

DREADFUL ITCHING AND BURNING

White Blisters Spread All Over Head. Scratched Until Mass of Sores. Hard Crusts Left Raw Flesh. Had to Cut Hair Away. Healed by Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Hair Growing Thick.

139 Romaine St., Peterboro, Ontario.—“My little girl's head was in a terrible state. It started with little white blisters, which would break until it spread all over her head. The burning and itching were dreadful, especially at night when she would scratch it until it was one mass of sores all over her head and the pillow would be covered with blood. She could get no rest at all with the pain. She would beg of me to put something on to cool the burning and irritation. Hard crusts would form on her head which when she scratched it would leave the raw flesh underneath, and her hair came off with it or would be in such a dreadful state that I would be obliged to cut the hair away.”

“I tried several remedies but none of them seemed to do any good. I then cut her hair quite close, washed it with Cuticura Soap and bandaged it using Cuticura Ointment. It is now quite healed without a mark on the skin. Her hair is growing nice and thick again.” (Signed) Mrs. M. Saunders, Feb. 13, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card Potter Drug & Cham. Corp., Dept. 36D, Boston, U. S. A.

“CANNIBALS” IN ARGENTINE.

Hunters Feasted on the German's Dead Body.

Don Pedro Lopez, an Argentine sportsman, has been the unwitting cause of an international “incident” between the Argentine Republic and Germany.

He imported stags from Hamburg two years ago. One of them was known as the German. One day a stag was released on the Argentine plains, hunted and after three days' chase killed. The news was sent in a telegram to Don Pedro's son in the following terms: “German killed and eaten; we shared his body; it was simply delightful.”

Being a naturalized German, the telegrapher at the little post office to which this communication was taken did not agree that there was any cause for delight. Instead he confiscated the telegram and informed the German Consul at Buenos Ayres of its contents.

The Consul made inquiries and reported the matter to the German Ambassador; the Ambassador made inquiries and reported the matter to the Foreign Minister at Berlin; the Foreign Minister made inquiries and reported the matter to such good effect that there was a threat that diplomatic relations between Germany and the Argentine would be broken off if the whole truth were not disclosed at once.

Intense excitement was the result in Germany and the feeling of repulsion and indignation grew. Meanwhile Don Pedro and his party, knowing nothing of the agitation they had caused, continued their sport in the remote forest. It was only after a fortnight had passed that the mighty hunter returned to Buenos Ayres to find himself the victim of much execration, and he was promptly arrested. The truth was then brought to light.

A Poser For Teacher.

The teacher was reading the history of England to some of the little pupils. When she came to the statement that Henry I. never laughed after the death of his son, she noticed one of the little girls had raised her hand and seemed very desirous of attracting her attention. “Well, Amy,” said the teacher, “what is it?” “Please, ma'am,” said little Amy, “what did Henry I. do when he was tickled?”

Pinero's Methods.

Britain's foremost living dramatist, Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, has just celebrated his fifty-eighth birthday. As his name indicates, he is partly of foreign extraction, for his father was a Portuguese. His mother was Miss Williams, sister of a noted Trinity Pilot of Gravesend, and it was in that district Sir Arthur spent the days of his youth. He was at one time intended for a business career, and studied at Birkbeck College, but the call of the stage proved too strong. He made his debut before the footlights as a general utility actor at a salary of one pound a week, but the experience he gained has proved of inestimable value, and there is no living playwright who is his superior in stage technique. One of his earliest efforts at writing for the stage was a curtain-raiser for the late Sir Henry Irving, but it was with his striking play “The Magistrate” that Sir Arthur gained his first big success.

Sir Arthur Pinero's method of writing a play is certainly unique, for he first devises the final scene, and from that works back to his opening. When he is about to rehearse a play he has planned out the minutest detail of business. He is a kindly autocrat at rehearsals, and the actor or actress who does not follow his direction is soon brought to task.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours' illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOLD MINERS' LIVES SHORT.

Fifteen Years in Transvaal Limit of Workers' Activities.

The mining of gold in South Africa produces a mortality roll which is appalling. “However healthy” a Transvaal rock-drill man may appear to be on his return to this country,” Dr. Haldane told the British Departmental Committee on Industrial Diseases in 1907, “he will probably be dead within a year or two.”

Miners' phthisis is said to be due to the inhalation of fine dust, which arises not merely from rock drilling without the accompaniment of water spraying but also from blasting operations. Last year more than 1,000 of 3,000 men examined by the Medical Commission were found to have phthisis. No rock-driller could work in the mines for sixteen years and escape it. Death occurred as a rule before the age of 40.

Here is a table which showed at that time how inevitable is the doom of any man who undertakes this work:

Years' service.	Percentage affected.
1/2	1 1/2
2 1/2	25
3 1/2	40
4 1/2	55
6 1/2	70
10 1/2	80
13 1/2	90
15 1/2	100

IN MEMORY OF HIS SON.

Chas. G. Davies Will Erect Hotel for Unfortunates in Chicago.

A hotel for “down and out” men, to cost $100,000, will be erected by next winter by Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, as a memorial to his son, Rufus Fearing Dawes, who was drowned in Lake Geneva last year. Eventually Mr. Dawes will erect a similar refuge for women of the same class.

These hotels had been projects which the father and son had planned to carry out together, and Mr. Dawes, in a statement given out recently, pledged himself to devote all his spare time to carrying out the work his son had long looked forward to.

“In memory of my dear son, Rufus Fearing Dawes, who met his death last September,” said Mr. Dawes, “I shall during the present year inaugurate the work which we had often planned to carry out together, and to which for the rest of my life I shall devote that part of my time not required by business duties.

“As the first step I shall erect on the west side a hotel at an expenditure of $100,000, to be known as the Rufus Dawes Hotel. Lodgings will be furnished at cost, not to exceed five cents. The doors of this hotel will never be closed to those out of employment upon their promise to pay when they find work again. It will extend credit to the unfortunate upon their promise alone. A free employment agency will be run in connection with the hotel. I shall hope later to establish a similar hotel for women.”

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

Missed It.

“Atkins,” said the Sergeant, angrily, “why haven't you shaved this morning?”

“Ain't I shaved?” asked Atkins, in apparent surprise.

“No, you're not,” insisted the Sergeant, “and I want to know why.”

“Well, you see, Sergeant,” replied the soldier, “there was a dozen of us using the same mirror, and I must have shaved some other man.”

SAW NAPOLEON; STILL ALIVE.

M. Schamel-Roy Went to St. Helena, the Emperor's Prison.

There is still a Frenchman alive who saw and spoke with Napoleon and in his childhood played with the King of Rome. M. Pierre Schamel-Roy went to visit his father, who was one of the “caged eagles” attendants at St. Helena, and there was presented to the Emperor.

His most touching reminiscence is that Napoleon showed him a doll which had belonged to his little son, remarking, “It is dirty, as you see. But they were his little hands which soiled it.”

M. Schamel-Roy is a handsome old man of strong features, though sunken face, with a hooked nose and a flowing, silky, snow white beard. He was for many years costumer at the Opera, Paris. He has now a pension from the State of some twenty-six cents a day. M. Schamel-Roy is nearly 106 years old. His father was a soldier's orderly who spent his life in close personal attendance on the great Emperor.

Unreasonable.

“John, you never listen to half the things I say to you,” she complained.

“Well, dear,” he replied, “I have to work part of the time.”

Wire Wounds.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.
