

THREW HER CHILD INTO SEA

Awful Act of Demented Woman on a Liner.

A despatch from New York says: The story of a demented mother who threw her 14-months' old infant into the sea, and then attempted to follow it, was told by the officers of the steamer Koning Albert, which arrived here on Friday from Genoa. The mother is Mrs. Elomena Aquila, who, with her husband and five of their eleven children, embarked at Naples. One son already was in America. Early in the voyage both Mrs. Aquila and the infant daughter contracted measles and were sent to the ship's hospital. The mother's mind became affected and last Wednesday Mrs. Aquila thrust the infant through a port hole and attempted to follow. A seaman had seen the body of the child fall from the port hole, however, and while the ship was being stopped attendants found Mrs. Aquila trying to force her body through the port hole. She was rescued. No trace of the infant's body was found.

TREES VS. GRAIN.

Trees Take Much Longer to Raise, and This Greatly Increases Their Cost.

A very important distinction between a crop of trees and a crop of grain or other farm produce lies in the length of time it takes to produce each of them.

A farmer, for instance, sows his grain in the spring of the year. It sprouts, goes through the different stages in the blade and the head, and ripens, all in a few months, and in the late summer is harvested. The raising of a timber crop is a different matter entirely. The tree rarely, if ever, is fit to cut (for saw-logs, at least) before it is forty or fifty years old.

Even if the annual crops (i.e., the amount of grain harvested and the annual amount of wood put on the trees) are equal in value, yet the advantage remains with the grain crops. Let us suppose we have an acre of trees which must grow fifty years to reach their best age at which they can be marketed, and are then worth $5000, and that we have beside this an acre of land on which annual crops of grain are grown. Five hundred dollars, divided by fifty, gives us ten dollars as the value of the annual growth in the trees. Let us suppose also that the net value of the grain grown on the other acre is also ten dollars, for purposes of comparison.

Now compare the harvests. On the wood-lot the wood is allowed to grow undisturbed for fifty years, and then, when cut, brings five hundred dollars. On the grain acre, on the other hand, a crop worth ten dollars is taken off at the end of the first year—forty-nine years before any crop whatever is taken off the wood-lot.

Suppose this ten dollars is put away in the bank for the next forty-nine years. Again, at the end of the second year (i.e., two years from the time the tree seeds are sown), we get another ten dollars from the grain acre. Suppose this too, is put in the bank—this time for forty-eight years, of course. And suppose, further, that this is done with each ten dollars received for the grain during all the years following until the wood-lot is cut.

If these yearly deposits of ten dollars are left untouched, we shall, at the end of fifty years, have the following amounts, according to the rates of interest:

With interest at 5 per cent. per annum	$2,000.48
With interest at 4 per cent. per annum	1,526.66
With interest at 3 per cent. per annum	1,127.55
With interest at 2 per cent. per annum	845.80

A calculation such as the above gives very good reason why land, if fertile enough to produce agricultural crops, should be devoted to these crops rather than to forest. Trees will grow satisfactorily on land that is altogether too poor for agricultural crops, and all that the advocates of re-forestation ask is that the land which is too poor for agricultural crops shall be permanently devoted to forest. When that is done, there will be sufficient forest to provide employment for a large number of foresters.

CHURCH PREY TO FLAMES.

Roman Catholic Edifice at Marieville, Quebec, Burned to Ground.

A despatch from Montreal says: The Town of Marieville, which had the misfortune to lose its college only a few weeks ago, has been visited with another disaster in the complete destruction of the Roman Catholic Church, which was burned to the ground on Wednesday morning, with all the contents. The Host in the tabernacle could not be saved, and the sacred vessels and ornaments belonging both to the parish and to the recently destroyed college were all lost, as also were several valuable oil paintings, some of them by famous European masters. The total loss is roughly estimated at $80,000, and the amount of insurance is given as $16,000 only. Four bodies in the deadhouse adjoining the church were rescued with much difficulty.

Large Area of Hematite Ore Discovered—Many Claims Staked.

A despatch from Vancouver, B. C., says: A huge deposit of bog iron ore hematite has been discovered in Quatsino Sound. One hundred and eight claims have already been located. The ground covers 5,600 acres and is believed to be one of the richest iron deposits on Vancouver Island.

FEVER, RAIN AND FAMINE

Acute Distress Among Starving People in China.

A despatch from Shanghai says: The famine-stricken Chinese have been practising cannibalism in localities where the distress is most acute. Authenticated cases have thus far been few, but it is feared that cannibalism will spread unless relief can be more speedily and more widely distributed. The spread of fever continues, and the heavy rains are increasing the general misery. Spasmodic rioting has occurred, but the outbreaks have not been serious. The famine funds total approximately half a million taels. The famine relief organization is taxed to the utmost in supervising the distribution of relief and in managing the relief work, which now employs hundreds of destitute Chinese. The committee is appealing for more volunteer helpers. Large orders for grain have been placed in America, Australia and Manchuria, with the stipulation that they must be filled as promptly as possible.

FOUND DEAD ON PRAIRIE.

F. H. Singer Probably Killed in a Runaway Accident.

A despatch from Lethbridge says: The body of F. H. Singer, a rancher, was found on the prairie on Thursday night, and the news was brought to the city on Friday by Thomas and William Johnson, who found the body. It is probable that Mr. Singer was killed in a runaway on his way home, after taking Mrs. Singer's mother to her home in Lethbridge, as his team returned to his ranch, about twenty-five miles south of the city, about midnight on Tuesday. To allay the fears of Mrs. Singer, two neighbors started to search for the missing man, with the result that about 8 o'clock on Thursday night they found the body about twenty miles from the city.

THROWN FIFTY FEET.

A. Rousseau Killed by a Train at Vaudreuil Station.

A despatch from Montreal says: A. Rousseau, nineteen years of age, whose home was at Isle Perrot, was killed on Wednesday at Vaudreuil Station by being run over by the International Limited. Rousseau tried to run across the tracks in front of the train, but miscalculated the speed. He was caught by the centre of the track and thrown 50 feet. He struck against a board fence, and when picked up and carried to the platform it was found that nearly every bone in his body had been fractured. He was also badly cut and mangled.

DYNAMITE IN A CROWD.

Terrible Explosion in Mine at Dreifontein, South Africa.

A despatch from Johannesburg says: Four white men and fifty natives were instantly killed and three whites and sixteen natives were injured by the unexpected explosion on Thursday night of two casts of dynamite at the Dreifontein mine. One of the white men killed was an American named William Harvey. The explosion occurred at a time when the mine workers were mustered preparatory to going to work. A native tampered with the dynamite, which exploded.

Toronto, April 2.—Export cattle were quiet, with few export buyers on the market. Prices show practically no change.

Much cows are quoted easier to-day, but here are few of them offering.

Hogs are quoted unchanged at $6.90, fed and watered.

PUTS BAN ON THEATRE.

Archbishop Bruchesi Causes Sensation by a Pastoral.

A despatch from Montreal says: A sensation has been caused in Roman Catholic circles by the action of Archbishop Bruchesi, who, in a pastoral issued on Sunday, denounces immoral theatrical productions in general and names the Theatre Les Nouveaux in particular. The ground of the Archbishop's action in regard to the latter theatre is that it posted and advertised during Holy Week a play entitled La Raffale, which he claims is an apology for suicide and which was produced. The Archbishop forbids the faithful to attend the theatre. The same play was produced last year without any objection.

Her clothing was soaked with oil and took fire. She ran out of doors and to a small creek, into which she plunged to extinguish the flames. By this time her clothing was almost entirely burned off, and when she was taken from the icy water she was in a very serious condition. She is a woman of advanced age, and slight hopes are entertained for her recovery.

FOUR BOYS KILLED ON TRACK.

Were Returning to Buffalo From a Hunting Trip.

A despatch from Buffalo, N.Y., says: Four boys were run down and instantly killed by a light engine on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Indian Church Road, near the eastern city line on Friday night. They were returning from a hunting trip, and were walking along the tracks. A passing freight train drowned the noise of the approaching engine, which ran them down. Frank Rose, engineer of the light engine, and Charles Ceushaine, his fireman, said they did not notice the boys on the track until after the accident occurred. It was quite dark at the time, and the dust raised by the passing freight train obscured the boys from view.
