William H. Goodman was arrested at Braddock, Penn., on the charge of theft from the Bell Telephone Company at Newmarket. Goodman will be extradited. This is a most fitting way of closing the old year and beginning the new.

The P. S. Board are in receipt of the resignation of Miss Brown who has been on the staff for some years. Miss Brown goes to Port Arthur where the salary inducement is greater. That she will be keenly missed in Huntsville is certain. Her amiable social qualities and her always active interest, in the literary activities of the town, have won for her a warm place in the affections of the people.—From Huntsville Forester.

There is one farm paper in Canada that in over twenty years has never missed an opportunity of promoting the interests of the farmer, and has in no small way assisted in securing the passage of every measure that has been obtained for the improvement of his condition. That paper is The Weekly Sun. The Sun's market reports have no equal for accuracy. They are each week of special interest and value to every man who works the land. Every farmer should be a reader of The Sun. Before renewing your subscription to any paper drop a card to The Sun, 61 John Street, Toronto, for their clubbing list.

METHODIST SABBATH SCHOOL
The Christmas services at the Methodist church were most successful. On Christmas Eve the children of the Sabbath School acquitted themselves creditably in their drills, dialogues &c. In the election contest the first prize was awarded to Irene McMahon, and the second to Myrtle Smith. For attendance at the S. S., repeating verses &c. prizes were awarded Alice Knappan, Violet Smith and Helen Benson. The Tree was well laden with presents, including a number of volumes of Gilbert Parker's books, from officers and teachers to the efficient superintendent, Mr. J. H. Sanderson. Sunday morning Rev. G. S. Smith preached an excellent sermon to the children on "The Lilies," and in the afternoon a mass-meeting was held in the church, when Miss Ida Glass gave The Story of the Birth of Christ. In the evening there was a very large congregation who listened with pleasure to the rendering by the choir of that beautiful oratorio "Zion." The collections were most generous during the day.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Christmas entertainment of the Presbyterian Sunday School was given on Friday evening the 23rd inst., with a large audience and a much appreciated programme. The particular feature of interest in it was the dramatic representation of Red Riding Hood in four scenes. The young people of the Sunday School fulfilled their part in excellent style and reflected much credit upon those who had them in training. Santa Claus made his appearance in due time for the distribution of the gifts with which the tree was laden, and had no easy task in the face of the enthusiasm of the boys.

The Presbyterian Guild has on its programme a "Musical evening for Friday of this week.

New Year services will be held in the Presbyterian church next Sunday with appropriate music. The subject of the morning discourse will be "The Backward Glimpse and the Forward Look," and that of the evening
