

WOMEN AND GIRLS HELD BY ANAEMIA

Unless the Blood is Made Rich and Red Health Cannot be Restored.

Throughout Canada there are thousands of growing girls and women held in the deadly clutches of anaemia. Slowly but surely a deathly pallor settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their appetite flicks; their steps languid. Daily they are being robbed of all vitality and brightness. Their sufferings grow more acute if neglected, until the signs of early consumption become apparent. If your wife or daughter or sister complains of weakness, pains in the side, headaches or backaches; if her appetite and temper are uncertain and she is often low spirited anaemia has her in its deadly hold. What she needs is new, rich, red blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People without loss of time, for they actually make new, red blood. They make girls and women well and happy, impart an appetite and steadily bring back the charm and brightness of perfect, regular health.

Miss Carrie McGrath, 26 Fenwick St., Halifax, N. S., says:—"I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. Three years ago I suffered from anaemia in a severe form. I was all run down and as pale as a sheet. I could scarcely eat anything, and what I did take did not seem to nourish me. My hands and feet were much swollen and the least exertion would leave me breathless and my heart beating violently. I seemed to have pains and aches all over. I was so weak I could not even sweep a floor. At different times I was under the care of three doctors, but did not get any better. One doctor said I had dropsy and that my blood had all turned to water. My friends thought I was in a decline and that I had but a short time to live. I was completely discouraged myself, when one day a lady friend called to see me, and told me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured her daughter of anaemia and urged me to try them. I decided to try them, and in the course of a few weeks felt somewhat better. I met the doctor one day and he remarked how much better I was looking. I told him it was not his medicine but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that were helping me, and he told me I had better keep on taking them. I continued to do so until I had taken another half dozen boxes, when my health was perfectly restored. I am more than grateful for what these pills have done for me and strongly recommend them to all weak girls."

Thousands of men and women, now well and strong, praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for having cured anaemia, general weakness, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous disorders, paralysis and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood. These Pills do this by making new, red blood, which feeds the starved nerves, drives out disease and strengthens every organ in the body. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"This dog," said the fancier, "is a perfect type of a setter."
"Well, perhaps he is," rejoined the prospective customer, "but what I want is a hunting dog, not a type-setter."

"Mr. Brown is such a charming companion!" "Never noticed it. He generally says nothing." "Yes; but he says it so beautifully!"

"Truth," remarked the moralizer, "is stranger than fiction." "Yes," rejoined the denier, "and the majority of men seem to be shy of associating with strangers."

"Johnny, you must comb your hair before you come to school." "I ain't got no comb." "Borrow your father's." "Pa ain't got no comb either." "Doesn't he comb his hair?" "He ain't got no hair."

Wife—"Fanny has given notice." Hubby—"Why?" Wife—"She says you spoke in a brutal manner to her on the telephone yesterday." Hubby—"Yesterday? I thought I was speaking to you!"

It Has Many Offices.—Before the German soldier starts on a long march he rubs his feet with tallow, for his first care is to keep his feet in good condition. If he knew that Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil would be of much better service he would throw away his tallow and pack a few bottles of the Oil in his knapsack. There is nothing like it.

"What is the matter with it?" asked the lady. "It bears the date of December 21," was the stern reply, "and your pension was due on December 15." "What kind of a certificate do you wish?" asked the disappointed applicant. "We must have a certificate stating that you were alive on December 15," said the officer, with great firmness.

PROGRESS IN TRANSVAAL.

Hopeful Spirit of Progress Working in Rural Districts.

General Smuts, speaking at a recent meeting at Claremont, said that great progress had been made in the Transvaal during the past five years. Land that was once bare veldt now had large flocks of sheep and droves of cattle on it. Meadles fields were rising all over the country, houses were appearing everywhere, and things were better in many respects since the war. There was a spirit working in the rural districts of the Transvaal which was one of the best and most hopeful signs in the country. People were coping with their difficulties, and working harder than before the war; a far larger area of the colony was under cultivation, and the work was being done by the farmers' own hands and by the sweat of their brows, and not by Kaffirs. This was one of the most encouraging things in the Transvaal to-day.

DISTRIBUTING THE REVENUE.

The reports of the various departments of a great Railway system, would, if made public, often surprise the readers of current news. It has been gathered that the Grand Trunk Railway System has spent, within the past few years, not less than fifteen million dollars in double tracking the main line, and that the pioneer Canadian Railway now operates the longest stretch of double track under one management, in the world.

In addition to this they have spent other millions in stations, shops and other improvements, thus increasing the carrying capacity of the road contributing to the upbuilding of the country, and at the same time affording added security to the lives and property of its patrons which the installation of block signals on a single tracked line could never secure. By the expenditure of all these millions in Canada, they are distributing the Revenue, or a good share of it, among the people.

They can be taken in graduated doses and so used that they can be discontinued at any time without return of the ailments which they were used to allay.

WHERE BABIES ARE NOT BURIED.

Among the Chinese in the the Straits Settlements, and in their own country, it is nothing uncommon for the corpses of infants to be cast away, instead of being buried. The charitable explanation is that this is done to save burial expenses. The "Echo de Chine" gives the true reason as being the deep-rooted superstitious belief among them that the death of a baby arises out of punishment to its soul for sins committed in a previous state of existence. It is an accursed creature, whose coffin no one will follow. It is, hence, a common sight in China to see dying babies laid down by the roadside to breathe their last. The parents will not allow them to die in the house, the belief being that infants, after their death, become wicked spirits. To allow them to die under the parents' roof will bring nothing but evil upon the family.

Butcher—"I need a boy about your size, and will give you three dollars a week." Boy—"Shall I have a chance to rise?" Butcher—"Yes, for I shall want you to be here at four o'clock in the morning."

PIRACY IN 1908.

Piracy is Not so Nearly Extinct as is Generally Assumed.

The seizure of the Neuvre Tigre in the South Pacific, as reported from Sydney recently, might have happened in the days of Captain Kidd. The master and mate were made to walk the plank in the bad old style, after which the name of the stolen vessel was altered to the White Rose, and her course set for the coral islands, on one of which she ultimately went ashore.

Then there was the case of the French ship Baleineen, which was looted by Moorish pirates off Cape Juby last February, and whose crew of nineteen men were only saved from imminent death by the opportune arrival of Lord Mountmorres, who got them by a ruse on board a little thirty-ton yacht he was navigating.

Somewhat earlier in the year, a little further to the southward, a horde of black pirates attacked and looted the German steamer, Ascan Woermann. Near Shanghai, during the same week, two launches were attacked by several hundred pirates while steaming down the river, three passengers being killed and cargo valued at $15,000 carried off; while only the other day a determined attempt was made by nomad Arab tribesmen to capture a British steamer plying on the Euphrates, several of her passengers and crew being killed or wounded by rifle fire.

Nor do the above instances by any means exhaust the list of outrages of the kind that have occurred during the present year, for between January 1st and March 1st, according to an American Consular report, no fewer than eleven craft of various sorts and sizes have been captured by pirates in and about the Philippine Islands.

HOW IT WORKED.

"Are you still trying to kill those cats which were eating your chickens?"

"Nope; they don't bother me any more."

"Have they ceased eating your chickens?"

"Yep."

"How's that?"

"Gee, but you're inquisitive! If you must know, I tried to poison the cats and the chickens got the poison."

Fish hooks have not materially changed in 2,000 years. For that matter, neither have the fish.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

Magistrate (about to commit for trial)—"You certainly effected the robbery in a remarkably ingenious way—in fact, with quite exceptional cunning." Prisoner (deprecatingly)—"No flattery, yer honor—no flattery, I begs on yer."

There is no more obstinate skin trouble than Salt Rheum. It sometimes lingers for years, but Weaver's Cerate makes short work of it. Also, Weaver's Syrup to insure permanent cure.

"I can't decide," she said, "whether to take the hat or not. But is it just the dearest thing I have seen this season?" "The dearest?" asked the husband, with a sardonic laugh. "Then it's certain that you'll take it."

The healthy glow disappearing from the cheek and moaning and restlessness at night are sure symptoms of worms in children. Do not fail to get a bottle of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; it is an effectual medicine.

MILK IN BRICKS.

Summer milk by the brick can now be bought in both Denmark and Belgium. The Belgian government has given a yearly subsidy of about $50,000 to increase the trade. In Copenhagen a firm engaged in this business makes a weekly delivery of 300,000 pounds per week, and a great deal of this goes to distant countries.
