

A CAUSE OF INDIGESTION

People Who Complain of This Trouble Usually Are Thin Blooded.

Thin blooded people usually have stomach trouble. They seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of the trouble, but it is. In fact thin, impure blood is the most common cause of stomach trouble: it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluid are diminished in their activity; the stomach muscles are weakened, and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, the digestion and normal nutrition than good rich, red blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles and awakens the normal activity of the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of improving health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood making pills is evident throughout the system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. This is proved by the case of Mrs. J. Harris, Gerrard St., Toronto, who says: "About three years ago I was seized with a severe attack of indigestion and vomiting. My food seemed to turn sour as soon as I ate it, and I would turn so deadly sick that sometimes I would fall on the floor after vomiting. I tried a lot of home remedies, but they did not help me. Then I went to a doctor who gave me some powders, but they seemed actually to make me worse instead of better. This went on for nearly two months, and by that time my stomach was in such a weak state that I could not keep down a drink of water, and I was wasted to a skeleton and felt that life was not worth living. I was not married at this time, and one Sunday evening on the way to church with my intended husband I was taken with a bad spell on the street. He took me to a drug store where the clerk fixed up something to take, and my intended got me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the end of the first week I could feel some improvement from the use of the Pills, and I gladly continued taking them until every symptom of the trouble was gone, and I was again enjoying the best of health. These Pills are now my standby and I tell all my friends what they did for me."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POILU REFUSED TREATMENT.

Paris Paper Attacks the Sentence Imposed Upon Him.

The sentence of two years' imprisonment inflicted recently by the court-martial of Tours, France, on a soldier for refusal to submit to electrical treatment has caused some comment. The Paris Temps, in an editorial, points out that the Tours judges dealt with the soldier as if he were on active service and not on the hospital books, inflicting the full penalty provided by the military code for disobedience. The editor detected, it says, an attempt at fraud on the part of the prisoner, or else they themselves failed to consider the case in all its bearings. It is not permissible for a patient refusing to submit to a treatment both painful and dangerous, or a wounded man refusing to submit to an operation, to be classed as guilty of ordinary disobedience. The right of a human being to dispose of his own body as he thinks fit is both unquestionable and unquestioned.

Striving to Please.

"John," said the minutely observant woman, "didn't you forget to tip the waiter?"

"No. I attended to that right at the start. I handed him all the money I can afford to spend and told him to take his tip and then bring us something to eat with the change."

A FAMOUS HORSE.

Thoroughbred Stallion "Anmer" Will Be Seen at Canadian National Exhibition.

In the interests of the breeders of Ontario and the united efforts of the various breed societies to encourage the farmers and breeders of Canada to raise horses that will meet the demand expected from buyers from foreign countries during the years succeeding the termination of the war, the Canadian National Exhibition, at Toronto, has arranged with the Dominion Government and the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society to have Anmer, the thoroughbred stallion presented by His Majesty, King George, as a sire suitable to improve the stock in Canada, paraded every afternoon during the Exhibition.

As an encouragement to breeders the Thoroughbred Horse Society has decided to distribute the revenues obtained from "Anmer's" stud fees in premiums at Agricultural Shows to classes of horses sired by a thoroughbred, which are best suited for remount and cavalry purposes.

Thoroughbred Stallion "Anmer."

"Anmer" is a beautifully bred horse and stands over 16 hands, with plenty of quality and substance, and a good disposition. He was elected by Lord Marcus Beresford from the Royal stud as a horse most suitable for the Canadian requirements, and has been pronounced by successful breeders to be the best stallion that has ever left the shores of the world's greatest nursery.

It will be remembered that in 1913 "Anmer" was the King's Derby candidate and was running well up in that historic event when a suffragette ran out on the course, endeavoring to snatch at the bridle. "Anmer" was thrown and the woman was trampled to death. The fall also nearly proved fatal for the jockey, Herbert Jones.

"Anmer" was a winner in England in the 1 1/4 miles Hastings plate, second in the Payne Stakers, third in the Newmarket, St. Ledger and Royal Stakes. His sire, Florizell II, was a winner of the Ascot Gold vase, Jockey Club cup, Goodwood cup and Manchester cup and an own brother to Diamond Jubilee and Persimmon, both Derby winners for the late King Edward and both successful sires. Diamond Jubilee was sold at the end of his racing career for $150,000 to go to the Argentine Republic, where he has headed the list of winning sires for several years. Guinea Hen, the dam of Anmer, is also a winner and the dam of Brakespear, Pintadeau and Jungle Cock. She is by Gallinule, sire of the great Pretty Polly.

The gracious and timely action of King George in presenting to Canada such a stallion for the improvement of thoroughbred stock is very much appreciated by horsemen. "Anmer" has been quartered at Ennislaire farms, Oakville, but will be brought in to Toronto for the whole period of the Exhibition, the only place where the Thoroughbred Horse Society has consented to exhibit him.

COMPULSORY HARVESTING.

Hungary to Make Men, Women and Children Assist in Fields.

With memories of the 1915 weather fresh in mind and the freakish weather of the past three weeks as a warning that a record crop can easily be turned over night into a partial failure, the Hungarian agricultural authorities have decided upon unusual measures to harvest the 1916 crops in the speediest possible manner.

The municipal local authorities throughout the country have been empowered to requisition for harvesting purposes the services of every man, woman and child at home, not serving the state in some indispensable way, at fixed wages. Prisoners of war working in non-military concerns have also been requisitioned for the harvesting; several thousand workmen have been imported from Russian Poland and all the troops in the interior who can be spared will be furloughed for the same purpose.

Women not only have the last word, but in most of the arguments they usually grab the first one, too.

Lashing a Lazy Liver with pills may give temporary relief—but the pill habit is not a health habit. It will put the liver out of business in time—and then everything else goes out of business. Get the health habit by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the ideal hot-weather food, which contains more digestible, brain-making, muscle-building material than beefsteak or eggs. The tasty, delicious crispness of the baked wheat gives palate joy and stomach comfort. It supplies the maximum of nutriment in smallest bulk, and its daily use keeps the bowels healthy and active. For breakfast with milk or cream, or for any meal with fresh fruits. Made in Canada

Preparedness.

Mr. Tompkins was obliged to stop over night at a small country hotel. He was shown to his room by the one boy the place afforded, a colored lad.

"I am glad there's a rope here in case of fire," commented the Mr. Tompkins, as he surveyed the room, "but what's the idea of putting a Bible in the room in such a prominent place?" "Dat am intended foh use, sah," replied the boy, "in case de fire am too far advanced foh yoo' to make yo' escape, sah."

A Suggestion.

A politician who was seeking the votes of a certain community thought it worth while to make mention of his humble origin and early struggles. "I got a start in life by serving in a grocery store at $3 a week, and yet I have managed to save," he announced.

"Was that before the invention of cash registers?"

I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made.

Historical Item.

A young woman with a notebook and a pencil entered the store of Jonathan Driggs, in a small Connecticut town, and said to the proprietor: "Good morning, Mr. Driggs. I'm looking up records of the early settlers of the town. Could you give me any information?"

The old fellow turned to the desk, thumbed the ledger, and chuckled. "Well, the earliest settler I've got is Dec. Talcott, an' his best record is three months."

FRENCH CRAFTY ON WAR DEVICES

CLEVER WAYS OF OUTGUESSING THE GERMANS

Painted Scenery Is One—Hide Their Great Guns With a Shield.

A young American named Wm. P. Fay, who went to France to join the American Ambulance Corps, and who for the past eight months has been driving a field ambulance along the French battle front, writes as follows regarding the ingenious devices employed by the French army:

Since the beginning of the war the French have shown themselves to have many sides to their character that no one had suspected before. One of these newly apparent traits is their remarkable craftiness in inventing military devices of various sorts. For example: On the side of a certain hill close by the German trenches there is a French battery of several large guns. For many months it has been in the same location, and by frequent bombardments the Germans eventually managed to get an almost perfect range upon it with their long-distance guns. So accurate, in fact, was their firing, that one could sit in comparative safety by the window of a house only a few hundred yards away and watch the bombardments. It was like having a box at a theatre. One could hear the "depart"—as the French term the initial explosion—of the guns in the distance, then for fifteen seconds the tearing of the shells through the air like the arriving of an express train, and finally the crash as the shells landed. Often the shells would appear to land squarely on the French guns, but invariably the Germans would bravely reply. Two or three German captive balloons and several aeroplanes flying back of the German lines would observe where the shells fell and direct the firing.

In order to baffle the German range-finders the French hit upon a happy scheme. For several hundred yards in front of their guns they built a shield. It was made of ordinary burlap stretched upon poles, and was about fifteen feet high. Thereafter, when the Germans bombarded the battery they were no longer able to see where their shells fell, and were consequently unable to direct their fire with any degree of accuracy. Of course, portions of the shield were blown down at times by the exploding shells, but it was the work of only a few minutes to make repairs.

Using Painted Scenery

Another ingenious device of the French is the use of painted scenery as a means of misleading the enemy.

At a certain point along the battle front the German trenches run across a railroad line which leads from a French village about a half-mile away. The Germans could see plainly down the tracks, and were in the habit of taking pot shots with their rifles at the French soldiers who crossed the tracks.

The French called in a well known painter to help them. Upon an enormous canvas he painted a landscape representing exactly what the Germans saw when they looked down the tracks. It was a splendid piece of work, in full color and in perfect perspective. One night the huge "drop" was mounted upon a heavy wooden framework and placed upright across the tracks between two houses. The next morning, when the Germans looked up the tracks the view was apparently just the same as usual, except for the curious fact that the crossing remained deserted from that time on. They never discovered the deception and the French soldiers have been able to pass back and forth behind the screen in perfect security.

A War Dish.

"My wife has threatened to leave bluejackets entered a restaurant in London, the other day and asked for "Some Zeppelins in a cloud." "Some what?" said an astonished waitress. And the bluejackets pointed to a card on which was printed "Sausages and mashed potatoes."

Keep Minard's Liniment in the house

Cannon's Life Underrated.

The number of shots that can be fired from one of the French three-inch guns before it is worn out has in at least one instance, been found to be as high as 18,830, according to the actual count kept by a young artilleryman, who has sent these figures in from the front. While the three-inch was known to be a robust cannon, the theoretical estimate before the war was that 1,000 shots would probably be the limit of its efficiency.
