fairly shakes as hundreds of tuskers scamper off to dinner like playful children let out of school.

When the logs have been sawn other gangs of elephants move dexterously about among the huge circular saws, avoiding them with extreme care, clearing away debris, and in a marvellous manner discriminating between mere rubbish and the sawn planks. Then the elephants stack the latter so carefully that the edges are not injured.

Most amusing is it to see one of these working elephants tackling a huge squared log and placing it on the stack. First of all he estimates its length and weight as it lies on the ground. Then he digs his tusks under it at one end, curls his trunk over and tries to drag one end of the log on to his tusks.

Should he find the task beyond him he will give a queer little trumpet note, and up comes a colleague to help him at the other end. In a moment the two elephants have swung the big log between them, walk in step to the pile, and then one of them, apparently by preconcerted agreement, places his end in position on the stack, while the other rams home the log.

Every timber yard has its own particular show elephant, more intelligent than the rest, and one belonging to Messrs. MacGregor & Co. of Rangun was in the habit of TURNING ON A WATER TAP and helping himself to a big drink, though he could never be induced to turn the water off again. Similar obstinacy and occasionally bad temper is often shown, and the mahouts are very highly paid, for they live always in the risk that the huge brutes may turn upon them and kill them, particularly if the mahout has at any time shown cruelty or unkindness.

A Hindu mahout was employed with a working elephant in Bangkok, Siam, and frequently used a steel goad, in defiance of all warnings. The result was that his elephant made frequent attempts to kill him, and finally the man was discharged.

Nearly four years afterwards, by a most remarkable coincidence, both elephant and mahout met again in Maulmain, Burma, and no sooner was the big tusker out of sight of the saw mill and well into the forest than he curled his trunk up backward, seized his old persecutor by the neck, hurled him to the ground, and in an instant a mighty forefoot had crushed out his life.

Each working elephant represents a value of $1,500, and years of experience have shown that until quite recently this was the most profitable form of labor that could be employed in the great forests of Burma and Siam. Now, however, highly ingenious American, German, and British machinery—chiefly portable railroads and steam hoists—are gradually taking the place of the giant workers, and in another decade the independent elephant laborer may be entirely extinct.

Mr. Boaster had his portrait painted. It cost him a goodly sum, and he was proud of it. When it came home he showed it to his cook. "Well, Mary," he said, "how do you like this portrait?" "Sure, sir," said the cook, "it's lovely. It's beautiful. It's divine." "And, of course," said Boaster, "you know who it is?" "Oh, of course I do, sir," replied the cook. "Of course, of course." As she spoke she kept drawing nearer to the picture, studying it more and more closely. "Of course, sir, it's you or the mistress."

A WEALTHY MANITOBA FARMER

Tells How He Spent Three Thousand Dollars in Search of Health.

Physicians were entirely baffled by the case of Mr. Robert Squires, of Shoal Lake, Man. He owns a thousand acres of land in the West, and said he was willing to give it all to be restored to health. His trouble started with an ordinary cold that was neglected. Let Mr. Squires tell his own story:—"I have spent over three thousand dollars in my search for health; have traveled from place to place looking for suitable climate. I came to the conclusion that climate made no difference in curing throat or lung troubles. At the health resorts consumptives died there as at any place else. I determined to find a home remedy. I think I tried every one of the so-called cures for consumption. The only remedy that ever helped me was Psychine, and a significant fact about Psychine is that it is not a 'cure-all,' like the others, but specially for throat and lung diseases. Psychine was the last remedy I tried, and I wish it had been the first. My case was a very bad one, and no hope was held out by any one of the eminent medical men that I would get well."

"A friend advised me to use Psychine. The first few bottles gave great relief from coughing, and seemed to ease the pain in the lungs. Within a month the cough and night sweats had disappeared, and I had greatly regained my strength. I used ten bottles, but my case was a serious one, and I didn't begrudge the cost, for I was completely cured after medical men considered my case hopeless. My lungs are now sound, and no sign of disease whatever is apparent.

"ROBERT SQUIRES, "Shoal Lake, Man." Thousands of others have borne similar testimony to the power of Psychine to not only cure coughs, colds, la grippe, catarrh, bronchitis, chills, night sweats, but also consumption and all wasting diseases. It strengthens the stomach, aids digestion, and builds up the entire system. It is a never-failing remedy.

Psychine, pronounced Si-keen, is for sale at all drug stores at 50c and $1.00 per bottle, or at Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, 179 King Street west, Toronto.

"I believe," said the cheery philosopher, "that for every single thing you give away two come back to you." "That's my experience," said Phamley. "Last year I gave away my daughter, and she and her husband came back to us in August."

Tested by Time.—In his justly-celebrated Pills Dr. Parmelee has given to the world one of the most unique medicines offered to the public in late years. Prepared to meet the want for a pill which could be taken without nausea, and that would purge without pain, it has met all requirements in that direction, and it is in general use not only because of these two qualities, but because it is known to possess alterative and curative powers which place it in the front rank of medicines.

VIOLIN MADE OF MATCHES. German Spends Year on Perfecting Most Unique Instrument.

An upholsterer named Karl Wagner, living at Munich, has constructed a violin entirely out of wooden matches.

The instrument has a good tone and the back is ornamented by a picture of the tower of the famous Frauenkirche. Wagner first made a model of the parts in cardboard, and then glued over them the matches, which are perfectly joined. The cardboard was then removed and the parts put together.

Ten boxes of matches supplied the necessary wood, and Wagner was engaged for a year on the work. He has presented the violin to his son, who is a promising musician.

We must go from heated rooms to the cold outer air, and the change sets us coughing. Curing colds is not hard for Allen's Lung Balm. A neglected cold is troublesome and dangerous.

In Norway a husband and wife can travel by railway for a fare and a half, and the same rule holds good in Hungary.

The merits of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup as a sure remedy for coughs and colds are attested by scores who know its power in giving almost instant relief when the throat is sore with coughing and the whole pulmonary region disordered in consequence. A bottle of this world-famed Syrup will save doctor's bills, and a great deal of suffering. Price 25 cents, at all dealers.

JUDGE LYNCH IN AFRICA.

Whites are Punishing Natives Who Insult Women.

The white residents of Nairobi, East Africa, are adopting lynch law to punish natives who insult white women. The indignation of the Europeans is all the stronger because many cases have gone unpunished by the authorities.

Public resentment culminated recently when the president of the Colonies' Association, assisted by two other Europeans, publicly flogged three negroes outside the court-house. Practically the whole non-official white population were present.

The magistrate and a police officer protested, but did not interfere. The native population are showing unrest. The Government has promised to comply with the demands of the whites that it issue rifles and ammunition. It has appointed a defence committee.

YOUR SUMMER OUTING.

If you are fond of fishing, canoeing, camping or the study of wild animals look up the Algonquin National Park of Ontario for your summer outing. A fish and game preserve of 2,000,000 acres interspersed with 1,200 lakes and rivers is awaiting you, offering all the attractions that Nature can bestow. Magnificent canoe trips. Altitude 2,000 feet above sea level. Pure and exhilarating atmosphere. Just the place for a young man to put in his summer holidays. An interesting and profusely illustrated descriptive publication telling you all about it sent free on application to J. D. McDonald, Union Station, Toronto, Ont.

Author: "I wonder if you have been able to make any use of the novel I sent you, sir?" Editor (rising from his chair): "Certainly; I have been sitting on it for a week."

Something That Should be Rubbed In.—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

"How will the General find room on his chest for those two fresh medals?" "Don't you worry about that. The more medals he receives, the prouder he gets, and the more his chest expands!"

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

NOT ON THE PREMISES.

"If ye please, mum," said the ancient hero in an appealing voice, as he stood at the back door of the cottage on wash day, "I've lost my leg—"

"Well, I ain't got it," snapped the woman, fiercely. And the door closed with a bang.

THE WRONG MAN.

"Now, my dear sir," said the life assurance agent, persuasively, "I wonder if I might put before you one or two powerful reasons why you should insure your life?"

"Certainly, my dear sir," replied the victim; "fire away. I shall be delighted to listen to you."

Accordingly the life assurance man delivered a lecture of nearly half an hour's duration on the advantages of life assurance, setting forth all the reasons why his listener should insure his life immediately for a large amount. When he was done the other man said:—"Well, that's not bad, but nothing new."

"Nothing new?" asked the life assurance man. "What do you mean?" "Oh, well," said the other, "you see, I'm a life assurance agent myself, and I wanted to see if you had any new ideas to give me."

"I once knew a man who could speak seven languages." "What did he do?" "Kept still most of the time and listened to his wife."
