RICHMOND HILL, ONT., Oct. 10, 1907

A solemn and impressive warning against the evils of intemperance was sounded by Rev. Canon Welch in the sermon he preached to the troops of the local garrison and the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts at the service held in the Massey Hall on Sunday. Canon Welch quoted figures from the Chief Constable's report showing that the arrests for drunkenness in Toronto had more than doubled within the past six years, and described the growth of intemperance as an alarming feature of Canadian life. He commented upon the grave amount of excessive drinking among women, and remarked that it was not an unknown thing for members of Toronto society to drink themselves at dances and entertainments into a state in which they were unfit for the company of respectable women. That, he maintained, could be stopped by the women of society if they chose. For the sake of the homes, for the sake of the children, for the sake of humanity, may the women of Toronto take a cue from Canon Welch's solemn words of warning, and guard against intemperance as a sin against God and society.

The Tribune, published at Toronto Junction, came out last week under its new management, with Mr. A. W. Law as editor and manager. The first number in the new series is very creditable, and reads more like the paper did when it was in the hands of Mr. A. B. Rice who became Collector of Customs in 1904.

Mr. A. E. Donovan, Conservative, was elected in Brockville on Monday at a bye-election for the Local House by a majority of over 300. Many reasons are now given for the turnover, Mr. Donovan being the first Conservative to represent the riding for many years. It may be that the personality of the member-elect had something to do with the result. The electors may have been influenced by a promised expenditure of $75,000 on the Brockville asylum during the coming year. It may be that the people are not inclined to interfere at present with the Whitney Government. But it cannot be denied that a good many Liberals in various parts of the Province are just now feeling a little sore because the late leader of the Opposition was translated from a position where he was very much needed to a seat in the Dominion Cabinet which might have been satisfactorily filled by some other worthy statesman.

OCTOBER CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

The part that Lord and Lady Dufferin took in Canadian affairs during the time that His Excellency was Governor-General here should be familiar to all Canadians, and therefore an article entitled "The Dufferin Family," by Margaret Eadie Henderson, in the October Canadian Magazine, is of unusual interest. Miss Henderson tells about incidents in the life of this distinguished Irish family quite apart from what might be regarded as their purely public affairs. The October number contains other important contributions. Prof. Adam Shortt has an article entitled "A Personality in Journalism," being an appreciation of Mr. J. A. MacDonald, Editor of The Toronto Globe. The following contributions are also included in the number: "Canadian Art and Its Critics," by J. A. Radford, illustrated; "The Deer of British Columbia," by Allan Brooks, illustrated; "Canadians in Telephone Development," by Randolph Carlyle, illustrated; "The Irony of British rule in India," by Saint N. Sing, besides a number of other articles and five short stories.

THE BEAUTIFUL LESSON.

If you love, love more. If you hate, hate less. Life is too short to spend in hating anyone. Why war against a mortal who is going the same road with us? Why not expand the flower of life and happiness by learning to love, by teaching those who are near and dear the beautiful lesson? Your hands may be hard but your heart need not be. Your form may be bent or ugly, but do you know that the most beautiful flowers grow in the most rugged, unsheltered places? The palace for care, the cottage for love. Not that there is no love in a mansion; but somehow if we are not very careful, business will crowd all there is of beauty out of the heart. That is why God has given the Sabbaths and Saturday nights, that we may leave business and have a little heart cleaning.
