Mr. Herbert Osborn Tells How Cuticura Healed His Wife

"My wife began to be troubled with itching and burning of the palms of her hands and the soles of her feet. Later the skin cracked and became inflamed, making walking or even standing very painful and preventing sleep at night. Later it became necessary to bandage both hands and feet.

"She was treated but obtained no relief. She saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. She bought more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Herbert Osborn, 135 Sherbrooke Ave., Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2, 1919.

Cuticura is ideal for every-day toilet uses. Soap to cleanse and purify, Ointment to soothe and heal.

BITS OF HUMOR FROM HERE & THERE

It Foresaw Its Fate.

Johnny and Jimmy were at a party, and, being away in a corner at supper time, they were not looked after very well. They managed to get some jelly and bread and butter, but no spoons.

"How shall we eat our jelly?" asked Jimmy.

"Balance it on your bread and butter," said Johnny.

"I tried that," replied Jimmy, seriously, "but it won't stay on; it's too nervous."

Made Him Feel at Home.

On Dolly's birthday she was presented with a baby bulldog, and her delight was delicious to behold.

It was very young, and she insisted upon taking it to bed with her, but the next morning she was looking very tired.

"Haven't you slept well, darling?" asked her mother.

"No, mummy," said Dolly. "Nelson was crying in the night for him mummy, so I kept awake with him for company, and I made awful faces all night to make him think I was his bulldog mummy to comfy him."

Western Farmers Building Silos.

It is to be anticipated that before many years have elapsed almost every farm in the Canadian prairie provinces will have its silo. The growth of the dairy industry would naturally bring this condition about in course of time, but the movement is being expedited by the success farmers are having in growing sunflowers. Small fields of from three to thirty acres have been planted in various parts of the three prairie provinces of Canada. The yields are proving more satisfactory than the farmers generally dared to hope, and each acre yields on an average from fifteen to thirty tons of ensilage.

Many farmers have erected silos on their farms during the summer to take care of this crop, but most of them have under-estimated their requirements and will have more crop than they can put in their silos.

Sunflower silage is due for a more extensive trial this winter than it has had before. The results in previous years have been very satisfactory but only comparatively few farmers have grown the crop for silage previous to this year. If in its more extensive use the crop proves to be as satisfactory as it has already proved in a few cases where it has been tried, it is safe to say that in a few years the farm without a silo will be an exception in Western Canada.

Since last year's results have become known, considerable interest has been shown in silos and ensilage in Western Canada and several hundred silos have been erected during the past summer. Typical of this movement is the Cardston district in Southern Alberta, where eight silos have been erected this year and where about fifty acres of sunflowers were planted. The crop has proved so successful that it is predicted that one hundred silos will be built in the district next year and more than a thousand acres of sunflowers planted.

Similar plans are being made in other parts of Western Canada, and the already rapidly growing dairy industry promises to grow much faster with the general acceptance of the sunflower as a silage crop. Another evidence of the value of sunflowers as a forage crop will be the big gain in finished steers. Many of the larger livestock raisers are growing sunflowers and erecting silos for this purpose. Thus will be considerably increased the finishing areas of Canada, which, hitherto, have been somewhat restricted, compared with the large feeding areas throughout the country, and the livestock industry in the West will be placed on a sound basis.

Potash Versus Potassium.

As is the case with the two other plant foods, what we know as "potash" may be guaranteed in at least two different ways.

Ninety-four pounds of pure potash (KO) contains 78 pounds of pure potassium (K). Or, putting the case in the reverse, 78 parts of pure potassium combines with 16 parts of oxygen to form 94 parts of potash.

From the above figures anyone can change a statement of potassium to a corresponding statement of potash, or the reverse. In the first case, multiply the figure for potassium by the factor 1.205. In the second case, multiply the figure representing potash by the factor 0.82.

Remember, once again, that there is no significance in this change. Pure potassium never occurs in nature. Even if it did, it could not be used in fertilizer, for it is highly caustic, and burns in contact with water. Equally, what we know as potash is not a stable compound, and cannot be used in fertilizer. The terms "potash" and "potassium" are used simply as measures of value; neither one has advantage over the other; either could be used.

Japanese women dress their hair in the shape of a butterfly when they are ready to wed. Widows who desire to re-marry fasten their tresses at the back of the head with tortoiseshell pins.

Oddities in Newspapers.

The smallest newspaper in the world is now being printed in New York City. Its pages are only about five inches wide and six inches long, but they contain short news items that are very easily and quickly read. Another odd newspaper published in this same city is called The Deaf Mutes' Journal, all of its editors and general staff being members of a deaf and dumb school. However, The Deaf Mutes' Journal is a real newspaper in size and contains four pages of interesting reading.

In Germany there is a newspaper that has nothing in it but stories about rheumatism. People having this trouble write in their experiences, doctors tell new ways to get rid of it and it seems that everybody there having rheumatism subscribes to this queer newspaper. Some years ago a Russian editor started a postcard size newspaper, the print of which was so small that he furnished a magnifying glass to teach of his regular subscribers. Somehow the idea didn't take, as he only printed a few numbers before finding out that the people didn't appreciate the idea, even though the magnifying glass was furnished free.

Greenland hasn't many newspapers of any kind, but the oddest of them all is a monthly paper called The Kalorikmit. (Did you get your tongue twisted after pronouncing this name?) The most unusual thing about this paper is that a three months' subscription costs two ducks, while it requires a sable skin to pay for a year.

Four Friends.

For greater gifts I would not pray Nor ask the gods to send my way If I could have four friends a day.

A friend of better days than this, Of brighter sun and golden bliss Before the times had gone amiss.

A friend of worse days, dark and drear, Who shared the hours of storms and fear, Before the skies began to clear.

A friend new made who shall afford Adventures of the unexplored, A friend with happy future stored.

An old friend who has stood the test, Has known the worst and known the best, Alike in both forever blessed.
