Will Richmond Hill Help the Red Cross by Regularly Saving Their Waste Papers?

The Canadian Red Cross has made a great deal of money by collecting the waste paper in Toronto and selling it. They would be willing to come to Richmond Hill at regular intervals to collect our waste. They could not afford to make a house to house canvass for it, and so the Richmond Hill Auxiliary would like to arrange for the use of four or five unused buildings in different parts of the village, to which people could take their waste paper as it collects, and from which centres the Canadian Red Cross would remove it. The scrap paper would be in sacks and newspapers in bundles.

Will the owners of unused sheds or barns, who would be willing to have them used for this good work, kindly notify the Secretary or President of the Auxiliary?

Card of Thanks
