

RACE WAR COST SIX LIVES

Five Men Die as Result of Conflicts in Streets of Springfield, Illinois.

A despatch from Springfield, Ill., says: Following a night of terror and scenes of violence, terrible enough to shake the nerve of the stoutest hearted, Springfield is now (Sunday) comparatively calm. The situation is still tense, however, and renewed outbreaks are feared at any moment.

Troops are patrolling the streets and the city is practically under martial law. Citizens have been warned to remain in their homes and those who venture out on to the streets must pass the challenge of the patrols and sentries. The dead number six. Five more persons are likely to die. Scores of other persons have received more or less serious injuries in conflicts with the troops.

CAUSE OF THE RIOT.

The rioting was precipitated by an assault committed early Friday morning by a negro upon Mrs. Mabel Hallam, wife of a street railway conductor.

Before noon George Richardson, a young negro, was arrested by the sheriff's force, charged with the crime. The victim partially identified the prisoner. Crowds quickly gathered about the jail, but Sheriff Warner's force and the police were able to preserve order until nightfall without difficulties.

After the darkness had gathered crowds assembled in the vicinity of the county jail. Then someone in the crowd mentioned that Harry Loper, the restaurant man, had furnished the automobile in which the escape of the prisoner had been effected.

Short work was made of the restaurant. The automobile in which the rescue was effected had been left in front of the place. It was quickly turned upside down and fire was set to the machine.

While the machine blazed frenzied hundreds poured into the cafe, tore fixtures and decorations from their places, and piled them upon the blaze. Even the sideboards and kitchen were stripped, and all the tableware and dishes piled upon the blaze.

Finally, in a desperate effort to restore order, the cavalry troop was despatched to the restaurant. Then the rioting broke loose in serious form. Shots were fired, and the air was filled with missiles. Many fell in the melee, and it was here that Louis Johnson met his death. After the mob had moved to other scenes, Johnson's body was picked up in the rear of Loper's place.

Attacks were made upon several store buildings in which it was believed negroes had been hidden. Entrance was forced to these places, and stocks of merchandise turned topsy-turvy in the search for refugees.

This is a big cut from his first estimate, but he seems positive that the conditions warrant it.
