

Libby's Food Products

Peerless Dried Beef

Unlike the ordinary dried beef—that sold in bulk—Libby's Peerless Dried Beef comes in a sealed glass jar in which it is packed the moment it is sliced into those delicious thin wafers.

None of the rich natural flavor or goodness escapes or dries out. It reaches you fresh and with all the nutrient retained.

Libby's Peerless Dried Beef is only one of a Great number of high-grade, ready to serve, pure food products that are prepared in Libby's Great White Kitchen.

Just try a package of any of these, such as Ox Tongue, Vienna Sausage, Pickles, Olives, etc., and see how delightfully different they are from others you have eaten.

COST THOUSANDS OF LIVES.

Effect of a Telegraphic Error About a Flood in China.

How a telegraphic error was responsible for the loss of thousands of lives is told by a Shanghai correspondent. The disaster occurred during a freshet on the Han River in the beginning of April.

Owing to heavy rainfalls in the mountains in northwest Hupoh it frequently happens that a torrent of water rushes down the mountainsides into the Han, a tributary of the great Yang-tse. Hitherto warning of the freshets has been telegraphed from Siang-yang, 400 miles away from the mouth of the Han, and on receipt of the news men have been hurriedly sent out, equipped with g-nags, to warn the boats at the mouth of the river to find a safe anchorage.

On the evening of April 6 messengers were sent around with the news that a freshet, six feet high, was on its way down. The inhabitants and the boating population considered a six foot freshet to be of little consequence, and took no precautions whatever, believing that, as in former years, its arrival need not be expected for another twenty-four hours.

Unfortunately the telegram announcing the oncoming torrent was delayed for twenty-four hours and by an error in the wording the height was reduced from twenty-six feet to six feet. The freshet arrived at lightning speed at midnight on April 6. The night was pitch dark, the inhabitants were asleep. Suddenly thousands of boats in the Han River were torn from their moorings and hurled together in a confused mass on the breast of a raging torrent. Deep laden boats were sunk immediately, others were pounded to pieces and some catching fire lit up a scene of appalling destruction.

The people on shore were powerless to assist and the cries of the perishing "rent the heavens and were very painful to hear," as a native newspaper described it. Those boats that escaped the initial onset of the torrent were swept out into the Yang-tse, where a strong northeast gale completed the work of destruction.

Lifeboats were sent out to the rescue, but could render little service. The terror of the night was increased by three huge junks which took fire and drifting toward the foreshore of the British settlement endangered the hulks moored along its front.

The native papers state that a small steamer, 700 large junks and innumerable small craft were destroyed. The loss of life, at first estimated at 2,000, probably exceeded double that number. Eighteen hundred bodies were picked up at one bend of the Yang-tse alone. A number of women and children are among the dead. Thirteen hundred masts were recovered at the same spot.

TO PREVENT CONSUMPTION. Successful Outcome of Experiments by German Scientist.

Mr. Nathan Straus, of New York, who recently established at Heidelberg a laboratory for the purpose of demonstrating to German men of science and health reformers that his method of pasteurizing milk is an effective way of preventing consumption, has just obtained from Professor Feer, of Heidelberg University, a striking testimonial. Professor Feer inoculated ten guinea pigs with milk obtained from cows known to be suffering from tuberculosis. In the case of five guinea pigs, the milk, after having been obtained from tuberculous cows, was pasteurized by the Straus method. In the case of the other five the milk was inoculated into the guinea pigs in its raw condition.

The result of the experiment has been remarkable. The five guinea pigs which were inoculated with pasteurized milk are thriving on it, and remain in excellent health. The five guinea pigs inoculated with raw milk are all suffering from tuberculosis in its most virulent form, and are certain to die. The experiment reveals the grave danger incurred by the use of raw milk taken from diseased cows, and, at the same time, proves that the pasteurization of milk, as advocated by Mr. Nathan Straus, effectively purifies milk and renders it fit for consumption.

ON MAKING FRIENDS.

Do you ever stop to think of how many friends you have? No? Well, it's a good idea to do so now and then. The art of making friends is well worth acquiring. Just sit down and count up how many friends you have gained during the last year, and how many you have lost. The result may be astonishing. People drift apart so quickly in these days. Absorption in business is one reason for this; another is the modern dislike of writing letters; and a third tendency—particularly with the passing of years—to become too self-centred. All these things prevent us making new friends, as well as helping us to lose old ones. Determine to prevent this. It is easy. Look for likable qualities in those you meet, and you will find them. Don't be too cautious about your acquaintances, thus shutting out much pleasure in life. Finally, when you meet someone who is inclined to be friendly to you, be ready to do your part, and it will be plain sailing.

A SPLENDID PRESCRIPTION.

For Rheumatism, and all Kidney, Liver, Bladder and Urinary Affections.

An eminent physician informs us that he has used the following prescription in his practice for a number of years and found it very successful in the treatment of kidney, liver, bladder and all urinary affections, and is unsurpassed for the cure of rheumatism, driving the uric acid entirely from the system. He claims that a very few doses will relieve the most severe pains in the back arising from disordered kidneys and impure blood.

The prescription is one ounce of sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce of compound vinosa and four ounces of syrup of rhubarb, taken in dessert-spoonful doses in water, after meals and at bedtime. These ingredients are harmless and inexpensive and can be obtained at any reliable drug store and mixed together at home.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Truth needs no authority other than its own.

He is good natured whose nature it is to do good.

He does nothing extraordinary who despises the ordinary.

Things always are looking up to the man who tries to lift them up.

Faith in God without friendship with man is like poetry without print.

Nothing worries some folks more than to find trouble taking a little nap.

It is a good thing to watch the man who is over nice about indifferent things.

We never are ready to be lifted up until we have been thrown down a few times.

You are not booked to heaven simply because you are versed in the heavenly book.

The soundness of your virtue does not depend on the volume of sound you can make.

The first step toward cleaning up your neighbor's back yard is taking a hoe to your own.

There is something wrong with a man's prayers when they never choke his utterance.

It is better to give your friends a little lift now than to put a lot of love all over their tombs.

Some men never hear the bugle calls of heaven because they are so occupied with listening for the trumpet of fame.

INDIGESTION CAN BE CURED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Succeed After Other Remedies Fail.

There are twenty drugs to help your digestion for a time, but there is only one medicine that can positively cure your indigestion for good. To any one with indigestion a half dozen boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth all the purgatives and mixtures in the country. After all these things have failed Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the worst cases of indigestion by going straight to the root of the trouble in the blood.

You can take a purgative to tear through your bowels and make a clean sweep of your food, whether it is digested or not. You can take stomach bitters to create a false appetite—if you don't care what happens after you swallow your meal. You can drug your stomach with tablets and syrups to digest your food for you—if you don't care how soon you ruin your system altogether. You can do all these things—but don't call it "curing your indigestion." There is only one way to cure indigestion, and that is to give your system so much good, pure, red blood that your stomach and liver will have strength enough to do their natural work in a healthy and vigorous way. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure indigestion—they actually make new blood. Here is the proof. Mr. R. McCorkell, St. Thomas, Ont., says: "About a year ago my system became generally weakened. My stomach was always in a state of nausea. The sight of any kind of food often turned my stomach and I would arise from the table without eating. Doctors advised different medicines which I took without benefit. Finally I became so run down that I had to quit work. For two months I tried to build myself up with the aid of doctors, but as time went on and my condition did not improve I became much discouraged. Then a friend told me he thought Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would help me, and I began their use. In three weeks time I was so improved that I went back to my work, but I continued using the pills until I had taken twelve boxes, and now my stomach is strong, and I am ready for a good meal three times a day, and life now really seems worth living."

It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, red blood that they cure such common ailments as anaemia, with all its headaches and backaches, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and the secret ailments from which women and young girls suffer so much. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAP BLINDED HIM.

Man Cut Tree in Mexico Was Burned by Acidlike Sap.

While making an inspection of a tract of timber in Michoacan, Mexico, Edward Spendlove came to a peculiar looking tree and struck it with an axe he was carrying. Instantly a quantity of sap spurted from the tree, striking the man in the face and entering his eyes. The sap had the properties of a strong acid and burned its way into the eyeballs and into the flesh of the face. Spendlove was blinded, and physicians say that his eyes have been permanently injured, and that he will never see again.

The tree is thought to be a species of poison oak. The natives in that part of Mexico have known of the dangerous properties of the sap for many years.

IN FINANCIAL CRISES.

Many a bank confronted by a run has saved itself from ruin by artifice. One American bank, just as a run was starting, hired half a dozen men to draw out large sums in cash. These men, with great bundles of greenbacks and with huge bags of gold, would run round to the rear of the building, hand in all that money, and then come and draw it out again. After half a dozen such drawings the run ceased. One banker, on the verge of ruin, got a sack of metal, spread a layer of gold coins on the top, and nailed the sack to the paying-teller's counter. The sack was shown to the multitude that had gathered for a run, and a blacksmith was bidden to lift the sack, if he could. Of course, he couldn't, and the crowd dispersed, satisfied that, with so much gold, the bank was safe. Another dodge is to paint, on the morning of a run, all the woodwork. Wet paint shows the crowd up considerably. Nobody wants to get his clothing smeared.

CHILDHOOD DANGERS.

No symptom that indicates any of the ailments of childhood should be allowed to pass without prompt attention. The little ailment may soon become a serious one, and perhaps a little life passes out. If Baby's Own Tablets are kept in the house minor troubles can be promptly cured and serious ailments thus averted. And the Tablets can be given with equal safety to the new born babe or the well grown child. Mrs. H. Gendron, Martintville, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have found them in every way satisfactory. I always feel safe when I have them at hand." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RUSSIAN EMPRESS ROMANCES.

Marriage of Princess Dagmar of Denmark and Grand Duke Alexander.

How many people are aware that the marriage of the Empress Marie Foodrova of Russia, the Czar's mother, provided one of the most pathetic love stories in the annals of royalty? Look London Tit-Bits.

Before the Empress, who was Princess Dagmar of Denmark, married Alexander III, she was engaged to his elder brother, the Czarevich. In 1865 at Nice the Grand Duke Nicholas fell from his horse and was so badly injured that his life was despaired of. His fiancée hastened to him and never left his side till he breathed his last. The succession to the throne devolved on the Grand Duke Alexander.

He stood by the deathbed of Czarevich, who, in the presence of the Emperor and Empress, placed the hand of the weeping Princess into his, saying to her with almost his last words: "Marry my brother; he is true as crystal, and I wish it."

CANADA'S GREAT CELEBRATION.

There are now subscriptions announced to the extent of about $600,000 for the great Tercentenary celebration at Quebec, and nearly a million dollars will be forthcoming for it.

From an historical point of view it will be the greatest demonstration this Continent has witnessed. From a spectacular standpoint it will be one of the most dazzling combinations of picturesque events ever seen in any country. There will be thousands of characters in the processions, all dressed to the very life. The tableaux on the Plains of Abraham, where the historic battles were fought, will embrace all the transcendent epoch-making events of Canada's romantic history, including Wolfe's work up to his death. The street pageants will be of wondrous beauty; the naval demonstration of an impressiveness not heretofore realized. Quebec will be filled to repletion by thousands from England and the United States, and tens of thousands from Canada, but fully ten million of people will wish to be present, and cannot find hotel accommodation.

One of the greatest matters of anxiety to those organizing the celebration has been the question, how to provide the millions of people who cannot see the celebration with illustrations and descriptions, to give the scenes of grandeur to the world in their entirety. Arrangements have been completed by The Standard of Montreal, now recognized as the National Illustrated paper of Canada, to issue what will be known as "The Standard Tercentenary Number," published by George Murray Publishing Company, Montreal. We have had the privilege of examining the proofs of some of the gorgeous supplements to go with The Standard. They eclipse in interest, in fidelity of detail, in beauty of color and execution, anything ever attempted in Canada, and will bring the Tercentenary celebration right into the homes of those lucky enough to procure a copy.

To connoisseurs The Standard Tercentenary Number is one that expert judges would think could not be sold under $2.50, and yet it is to be published at 50 cents. It will be practically the only Tercentenary Souvenir. The publishers announce that orders are being now looked, and all orders mailed on or before June 20th to June 25th will be certain to be filled. After that date the public must take their chance, first come, first served.

Where orders remitted for cannot be filled, remittance will be refunded. The Publishers of The Standard, 171 St. James Street, Montreal, have gained a continental reputation for their publications. The coming issue, to illustrate the Tercentenary Celebration, will certainly be the most interesting thing of the kind ever produced on this Continent. We predict that in one month after the celebration it will be in demand at even ten dollars a copy.

They cannot begin to issue enough to meet a demand that will be phenomenal. It is a pleasure to testify to the value of a thing of surpassing merit.—Exchange.

HEREDITARY.

"Pa, can I have some money to go to the circus?" asked little Johnny Whitaker.

"Hey?" said Mr. Whitaker.

Johnny preferred his request for the second time with faltering voice and indications of rain on his part.

"Want to go to the circus, hey! Don't you know that circuses are wicked? I never wanted to go to the circus when I was a boy. And what do you want to see at the circus?"

"I—I—w-want to see the w-wild a-animals," said Johnny, beginning to blubber in earnest.

"Want to see the wild animals hey? Don't you twist the cat's tail often enough? Where did you get the love for wild animals? I never cared for them."

"I—I—I inherited it."

"Inherited it! Well, I never! And who from?"

"F-from N-Noah," sobbed the despairing hopeful. The promptness of Johnny's reply was too much for the old gentleman, and he came down at once with the necessary coin.

A TRAITOR TO HER SEX.

"She is a horrid girl!" exclaimed eight-year-old Elsie, she's forever wishing that she was a boy."

"Well," replied Kitty, also eight, "I'm sure I wish I was, too."

"Of course, but she wishes it out loud, so the boys can hear her."

SURE TO GET ONE.

"Mr. Spudlong" began the youth, banging his hat on the back of the chair, "I will occupy only a few moments of your time. I have come to ask you for your daughter. I—"

"Young man," said the elderly banker, "do you—"

"Yes, sir; I realize fully that she has been tenderly nurtured and that she is very dear to you; also that her home is one in which she has been surrounded by every luxury. But she is willing to leave it."

"Can you—"

"No, sir; I can't quite maintain her in the style to which she has been accustomed, but I have a good salary, and I am ready to chance it. So is she."

"Will you—"

"Yes, sir; I would not expect to live with the family. I am able to buy and furnish a modest home for her."

"Young man," said Mr. Spudlong, looking at his watch, "I rather like your style. You can have her. Good—"

TOLD BY THE "GENERAL."

General Booth, as he is called by all his followers, naturally takes his work very seriously. He is not, however, above telling a humorous story even if the laugh is against him.

Here are two anecdotes he sometimes relates in the course of his addresses.

A woman was taken into the Army quarters while intoxicated. On regaining her normal state of mind, and learning where she was, she exclaimed in despair:

"Take me out of here, quick, or I'll lose my reputation!"

Another case the Army workers took in hand was that of an old man who had been so long under the influence of drink that he had forgotten all about himself. Finally, the officials learned the whereabouts of his wife, whom he had deserted, and this telegram was sent:

"We have found your dear husband." Promptly there came an answer. It ran:

"You can keep him!"

In future every Russian soldier will receive a pocket-compass with a luminous needle.

The Cynical Bachelor rises to remark that married life is frequently one grand, sweet song, but with the husband playing the accompaniment.

Black Watch Remarkable for richness and pleasing flavor. The big black plug chewing tobacco.

FATHER & DAUGHTER BENEFIT

RINGWORM AND ECZEMA CURED BY ZAM-BUK

Miss Wilhelmina McCharles of Powassan, Ont., writes: "I have proved Zam-Buk a healing balm for eczema. My father had it very bad on his hands and they were swollen very much. One night he decided to try Zam-Buk. I had previously used it for Ringworm which I could not remove until I tried Zam-Buk. This removed the Ringworm in a very short time. In the morning father's hands were very much improved. He therefore continued using Zam-Buk, and the eczema is now all gone. I hold Zam-Buk in high esteem as a healing balm."

ZAM-BUK
