

Under the heading "A Rebuke for Sir James" The World of Monday quotes from an interview with Sir Alfred Ward, a British member of Parliament, in which the latter expresses surprise that the Premier of Ontario should regard Canadian loyalty as being governed by custom laws and commercialism. The latter part of the quotation from Mr Ward's remarks reads as follows:—

"Sir Alfred expressed much surprise that Sir James Whitney had told the Old Country to get busy or she would lose Canada. 'That is not the way,' he said, 'to get England to do anything, especially in view of the statement of the Premier that Canadian loyalty to the Motherland was not based on self interest.'"
