Mrs. W. Davies MILLINERY

This is our first Autumn Season and many ladies of the neighbourhood are being convinced, that a first class millinery business is established in Richmond Hill. Our satisfied customers are our best recommendation. We have access to the best markets, are in a position to procure the latest styles, and our quotations are moderate. We will submit materials, and Ladies may select their styles, and we will make, and guarantee to please. We give immediate attention to mourning orders, and your inspection and comparison is cordially invited.

Red Cross News

The regular meeting of the Red Cross Auxiliary will be held in the Public School on Tuesday, October 9th, at four o'clock. The net proceeds for the Richmond Hill Red Cross Auxiliary from meals served at the Tractor Plow Demonstration, and also money made by the Girls' Branch amounted to $603.50, the girls part being $301.05.

Major Morrison, of the Industrial Farm, asked the members of the Red Cross Auxiliary to bring before the public the fact that he would be glad to have second-hand clothing for men and women. Owing to the change of seasons, the clothing worn by the prisoners when entering the Institution is not suitable when discharged. Clothing requiring repairs would be attended to by the Institution. Books and magazines are very much needed also. Any of these articles may be left at the Red Cross room.—S. A. Boyle, secretary.

Band Serenade

Wednesday evening of last week the band went to the home of Mr. George Metcalfe and serenaded the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Almer Metcalfe. After playing a few selections they were invited in, and later in the evening luncheon was served, which included some of the bride's cake. Mr. Newton, who was invited in, presided at the piano, and many musical numbers were given. Mr. Hume, on behalf of the band, wished Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe success and happiness, trusting that their lives would be useful and in perfect harmony. Mr. Metcalfe, who is a member of the band, made a suitable reply. The members then dispersed after again expressing their best wishes for Mr. and Mrs. Metcalfe.

Canadian Magazine

The October issue of The Canadian Magazine contains a varied assortment of articles, essays and short stories.
