WEAK, TIRED, DEPRESSED

That is the Usual Condition of Persons Afflicted With Anaemia

Anaemia is the medical term for poor watery blood. It may arise from a variety of causes, such as lack of exercise, hard study, improperly ventilated rooms or workshops, poor digestion, etc. The chief symptoms are extreme pallor of the face and gums, rapid breathing and palpitation of the heart after slight exertion, headaches, dizziness and a tendency to hysteria, swelling of the feet and limbs and a distaste for food. All these symptoms may not be present, but any of them indicate anaemia which should be promptly treated with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills make new, rich blood which stimulates and strengthens every organ and every part of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of anaemic people bright, active and strong. The following is one of the many cures. Mrs. Phillips, wife of Rev. W. E. Phillips, Princeton, Ont., says: "Some years ago, while living with my parents in England I fell a victim of anaemia. The usual complications set in and soon I became but a shadow of my former self. My mother, who had been a former nurse of many years experience, tried all that her knowledge suggested; tonics of various kinds were tried, and monizes better with the young girl's three doctors did their best for me, figure than overblouses and boleros. but without avail, and a continued These have been exceedingly popular

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brought about a complete cure and I am to-day in robust health. My husband is rector of this parish and have recommended the use of the Pills to a great number of people with whom we have come into contact in the course of my husband's ministry, for we both know what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can do."

THE PERFECT PIE.

(By Peter McArthur.)

Probably no dish that ever appeared on our tables has caused so much burning as the pie-and I do not mean by that to suggest the connection between heartburn and indigestion. The pie with the hunting case crust has eclipsed many a honeymoon. The unsuccessful pie has been the uncharted rock on the sea of matrimony, the slough of respond on the straight and narrow path. But trates? the good pie, the perfect pie has been from time immemorial the peacemaker, the healer of lovers' quarrels. The great outstanding fact of married life is that man wants pie. As Scott did not exactly say:

marked at the table, "Land sakes, it worse than that. I have known a ought to be good! It was a turrible man to say to his wife: "I wish you job! When the biggest cherry trees that are now laden with ruddy fruit were mere seedlings, that song was as popular as Tipperary is to-day, and there are still merry grandmothers who sing it to their marriageable grandsons when they go a-wooing. In the good old days before there were pie factories where pies are made by machines and should be eaten by machines the making of a cherry pie was the ultimate test of a housekeeper. No girl was accounted worthy of a home who could not make a perfect cherry pie.

And this is the season of the cherry pie! Let me whisper something. Every girl should show that she is able to make cherry pies. Every love-lorn boy should see that the girl he loves is able to make them. A word to the wise is sufficientthough in this case a word to the foolish might be more appropriate. ED. 7.

Eyes in the Dark.

Most of us are familiar by now with the marvellous streams of light which shoot up into the sky every night, switching from side to side in their search for Zeppelins. These searchlights are among the most wonderful of the devices used in warfare.

The candle-power of the lamp is, in some cases, about 25,000. Their precise range has not been determined, but on a clear night they can pick you out if you are very many miles away.
