DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED WHEN DOCTOR'S FAILED.

Mr. M. A. Morrison Suffered From Kidney Disease for Five Years—Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Tarbot, Victoria Co., C.B., June 12th (Special.)—Cured of Kidney trouble of five years' standing and of which three doctors failed to cure him, Mr. M. A. Morrison, a well known resident of this place has no hesitation in stating that he owes his health to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was so weak I could not walk a quarter of a mile and to-day I am able to attend to my work as well as I was twenty years ago," Mr. Morrison says. "For five years I suffered from Kidney Disease. I was treated by three skilful doctors but got no benefit.

"Then a friend advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. I went to the druggist and got five boxes. Before I had used four boxes I was completely cured.

"I advise anyone suffering from kidney disease to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Anyone who wants to know more about my cure has only to write to me and I will tell them all about it."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are no experiment. They have been curing kidney disease in all parts of Canada for a quarter of a century. Ask your neighbors about them.

COTTON IS KING.

Germans May Have Nothing to Wear Next Winter.

The economic aspects of the war were little understood in 1914, especially on this side of the Atlantic.

Indeed, many people made inquiry as to why financial publications should devote so much space to the war. Now that Germany in her economic isolation is calling loudly for peace, the interwoven relations of modern finance and commerce become steadily more apparent, especially with rubber in Germany $3.00 per lb. and copper there 80c. bid, says the Wall Street Journal.

To the question what Germany lacks, the answers have been various. Some have said she could not fight without copper. Others have declared rubber a war necessity. All sorts of particularizations have been made as to Germany's lack in food, milk, frying fats, beef, etc. If German babies have suffered for milk it is because the Germans have slaughtered their own cattle for the trench defenders. If there has been lack of fat for the frying pan, it is because the army has used the fats for glycerine in explosives manufacture.

As to Germany's deficiencies, the answer early in the war was that she was deficient in diplomacy. After the Lusitania and a year of letter-writing, a bright lady remarks that the real deficiency of Germany appears to be common sense.

Shrewd financiers have been buying cotton, yet with some misgivings, for millions of bales of cotton are going into explosives, and that demand must cease some day very suddenly.

One of the shrewdest American financiers privately remarks: "Germany may or may not be defeated on the food problem or by exhaustion of her fighting men, but so long as England holds the seas Germany is defeated, because soon she will have nothing to wear. The great lack in Germany to-day is textiles. Again cotton is king. It was true in America before 1860, but the Civil War and the northern industrial expansion that followed overthrew its sovereignty, and later it was declared that pig iron was king industrially.

"To-day, however, cotton is king in European contest, and its scepter will decide the fates against Germany should all other material factors fail to repress her. In my judgment, Germany cannot get through the winter because she cannot get either wool or cotton to clothe herself. There is not time between this and the next snowflakes for German chemistry to overcome the simple problem of clothing by any known chemistry when cotton and wool are lacking."

Sign of a Fish Market.

The proprietor of a fish store had a new sign:

"Fresh Fish for Sale Here."

"Why say 'here'?" said the first customer. "It's unnecessary."

He painted "here" out.

Said the second customer, "Why 'for sale'?" Of course, they're for sale."

He painted out two words more.

"Why 'fresh'?" said a third customer. "You wouldn't sell them if they weren't fresh, would you?"

At last the sign read just "Fish."

Along came a fourth customer.

"What's the use of having that sign," he asked, "when you can smell them a block away?"

A PATHETIC INCIDENT.

Not long ago a gentleman who had been living fairly well and was thought well of, suddenly died. As was natural, one of the first things after his death, was the straightening up of his estate, and when matters were looked over and an inventory taken of what he was supposed to be possessed of, it was found that it would take almost every available cent to pay the outstanding obligations which he had contracted, with a result that his family would be turned out upon the street.

It was heartrending to see them endeavoring to retain some articles of furniture most dear to them. It looked as though the house which they had been accustomed to live in would have to go, but in packing up and rummaging through some of the furniture what was their relief when they came across a policy for $5,000.00 which the late husband had been carrying unknown to his family in the Crown Life Insurance Company of Toronto.

Notice of the death was sent the Company and a cheque was promptly issued.

The mortgage was paid off, the furniture was safe and there was a considerable amount left over for present needs.

This is an object lesson which should appeal to every one of us and one and all can make the same provision for the family by insuring in the Crown Life.

WHAT FRENCH REGAINED.

Germans Have Been Pushed Off More Than 2,500 Square Miles.

Roughly measured, the territory regained from the Germans in France exceeds 2,500 square miles. Its population before the war was in the neighborhood of half a million.

Within the redeemed area are some of the most interesting places in France, notably Rheims, the place of coronation for most of the kings of France since the beginning of the Capetian dynasty. The most famous ceremony of this character to take place here was the anointing of Charles VII, after Joan of Arc had driven the English from before the city walls. It was here, too, that Clovis was baptized on Christmas Day, in 496. Before the devastation wrought by the present war the great Rheims Cathedral was considered by many critics of architecture the most beautiful structure produced during the Middle Ages.

Amiens, with a population of ninety thousand before the war, is next in importance among the salvaged cities. Its cathedral, one of the most imposing piles of Thirteenth Century architecture in Europe, was scarcely less famous than the one at Rheims.

Arras, also reclaimed, was noted for its woollen manufactures before the war. Its medieval days in tapestry hangings were so famous that the name of the city was adopted as a common noun for draperies in England. Robespierre, the revolutionist, was born in Arras.

Persuasive.

Uncle Tobey was a hospitable soul. He wanted no guest in his house to be stinted. "Have some, have some," he invited cordially at the supper table, sending around the platter for the third time; "we're going to give it to the pigs anyway."

Made in Canada.

No Connection.

The Canadian Branch of the Queen Mary's Needlework Guild wish to disclaim any connection with a chain-letter which is being circulated in the name of the Guild by the New York Branch. Though responsibility in no way touches the Canadian Branch, the ladies here regret that such a method of obtaining money for the Queen's Guild has been resorted to, and that it has got into this country, as the chain-letter system has long since been condemned and fallen into disfavor.

HE Wanted to Much.

Cavalry Officer (riding into yard)—"You guaranteed that this horse wouldn't shy before the discharge of cannon." Dealer—"Look here, Major, you've got your money's worth. He's sound in wind and limb; that I'll stake my name on. I didn't sell him to you as a charger; he isn't one. You asked me if he would shy before cannon-fire. As a harmless jay I said 'No,' but I didn't say he wouldn't shy after the gun was fired; I never tried him. You want too much Major; really you do."

Yet They Were Useful.

The office boy had been detected in a lie. It was not one of the ordinary prevarications of the everyday world and, moreover, to make the crime more grievous, he had persisted in adhering to his original mendacious statement. "Do you know, my lad," asked an elderly clerk, "what becomes of young lads who trifle with the truth?" "Yes," was the assured reply, "the boss often sends them out as travellers when they grow up."

BRITAIN A BIG PLACE.

Owens one-fourth of the Land of the Earth, Says Allyn Williams.

"Until my recent visit to England I do not think I realized, nor do I believe the majority of Americans realize, the immense size, wealth and power of Great Britain," said Allyn Williams, of London, president of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters, according to the Washington Post. "This war has shown us this England in size corresponds with the District of Columbia. It is only the seat of government for Great Britain, in the same way that the District of Columbia is the central seat of government for the United States.

"Great Britain owns more than one-fourth of the land of the earth; she is by far the greatest ocean-carrying nation in the world, and, therefore, controls the seas; and although she was caught totally unprepared for this great war, yet not a square inch of her territory has been invaded by her enemies. She has captured the greater part of Germany's great colonies and has within sixteen months raised a volunteer army of more than 3,500,000 men, all of whom are well paid."

Hopes Were Dashed.

A young man employed a little colored boy to help about the house. The little ducky boasted one day that he could read any book. Mr. Jones handed him a Latin reader. The little fellow studied the words for a long time, his expression growing more and more puzzled. Finally he tossed the book aside.

"Dat teacher done tole me Ah could read!" he exclaimed in disgust. "Ah didn't believe it den, and now Ah knows 'tain't so!"

The man who doesn't mean more than half he says is mean, whether he says anything or not.
