

A GOOD SELECTION.

We believe the Toronto Board of Education has done itself credit in votes recently taken. At the last meeting of the old Board a resolution was carried repealing a former resolution to the effect that flags should fly over every public school in the city every day in the year. The hoisting of the Union Jack is a sign of loyalty, but it is doubtful if flying the flag every day would mean as much as displaying it on Empire Day, Dominion Day, the King's birthday, or other special occasions. Canadians are, as they should be, loyal to the core, but loyalty and patriotism should always be tempered with that sanity which distinguishes a moderate and broad-minded people.

The new Board also did well in electing as their chairman Mr. James Simpson, a gentleman who well merits the tribute paid him by his colleagues. It is true the coveted position was won only by the casting vote of the chairman, but when it is remembered the solid "Protestant ticket" was against him he did remarkably well. His opponent for the position of chairman—Mr. Levee—is an active member of the Board, but it is generally thought he takes more interest in questions, such as flying the flag over the schools on the 12th of July, than he does in matters affecting the welfare of the school children. Surely in a city like Toronto, where the population is overwhelmingly Protestant, the people can afford to be generous to those who think differently in minor matters.

THE JANUARY ROD AND GUN.

With the advent of another year, Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., is to the front with a fine issue for January. Running through all the stories—and there are many of them—is that pleasant outdoor tone which always proves a healthful tonic, the plentiful supply of which, in stories and pictures, has given the magazine an assured position. Fishing and hunting experiences are interspersed with camping stories, Indian legends, prospecting tales of the far Queen Charlotte Islands and strange happenings in the backwoods, all appealing in some of their many ways to sportsmen of varied tastes and inclinations. In reading such delightful stories, every one redolent of the actual, one lives over again some of one's own pleasures, thus obtaining a double measure from the outing which yielded so much enjoyment at the time. To begin the New Year well and continue throughout in the same good way, the companionship of Rod and Gun should be secured. If he adopts this course the sportsman will have continual reminders throughout the year of his own outings, and additions to the bright anticipations with which he looks forward to future joys. Of these reminiscences and anticipations no one can rob him, but Rod and Gun adds to both, and makes the year one continual pleasure, no part of which the sportsman will lose if he secures its companionship for the ensuing twelve months.

RUDE BIRDS.

Little Mary, aged five, went to the pond to try her new skates. Some crows were flying overhead. When she returned she said: "Some mean birds laughed at me. When I fell they said, 'Haw, haw, haw!'"—The Delineator for February.

HYSLOP BICYCLES

Bicycles are rapidly coming back into popular favor, the demand this year being five times what it was five years ago. We have planned for it in two ways—by getting the very best English wheel we can for popular selling, and saving to our customers all intermediate profits by filling orders direct by mail instead of through agents. In this way we can offer and give better satisfaction all round. The quality of the wheels is all right — only the best materials used and only skilled mechanics employed in construction. The equipment is right up-to-date and the machines throughout are such as we can thoroughly recommend. We sell automobiles as well as bicycles and our plan is to make wheels serve as a good advertisement to the entire business. Send for illustrated folder.

$50 Wheels for $25
