

TO PUNISH SLUGGERS.

The police authorities in Toronto have intimated that, so far as they are concerned, they will in future do what they can in enforcing the law against blackguardly players in lacrosse and other matches. It is to be hoped that good will follow this intimation, and that other cities and towns will make up their minds to punish all kinds of ruffianism in the fields of sport. We see no good reason why police officers do not feel it their duty to maintain order in a lacrosse field as they do in the public street. What was formerly a day's programme of genuine sport, witnessed by ladies and gentlemen in the best sense of the word, is now-a-days very frequently nothing more than a brutal exhibition of slugging and roughness. No person should have any respect for the player who has to take an unfair advantage of an opponent in order to win, and those who indulge in brutality should be made to feel the sting of the law. We know that some people take the view that the injured party should take the initiative in the prosecution of the sluggers. That has been tried and it has been unsuccessful. By all means let the officers of the law give us clean, manly sport, and not expect the prosecutions to be carried on by the victims.

THE SETTLED PASTORATE.

A writer in a recent number of the Christian Guardian, referring to the possibility or probability of the union of some of the churches, raises a good point when he says that "if our brethren in the Presbyterian Church have any advantage over us, it would appear to be in the settled pastorate." By all means, whether union takes place or not, let the Methodists adopt the settled pastorate. We believe it is a weak point in that great body to-day. Pastors are human the same as the members of their congregations are. At present superintendents on Methodist circuits are supposed to remain in one place only four years at most. Is it not reasonable that the minister spends a goodly part of the term wondering and planning as to where his family and himself will be "sent" when he leaves his present pastorate? As long as a pastor and his flock are working together in harmony surely it is better that their happy relations be allowed to remain, than to be disturbed by the severance of hand to hand friendships. We thoroughly believe that a settled pastorate in the majority of cases is better for the congregation, and much pleasanter for the clergyman and his family.

Hope.

A very interesting time took place in this vicinity last week, when Mr. Wm. T. Cook, "Pleasant Valley Farm" called his friends and neighbors together to assist him in the raising of his new bank barn, 80 x 30. Mr. J. McLaughlin of Teston was the carpenter and Mr. E. Glover & Son of Richmond Hill made a very satisfactory construction of the stone work. The heavy timbers went together like clockwork and Mr. Cook will have one of the finest barns in this neighborhood when completed. The captains were Mr. O. Nixon of this place and Mr. N. Malloy of Teston. The latter with his able helpers were the winners only by a few points, and were first to surround the tables in the lawn where a superabundant repast with unstinted supplies of the most excellent dainties obtainable had been prepared by Mrs. Cook. About one hundred ladies were present on this grand occasion.

Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill

Will bring their combined Wild West and Far East Exhibition to TORONTO, MONDAY JUNE 28.

An event of unusual interest to people in this vicinity will be the engagement of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East as noted in the above headlines. Varied and wonderful will be the several spectacular scenes and the entire exhibition will take on an educational and historic character, which gives it an interest possessed by no other tented exhibition. An oriental spectacle of gorgeous splendors will be interpreted by groups and delegations from the Far East, introducing Rossi's Musical Elephants as the particular feature of the Oriental scene. The Battle of Summit Springs, a reproduction of the historic Indian conflict in which Buffalo Bill killed Chief Tall Bull, of the Dog Soldiers, will be the principal Wild West scene, participated in by Col. Wm. F. Cody, the original and only Buffalo Bill, who will reenact his original part. The Great Train Hold-up by Indians will picture an early epoch in railroad building, and A Holiday at "T-E" Ranch will typify the pleasures and pastimes of the plainsmen. The World's Roughriders, led in person at every performance by Buffalo Bill, who positively appears, no matter what the weather, will embrace equestrian experts from the world's equestrian nations. Wild riding Bedouins from the sands of Sahara, and the reckless aborigine from our own rolling prairies will ride side by side; both sides of the earth will be typified and the saddleship of many nations will be brought into immediate comparison. Every item in the programme of the Wild West and Far East is real and authentic. The cavalry charges, artillery drills, war dances, roughriding, and Oriental pageants are real and accurate in every detail. The tepees of the Indians are the real prairie homes of the redmen; the trappings of the ponies, the camp outfits, and every stick and stitch of the equipment is just what it is represented to be. And the feature of the saddle, at every performance, of the real and genuine Buffalo Bill, the last of the great scouts. Arrangements have been made with the railroad officials to run special excursions and reduced round-trip rates, so that everybody who so desires may take advantage of their opportunity to visit this world-renowned exhibition.
