

OLD PROSPECTOR TELLS HIS STORY
HIS REAL TROUBLES STARTED WHEN RHEUMATISM GOT HIM.

Plasters, ointments and sulphur were alike useless, but Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new man of him.

Princeton, B.C., Nov. 28 (Special)—All over Canada people are telling of the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and even in the rocky mountain fastnesses where nature hides her mines men are telling of cures made and suffering relieved by the great Canadian Kidney remedy. Wm. Murray, sixty-six years old, who has tramped the frontier as lumberjack, rancher, prospector, miner, hunter and trapper, and who has friends all over the west, is one of these. Many a tale of hardship and danger he can tell, but his first real trouble came when Rheumatism claimed him.

"I slipped on the mountain side and strained my kidneys and then my troubles all seemed to set in at once. I had nearly all the symptoms of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Diabetes, Dropsy and Bright's Disease," Mr. Murray states.

"Then I broke out in a terrible rash that spread all over my body and kept me in tortures. I tried all sorts of liniments and ointments and took sulphur enough to start a little hades of my own. But it was all no use. Then I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and all I can say is they made a new man of me."

TO OBLIGE HIM.

Mr. Dorkins—You're always bound to have the last word, anyway.

Mrs. Dorkins—Yes; that's because you always wait to hear me say it.

Relief for Suffering Everywhere.—He whose life is made miserable by the suffering that comes from indigestion and has not tried Parmelee's Vegetable Pills does not know how easily this formidable foe can be dealt with. These pills will relieve where others fail. They are the result of long and patient study and are confidently put forward as a sure corrector of disorders of the digestive organs, from which so many suffer.

SOME CONSOLATION.

Mrs. Gramercy—My husband is anxious to get rid of me.

Mrs. Park—Don't cry, dear. In that case he won't haggle over the alimony.

A Power of Its Own.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has a subtle power of its own that other oils cannot pretend to, though there are many pretenders. All who have used it know this and keep it by them as the most valuable liniment available. Its uses are innumerable and for many years it has been prized as the leading liniment for man and beast.

HIS FAILURE.

"I did hope for an artistic career," said the disappointed-looking man, "but I met with difficulties I could not conquer. What I needed was atmosphere."

"I see; the same old trouble. What were you—an author or a painter?"

"Neither; I was learning to play the trombone, but I was naturally short of breath."

WEATHER PROPHETS.

Rely on Man Who Has "Sort of Feeling He Can't Explain."

It is curious what a number of quite competent amateur weather prophets there are dotted about the country; especially curious when one reflects how incompetent sometimes are their professional rivals. It is a remarkable thing, but the more trouble a man takes to ascertain to-morrow's weather the less success does he seem to enjoy. The man on whom one can really rely is the man who "has a sort of feeling which he can't explain." Weather prophecy is an instinct with some people, and, curiously enough, they are nearly all pessimists. You rarely find them predicting fine weather. It is usually: "I don't like the look of those clouds. The weather's going to break." Or, "See! The smoke is blowing downwards. Sure sign of rain." Quite illogically, one feels a grudge against the pessimistic prophet if his predictions come right. One feels that in some way it is all his fault. Perhaps what we hate in him is his utter unconcern when predicting rain. He seems to be above all human emotions. He never had a baseball game or picnic fixed for next day. To him a wet day means nothing. He would just as soon have it wet as fine. If only he would say: "I hate to have to tell you, and, believe me, if I could have my way, you would find a very different state of affairs, but to-morrow it is going to rain," we should feel better. It is his want of sympathy that madens us. No man has a right to be so detached in his attitude toward a wet day.

 quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs. . . . 25 cents.

It is usually the "good fellow" who has the most bad habits.

Loss of Flesh, cough and pain in the chest may not mean consumption, but are bad signs. Allen's Lung Balm loosens the cough and heals inflamed air passages. Not a grain of opium in it.

"May I ask you a question, pa?"
 "Yes. I hope it is a sensible one, for I'm very busy." "It is, pa."
 "Well, well, what is it?" "What makes people ask questions, pa?"

The efficacy of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in curing coughs and colds and arresting inflammation of the lungs, can be established by hundreds of testimonials from all sorts and conditions of men. It is a standard remedy in these ailments and all affections of the throat and lungs. It is highly recommended by medicine vendors, because they know and appreciate its value as a curative. Try it.

"You served in the war, did you not, Major?" she asked. "Indeed, I did not serve," replied the Major sternly. "I was an officer, and I commanded."

NO PREVENTION.

"What's to prevent me from kissing you?" demanded the bold lover.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the girl. "But it didn't."

Mr. J. W. Stewart, of Foley, Welsh & Stewart, who for the past five years has superintended personally the construction of many hundreds of miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific, is in Montreal. For the past year Mr. Stewart has been almost constantly on the Coast, pushing the work from Prince Rupert to the Yellowhead, where another army under his control is building west and have already reached the Rockies.

ROMANS HELPED RACING.

The earliest mention of horse-racing in England was in the reign of Emperor Servus Alexander (A.D. 210), at Netherby, in Yorkshire, the horses being delicate Arabs of famous breed and stamina. The superiority of the English thoroughbred horse is attributed to the eastern blood introduced by the Romans. Arab stallions were imported during the early and middle ages, and in a more marked degree in the sixteenth and following two centuries. The admixture of their blood with the English strain was most beneficial to the island breed.

Holiness is gladly to say "I will" before the divine law says "Thou shalt."

HAS DOZENS OF USES.

Not a Particle of Waste in the Coconut Palm.

Probably the most useful tree in the world is the coconut palm, every portion of which is put to good use. The trunk is used for building houses, for making furniture and countless other articles; hollowed out it makes a canoe. Its leaves are used for thatching, the leaf stalks for paddles and fishing lines. The blossom in bud makes preserves and pickles, beside serving as a staple vegetable. From the pith is derived a kind of sago and from the flowers sugar, vinegar and toddy, which fermented becomes arrack. The ripe coconut is a valuable article of diet. The white kernel produces a delicious cream, a good substitute for milk, while the oil is used as a lubricant for soap and candle making.

The refuse of the oil is valuable as food for animals and as fertilizer. From the shell drinking cups, bottles, firewood and even tooth powder are obtained. The husk supplies fibre for mattresses, brushes, ropes, cables, nets and even the harness for bullocks. The web sustaining the foot stalks is made into strainers and torches. The tree acts as a conductor in protecting houses from lightning.

Mother—I'm afraid Gwendoline is setting her heart on that young Penniless. Father—You think so? Mother—Well, he is not a fit person for her to marry. He is as poor as a rat and has no prospects. Something must be done to set her against him. Mother—I have thought of that and have hit upon what I think is an excellent plan. Father—Yes? What is it? Mother—We must tell her that we want her to marry him.

More people would take chances if they could put them back in case they didn't turn out right.

An evidence of the progress being made in the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific is to be found in the announcement that a part of the Engineering Staff has been moved from Prince Rupert to Hazelton.
