MAYORS CUT THEIR SALARIES.

Joseph Chamberlain's Son Takes Only Half of $5,000.

Bent on showing their willingness to do their share in practising national economy several of the Mayors of provincial English cities have consented to a substantial reduction in their salaries. Neville Chamberlain, son of Joseph Chamberlain, in the recent elections was made Lord Mayor of Birmingham, with a salary of $2,500, instead of the usual $5,000.

Dr. Charles O'Brien Harding, Mayor of Eastbourne, has accepted a salary of $950, instead of $1,500.

SIR JOHN NIXON.

His Campaign In Mesopotamia Is Highly Praised.

Any day now we may hear from Sir John Nixon, commander-in-chief of the British army in Mesopotamia, of the fall of Bagdad, the great Mohammedan capital of the Far East. Most of Sir John's work has been in India. South Africa, where he led a cavalry division with great distinction, was an interlude—a welcome enough interlude in the dusty business of soldiering under the sun of Southern India. Educated at Wellington, he first served in the King's Own Borderers and the Bengal Lancers. One staff appointment after another kept him in the East, and though campaigning took him once to South Africa and several times to the Hills, he has been long years in the heat. When in April he took over the command of our forces in Mesopotamia, he found himself in the hottest spot on earth. Thirst and sand storms—sand storms that carry no refreshing wind with them, but only sand—have been among his troubles. He has overcome them, and overcome the Turks into the Bargain. Germany is growing a little less confident about a Berlin-Bagdad thoroughfare, and we all know in what terms Mr. Asquith, in his statement on the war the other day in Parliament, referred to Sir John's victorious campaign. "In April," said the Prime Minister, "a second division was added to the force, and the command was assumed by General Sir John Nixon. After a brilliant series, and an absolutely unchequered series, of land and river operations, the Turks were driven back both up the Euphrates and up the Tigris. In July their final positions on both rivers were captured, with heavy casualties, and General Nixon's force is now within a measurable distance of Bagdad. I do not think that in the whole course of the war there has been a series of operations more carefully contrived, more brilliantly conducted, and with a better prospect of final success."

LATEST WIRE TOY SOLDIERS.

A Woman Has Devised Something New.

The children of Europe are so imbued with the martial spirit that it enters largely into their play, and even the stories written for present consumption are for the most part about battles and valiant deeds. To meet this situation a woman has devised something in lieu of the time honored tin soldier, something that will soon relegate the latter to the attic or a like out of the way corner. Her idea has been to create miniature figures so flexible or alive, as she expresses it, that they could assume any natural attitude. It took much patience and no end of pains to work out these diminutive make believe soldiers. She finally hit upon the notion of a wire skeleton wound about with thread to represent body substance. This gave her the desired flexibility, and it was an easy matter then to clothe them suitably. Suitably in Germany meant a garb of field gray, the color of the uniforms worn by the Kaiser's fighting men at the front.

Of course there must be contending armies to give the real complexion of a battlefield, and the enemy is represented in the uniforms of the Allies. The wire foundation of the figures makes it possible to simulate human movements to a nicety, and therefore the make believe soldiers may be posed to represent the digging of trenches, the throwing of hand grenades, the working of guns, the charge of infantry, the toilsome march or the peaceful atmosphere of a camp.

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Bon-Opto tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind, or nearly so, or who wear glasses might never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of a regret. Eyeglasses are only like crutches, and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyes through the prescription here given. The Valmas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

GOATS IN ENGLAND POPULAR.

Club Founded to Encourage Raising of the Animals.

This is the time, when milk is dear and supplies for the householder are limited, that the picturesque and useful goat takes a higher position in the economic scale in England.

Goat keeping by the small holder has increased considerably since the war, and suburban residents, too, have found the ownership of a goat or two less troublesome and more profitable than pigeons, rabbits or even poultry.

In the view, however, of the Rev. A. C. Atkins, founder of the new National Utility Goat Club, the keeping of goats for utility purposes should be more largely extended, and with this aim he is taking a census of all the goats in the country.

Monsieur:

For 15 days in the month of January I was suffering with pain of rheumatism in the foot. I tried all kinds of remedies but nothing did me any good. One person told me about MINARD'S LINIMENT; as soon as I tried it the Saturday night, the next morning I was feeling very good; I tell you this remedy is very good; I could give you a good certificate any time that you would like to have one. If any time I come to hear about any person sick of rheumatism, I could tell them about this remedy.

Yours truly,

Dog Is Quiet Now.

Jones is a meek little man till he's roused; then nothing stops him. The other night Mrs. Jones and he couldn't sleep a wink all night because of the noise their neighbor's dog made.

So Jones declared at breakfast that he'd tackle the owner of the dog on the way to business, and "get this thing settled."

"Well, Joseph," asked Mrs. Jones that evening, "did you do anything about that wretched dog?"

Mr. Jones puffed out his meagre chest with pride.

"Yes, I did," he replied. "I told Brown that if he didn't put a stop to it I'd buy a piano and let both our girls take lessons."

When Soldiers Were Not Paid.

It is gratifying to know that our men in khaki, who, according to Mr. Asquith, are now costing between £250 and £300 a head, receive their pay with commendable promptitude, says the London Chronicle. In the prolonged campaigns of former times our soldiers often received no pay for years, and considered themselves lucky if they then procured a small part of what was due to them. In one of his dispatches, May 27, 1703, Marlborough complains of the great hardships suffered by a certain regiment to whom £5,500 was due, and pointed out that it would "much contribute to the service if some part of it were paid to enable the colonel the better to clothe his regiment and the officers to support themselves in the army."

STARVATION IN POLAND.

Memorial Urging Better Industrial Conditions.

Pleading that 3,000,000 persons dependent on the industries of Poland are starving, the Workmen's Union of Poland has sent to the Governor General, Herr von Beseler, a memorial urging the re-opening of the factories, the adoption of a protective tariff and the return of machines, mechanical fittings, and especially belts and gears, which were taken out of factories and workshops during the early days of German occupation.

The memorial states that "the working population of Poland includes 350,000 workmen in factories, 60,000 in the building trades and 590,000 in small industries." Including the families of these workmen, this industrial population reaches a total of 3,000,000 persons, with a normal income of about $150,000,000 a year.

A certain proportion of this population, it is stated, has been sent to Germany, and another section is receiving aid from former employers—where the latter are still able to help. "But there is still a great mass of people who are actually starving," says the memorial, "and for the sake of these persons it is advisable to put at least some of the factories into operation, especially the sugar, vinegar and yeast factories, mills, breweries, sawmills, brick yards and foundries."

The memorial deals briefly with the question of articles commandeered by the German military authorities, stating that the complete confiscation of all raw material would paralyze industry, and that enough machinery should be left in the factories to enable them to continue in partial operation.

The customs tariff promulgated on June 22 by the German commander is criticized as unsuitable, because it fails to protect Polish industry, and even in normal times would bring about its ruin. Therefore the establishment of the old tariff is asked. There is a further demand for a lowering of railway rates, which are alleged to be now on a burdensome and impossible scale.
