MY AMBITION.

If choice were mine of fame or world's glory,
If I might choose of all the world might say
Of me, it would be this, a sad heart's tribute,
The day is brighter for she passed this way.
I ask no plaudits from the hands of many,
No cheering things to mark my onward way,
But just that some dear heart will fondly whisper:
"Your presence here has made a brighter day."
If I can feel that I have scattered brightness,
That I, perchance, have cheered a fainting heart,
I will not grieve that fame has never beckoned
Since love has given me the better part.

Biliousness Burdens Life.—The bilious man is never a companionable man because his ailment renders him morose and gloomy. The complaint is not so dangerous as it is disagreeable. Yet no one need suffer from it who can procure Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. By regulating the liver and obviating the effects of bile in the stomach they restore men to cheerfulness and full vigor of action.

ETIQUETTE OF CHINA TEA.

The etiquette pertaining to tea-drinking in China is curious. If a lady asks you to drink tea with her—and especially if the tea be sweetened—you can count yourself as well received and much liked. If she does not like you, the tea is bitter, and report has it that in cases of this sort drainings are often used. Of course it is needless to say that after one sip of such tea the unliked visitor makes a prompt exit! When paying a call, if the servant should bring in a cup of tea there is no need to take any particular notice of it. Allow the servant to place it where he likes near you, and continue your conversation as though nothing had happened. If your business is pleasant and agreeable to the mistress or the master of the house, he or she will pass the beverage to you; if not, you are expected to leave it untouched, otherwise you are likely to have a quarrel on hand, and a Chinese quarrel—either with a man or a woman—is unpleasant.

No man fears the woman he can flatter.

ISSUE NO. 4-18.

A MOTHER'S SONG.

Baby, listen while I tell
That I love you very well—
Love your little lips and eyes,
Love your language, wonder wise;
Love your little smile of glee,
Love your laughing melody;
Love you for the joy you bring
For our constant harboring!

Baby, listen while I pray
Heav'n to guard you night and day.
Angels watch you from above
With the tenderness of love;
Ill and evil come not near
To overshadow thy young cheer—
Only life and joy be thine,
Gift of living love divine!

Baby listen while I sing
Of your life of golden spring,
Bringing to the barren earth
Beauty of the blossom's birth!
Baby, listen while I tell
That I love you very well—
Cheeks and chin, and nose and eyes,
And your language, wonder wise!

HAND AND ARM ENDANGERED

Neglect a cut or a scratch and it may turn to blood poisoning. Mr. Joseph Laliberté of 34 Artillerie Street, Quebec, says: "I cut one of my fingers on a rusty piece of tin and had no idea it would become so serious, but in two days blood poison had set in and my fingers became terribly discolored, and my hand and arm swollen. I was alarmed and began using one ointment after another, but none relieved me. I was about to consult a doctor when a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. This I did. Zam-Buk began by drawing out the inflammation and in one week the wound was nicely healed. I feel so grateful for my speedy cure that I unhesitatingly give my testimonial to the merits of Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures Cuts, Burns, Chapped Hands, Chafings, Cold Sores, Itch, Cnibains, Eczema, Running Sores, Sore Throat, Bad Chest, Ringworm, Piles (blind or bleeding), Bad Legs, Inflamed Patches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Abscesses and all diseased, injured and irritated conditions of the skin. Of all druggists and stores, 50c., or post paid upon receipt of price, from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. a box, 6 boxes $2.50.

LAUGH.

Alice: "Don't you think a cookery book is fascinating reading?"
Clara: "Yes, indeed, it contains so many stirring incidents."

The Greatest Tonic is "Ferrovin." It is pleasant in taste and contains just the nourishment and strength-giving qualities that are needed by those who are sick and weakly.

Miffkins: "The happiest hours of my life were when I was going to school."
Biffkins: "I cannot tell a lie, old man. The happiest hours of my life were when I was playing truant from school!"

There is Only One Electric Oil. — When an article, be it medicine or anything else, becomes popular, imitations invariably spring up to derive advantages from the original, which they themselves could never win on their own merits. Imitations of Dr. Thomas Electric Oil have been numerous, but never successful. Those who know the genuine are not put off with a substitute, but demand the real thing.

"Here," said a lady to a beggar, "is a glass of water—pure, cold delicious water. What? You refuse it?" He shook his head and sighed. "I have to ma'am," he said. "You see, I've got an iron constitution, and water would rust it!"

No Reasonable Man expects to cure a neglected cold in a day. But time and Allen's Lung Balm will overcome the cold and stave off consumption. Cough will cease and lungs be as sound as a new dollar.

ALTERED.

Tramp: "Madam, I was not always thus."
Madam: "No, it was your other arm you had in a sling yesterday."

Time tries all things, and as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup has stood the test of years it now ranks as a leading specific in the treatment of all ailments of the throat and lungs. It will soften and subdue the most stubborn cough by relieving the irritation, and restore the affected organs to healthy conditions. Use will show its value. Try it and be convinced of its efficacy.

TOWARDS THE POLE.

Ice eight feet thick on the ocean, and snow falling even in summer. Such is the weather experienced in the Polar regions. When the air is dry and still, it is remarkable how low a temperature can be borne with ease. One explorer tells us that, with the thermometer at 9 deg., it was too warm for skating. The summer weather in this region is, moreover, in some respects pleasant and healthful. Within the Arctic zone there are wonderfully-colored sunrises and sunsets to be seen. They are both brilliant and impressive. But the nights—the nights are monotonous and repelling. A rigid world buried in everlasting snow, silent save for the cracking of the ice or the wail of the wind. Travellers in these regions experience many discomforts. The keen air causes their skin to burn and blister, while their lips swell and crack. Thirst, again, has been much complained of, arising from the action of the low temperature on the warm body.

Grateful Patient—"Doctor, how can I ever repay you for your kindness to me?"
Doctor—"Doesn't matter, old man. Cheque, money order, or cash!"

THUNDEROUS MISSILES.

(By A. Banker.)

During the past three or four decades the science of gunnery has made enormous strides, and the modern gun as far exceeds the old 37-pounder of Nelson and Napier as that time-honored old weapon exceeded in fighting value the catapult of the old Romans. The obsolete 100-ton gun, for instance, was capable of throwing a great steel projectile weighing about a ton a distance of five miles, the cartridge being about the size of a sack of coals, and every grain of powder about the appearance and size of the coals in a scuttle. And when the monster was discharged it was necessary for those working the gun to open their mouths wide, or the drum of their ears might have been damaged, and to hold their caps on tightly or they would have been blown off as by a hurricane. Windows, too, of houses within, perhaps, a couple of miles of the fort, if not opened would be blown in.

But the mighty ordnance of the Dreadnought is far more effective than even those monsters, for they throw an enormous shell no less than fifteen miles; one of these guns therefore planted on Epsom racecourse could throw a shell into the Bank of England; and, according to a statement of the greatest British authority on gunnery, if Mont Blanc were situated between those two places the flight of the projectile would be some hundreds of feet above the summit of the mountain. The thunderous, deafening roar of these ponderous missiles as they hurtle in their deadly course is altogether indescribable. It is as though a furious hurricane were raging, a hoarse crashing blast, angrily rending the air with a discordant, grating s'ridor, which, as the distance increases, changes to a snarling hiss; until with a dull thud the projectile strikes the water, raising a fountain of foam high in air, followed half a mile further away by another foaming geyser, as the ricocheting shot again rebounds; sometimes raising quite a long series of these waterspouts right away into the far distance.

But how utterly puny and insignificant are these achievements of man compared with the work of the Omnipotent Creator Who has started on their course through the dread abyss of the illimitable, untold myriads of mighty globes, at a velocity infinitely exceeding that of any cannon ball. And yet this Almighty Being in His wondrous condensation and love has provided a means by which all who have in any way transgressed against Him, instead of receiving the condemnation due to justice, may, if they will, receive a free and immediate pardon. For the atonement made by the Son of God upon the cross is a full, perfect, and complete satisfaction for the sins of all who will lay them upon Him; for He bore the punishment due as their Substitute.

REST AND RECUPERATION.

To provide a restful environment without sanatorium restrictions, to enable tired humanity to recuperate naturally, to secure to the average man or woman the needed change from worry and care, and to do these at moderate cost, is the mission of "The Welland," the home of "The St. Catharines Well."

Apply the manager, St. Catharines, or any Agent of Grand Trunk Railway System.

Accused: "Well, she often told me she didn't want to see me any more."

WON THE PRIZE

At a party recently they were playing a game which consisted in everybody in the room making a face, and the one who made the worst face was awarded a prize. They all did their level best and then a man went up to one of the women and said:
"Well, madam, I think you have won the prize."
"Oh," she said, "I wasn't playing."

CASE OF BRONCHIAL CATARRH PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MR. J. C. HERVUS PELLETIER

Bronchial Catarrh Unless Stopped Often Spreads To The Lungs, Causing Catarrh of Lungs.

J. C. Hervus Pelletier, Dep't de l'Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "The Peruna is particularly efficacious in the cure of catarrhal affections of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and it is in consequence the remedy most appreciated here in Ottawa. Six bottles cured me this winter of bronchitis. I am completely restored and I owe thanks to the Peruna. I have recommended this remedy to a large number of my friends afflicted with the same trouble, and they have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy."

CATARRH of the bronchial tubes often very quickly becomes catarrh of the lungs. Catarrh of the lungs makes the patient an easy victim to the germs that cause tuberculosis. Sound lungs protect themselves against disease germs.

Peruna has acquired a lasting reputation in relieving catarrh of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. This should prevent the tubercular bacilli from gaining any foothold in the lungs, and saves the patient from the inevitable result.

Mr. Wickliffe R. Smith, Editor of The Pollatch Herald, formerly Principal of the Schools at Cameron, Idaho, writes: "For some time I suffered with catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes. I tried many remedies, but could find nothing that would give me relief. "Finally I tried Peruna. Three bottles cured me, made me sound and well. I believe it will do as much for others as it did for me. I shall be glad to recommend it to those suffering with catarrh."

SEATS WERE SAFE.

"It would please me mightily, Miss Stout," said Mr. Mugley, "to have you go to the theatre with me this evening."
"Have you secured the seats?" asked Miss Vera Stout.
"Oh! come now," he protested, "you're not so heavy as all that."

Useful at All Times.—In winter or in summer Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will cope with and overcome any irregularities of the digestive organs which change of diet, change of residence, or variation of temperature may bring about. They should be always kept at hand, and once their beneficial action becomes known, no one will be without them. There is nothing nauseating in their structure, and the most delicate can use them confidently.

THE CURE.

"Doc," said the man who was trying to get a free prescription, "what's the best thing for a cold?"
"Competent medical advice, my friend."

The Effects Produced by Witch Hazel when combined with Menthol as found in "The D & L" Menthol Plaster are truly magical, it being a specific for rheumatism and neuralgia.

Just a Word of caution: Where the skin is destroyed by burns or scalds apply Weaver's Cerate immediately: the sooner the better.

MIXED.

The professor in one of our universities was noted for being very absent minded. It was his custom to call the roll each morning before the lecture. One morning after calling a name to which there was no response, he looked up, and, peering over his spectacles, asked sharply: "Who is the absent boy in the vacant chair I see before me?"

A man who does not mind a joke at his own expense says he went into a chemist's recently and asked for some morphine. The assistant objected to giving it without a prescription. "Do I look like a man who would kill himself?" the customer asked. "I don't know, I'm sure," said the assistant; "but if I looked like you, I should be tempted."

NOT A CASE FOR REPAIRS.
"I wish you'd tell me what ails this watch," said the caller, passing it over the showcase.
The jeweller took the timepiece and looked at it.
"Where did you get it?" he asked.
"At an auction store."
"That's all that ails it," said the jeweller, handing it back.
