

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months, and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent all the dreaded summer complaints. Concerning them Mrs. Fred Rose, of South Bay, Ont., says: "I feel Baby's Own Tablets saved the life of our baby when she had cholera infantum and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Door Opened.

Before the bank three or four persons are waiting for the great doors to be unlocked. How heavy and strong they are! You might dash yourself to pieces against them and they would not give so much as the fraction of an inch.

A clock begins to strike. At the ninth stroke a clerk appears behind the door and on the inside of the heavy plate-glass window hangs a card bearing the words, "The Bank Is Open." Then he turns a key in the lock of the doors and, drawing it out again, returns to his work. The people outside press up the steps. The foremost person puts his shoulder against one of the leaves of the door. It swings slowly back, and the people enter the opened door—opened, not by the shoulder of the man without, but by the key of the man within.

As I passed on down the street I thought of the sign hanging there in the window, announcing that the bank was open. The doors indeed were shut, but the bank was not. Anyone with business there was free to enter. He could push confidently against the closed doors, for he knows that the clerk always turns the key at nine o'clock, and that the turning of the key opens the bank.

The doors of opportunity are much like the doors of the bank. The Master holds the key to every door. He urges us to go forward to service and accomplishment, though again and again the doors appear to us to be closed. But really they are not shut against us. Christ has said, "Behold, I have set before thee an open door." He does not mean that He has removed every obstacle from our path. He does mean that He has turned the key in the lock and that what we could not do before we now can do. The door is opened, but we must approach it in faith and set our shoulder to the task of pushing it back so that we can enter.

How many times we come to the doors of opportunity and, finding them apparently closed, have turned away discouraged; whereas if we had only had faith and courage we should have found that the door would swing open before us if we made any genuine effort.

A Mark of Genius.

A Toronto man stopped an architect in the street.

"Good morning, Harkins," said the architect. "Are you thinking of building again?"

"No; I stopped you to inquire whether you could take my son into your office as an apprentice. With training I believe he would some day prove a magnificent architect."

"He has shown some talent, has he?" asked the architect, glumly, for he was disappointed at not getting another contract.

"Talent? Genius, sir; positive genius!"

"What has he done?"

"He designed a garden for our Christmas tree."

"Well, what is there so remarkable about that?"

"Why," answered the father, "he designed that garden for $3 and it cost $32!"

LISTLESS, PEEVISH GIRLS

When a girl in her teens becomes peevish, listless and dull, when nothing seems to interest her and dainties do not tempt her appetite, you may be certain that she needs more good blood than her system is provided with. Before long her pallid cheeks, frequent headaches, and breathlessness and heart palpitation will confirm that she is anaemic. Many mothers as the result of their own girlhood experience can promptly detect the early signs of anaemia, and the wise mother does not wait for the trouble to develop further, but at once gives her daughter a course with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which renew the blood supply and banish anaemia before it has obtained a hold upon the system.

Out of their experience thousands of mothers know that anaemia is the sure road to worse ills. They know the difference that good red blood makes in the development of womanly health. Every headache, every gasp for breath that follows the slightest exertion by the anaemic girl, every pain she suffers in her back and limbs are reproaches if you have not taken the best steps to give your weak girl new blood, and the only sure way to do so is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

New, rich red blood is infused into the system by every dose of these pills. From this new rich blood springs good health, an increased appetite, new energy, high spirits and perfect womanly development. Saved by a Loaf.

During the recent disturbances in Upper Silesia a party of Poles, armed to the teeth, made an attempt to force an entrance into the town of Korel, which was garrisoned by Italian troops.

An Italian sentry opened fire as soon as the first insurgents tried to cross the bridge over the River Oder. The Poles replied, and their attack would have succeeded if it had not occurred to the sentry to seize his ration of bread and hurl it at his assailants.

So startled were they by this proceeding that they fled. Possibly they imagined that this projectile was some new sort of bomb! By the time they had recovered from their astonishment reinforcements put in an appearance and the situation was saved!

Defeat.

No one is beat till he quits;
No one is through till he stops,
No matter how hard Failure hits
No matter how often he drops,
A fellow's not down till he lies
In the dust and refuses to rise.

Fate can slam him and bang him around

And batter his frame till he's sore,
But she never can say that he's downed

While he bobs up serenely for more.
A fellow's not dead till he dies
Nor beat till no longer he tries!

Carpeting the World With Salt.

Salt is the one thing of which we are never likely to run short. Every pint of sea water contains about half an ounce of salt; while there is enough salt in the sea to cover the surface of all the countries in the world to a depth of over sixty feet.

The Germans eat 12 lb. of salt per head every year; Canadians use 11 lb., English people 10 lb., and the French 9 lb.

The greatest salt-eaters in Europe are the Scandinavians and the North Russians, who use about twice as much as we do. Certainly it is not because they live in cold countries, for the Eskimo, who lives still further North, eats none at all.

There are many people who take too much salt, with the result that they have bad complexions and suffer from indigestion and other ailments.

Used externally salt is one of the finest dressings known for cuts and wounds. It helps them to heal quickly and cleanly.

This makes us laugh: The word "candidate" comes about from the fact that the Roman candidate for office was accustomed to go about clad in a white toga to show the purity of his principles. The Latin word for white is "candidus"; hence a person who wore this color in accordance with the established custom, came to be called "candidatus." Can't you imagine some of our "candidates" in the symbol of purity?

Nothing Like Advertising.

A large poster displayed in the window of a florist's shop read as follows: "Don't lead the life of a slave! Try a packet of our famous weed-killer!" Although the advertisement seemed to amuse all who read it, the florist declared to a fellow-tradesman that it had been a great help to his trade.

That evening the friend of the florist, who was an electrician, was seen plastering his shop window with a poster, which ran:

"To married men. Don't kill your wives with housework. Let one of our electric floor-scrubbers do the dirty work!"

Of Little Use.

Not long ago a number of masons left Scotland to settle in this country. One of them wrote to his wife shortly after his arrival and instructed her to sell their household property and to take passage out to him.

The good wife had a neighbor who came to help her with the packing. In the midst of it they fell upon Thomas' watch. The neighbor examined it closely and then said:

"It's a grand watch, Catherine. Ye'll be takin' it wi' ye?"

"Na, na!" was the reply. "It would be o' nae use out there, for Thomas tells me in his letter that there is some 'oors difference between the time here and in Calgary, so I need na be takin' useless things."

Pass the Salt!

Mr. Green's radish-bed had been attacked by slugs.

Distracted, he sought the advice of a neighbor.

"If you want to exterminate the pest," said the neighbor, "place salt between the rows of plants."

Mr. Green went off full of hope. A few days later they met again.

"Did you do as I told you?" asked the neighbor.

"I should think I did!" replied Mr. Green.

"Was it successful?"

"Well, I put salt down one evening, and bless me, when I got up the next morning the slugs were pulling the radishes up, dipping them in the salt and eating them, with such happy looks upon their faces!"

WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD, HE SAYS

BRAHAM POURS OUT HIS GRATITUDE TO TANLAC

Toronto Man Declares He Was Almost Physical Wreck When He Began Taking It.

"I wouldn't take all the gold you could pile up around me for the good Tanlac has done me," said George W. Braham, 31 Grove Ave., Toronto, Ont.

"When I returned from overseas I was pretty much of a wreck. I used to have fainting spells and my nerves were in such a bad state that I used to jump at the least sound. My stomach was always out of order, so that whatever I ate upset me.

"I never knew what it was to have a good night's sleep and I always got up in the morning feeling tired and weary. I was steadily losing weight and finally got very weak.

"One evening I said to my wife: 'I think I'll try a bottle of Tanlac.' I did, and the result was wonderful. It just seemed to meet my needs from the start and has relieved me of all my troubles.

"It gave me a good appetite so that I can now eat well and my food agrees with me. My nerves are now steady, I no longer have fainting spells, I sleep fine and feel stronger and better in every way.

"If there's one medicine that's worth its weight in gold, it's Tanlac, and I want to express my gratitude for what it has done for me."

Surnames and Their Origin

SQUIRES

Variations—Squire, Squiers, Swires, Syiers.

Racial Origin—Norman-French.

Source—A title.

While these names themselves are quite clearly of Norman-French origin, it does not necessarily follow that those who bear them are of Norman-French ancestry, though the chances are that in the majority of cases such an assumption would happen to be correct.

All of these names come from the medieval title "esquire," a title which was brought into England with the Norman-French feudal system. In the period immediately following the Norman Conquest there was no middle class. The feudal system did not permit it. The population was clearly divided between the Norman-French nobility and the Anglo-Saxons, who, together with a smaller number of the Norman common soldiery, formed the vassal class. But there were, of course, gradations among the nobility and the vassals, and it was out of the lower ranks of the one and the higher ranks of the other that the great middle class of more modern England was evolved.

"Esquires" formed the lowest class of the nobility. They were youths who had not yet won their spurs, and it was their duty to carry the shields of the knights in whose service they were.

The family names derived from this word must be classified among the names of the later period, when feudalism began to disintegrate and the title of "esquire" lost its exact meaning, for in the earlier days it is inconceivable that mere esquires could have become the fathers of families and bequeathed the name, for esquires always either won their knighthood or were killed young in the continental fighting of the period.

COX

Variations—Coxon, Cook, Cooks, Cook-son.

Racial Origin—English.

Source—An Occupation.

It might appear, at first glance, that some of the family names in this group had their origin in some reference to the cock, or rooster. There is a bare possibility that in some instances the name Cox may have had such an origin.

In such cases it would come as a shortened form of "Cocker-son," that is, "the son of the cock-fighter," for cock fighting is a very ancient sport, and was well established in popular favor in medieval England. Or it might be derived from the form "Atte Cook," or as we would put it to-day, "at the Sign of the Cock," for in their lack of ability to read the English of olden times called upon the full range of the animal and vegetable kingdoms with which to illustrate the signs by which they identified their shops and their inns.

But in the vast majority of cases, the forms of the foregoing family names indicate that they come from "cook." There was no uniform method of spelling this word in the middle ages, and it was often necessary to judge whether the writer meant "cook" or "cock" by the sense of his writing. But such a form as "Roger le Coc" or "le Coc" or "le Cok" occurring in the ancient lists of names kept for taxation or other purposes, has only one reasonable translation, "Roger the Cook." And that form of name occurs with such frequency as to insure its perpetuation as a family name. At that period "Roger le Cok" could never have been used with the meaning "Roger Atte Cok."
