There are evidently others in the village beside the Editor who takes pride in the appearance of our streets. Note the few remarks with reference to the Field Day decorations last week.

After Field Day over ten dozen bottles of soft drinks were stored and as the caretaker thought safely locked up in the skating rink. When the truck arrived for the return of empties and goods not used not one full bottle could be found. The rink had been broken into and the boys had been regaling themselves on free drinks, besides this some ten dozen empty bottles have been stolen or destroyed. Such wanton destruction and petty thieving should surely be investigated by the council.

Baseball

The Baseball match which took place between the local ball team and Aurora in the park here on Tuesday evening, had a very unsatisfactory finish so much so that it was decided by the managers of the respective teams to play the game over again on Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock daylight saving time. Let everyone avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing a game that will be fought to a finish.

Horticultural Society Flower Show September 3, 1921 Trench Block, Richmond Hill

Exhibits must be in place by 11 a. m.

Members are requested to make entries as early as possible. Read prize list carefully. Boulevards, back yards, and children's gardens will be judged on Fair day. Refreshments will be served afternoon and evening.

THORNHILL

The annual show of the Senior Horticultural Society through the sincere efforts of Miss M. Simpson and that of the junior interest ever being advanced by Mr. Galbraith, proved a great success. The entries were quite extensive especially in the Junior Department. The show of flowers was more than could be expected for this year, on account of the season the show had to be held at an earlier date than at first arranged.

The entries of vegetables were large and varied a number of unusual specimens being exhibited for inspection only, such as lemon cucumber and banana musk melons, also home-grown peaches, strawberries and puff ball. The fine specimens of fruit goes to show what a fine healthy climate we have in this vicinity. The orchestra was all that could be desired, and if the numbers thereof heard the many complimentary remarks, they no doubt felt quite repaid, outside of the cash received. The Ladies' Aid are also congratulating themselves on their venture. It was not intended to serve meals at this year's show, but Mrs. R. Simpson and her committee asked to be allowed to do so, and the many who partook of their appetizing supplies vouched that it was a good idea well carried out, as it added much to the success and sociability of the occasion. Moving pictures also added to the entertainment of the evening. The only complaint heard was that it was too much for nothing, but that an admission fee should have been charged, and given for the benefit of community work.

One feature of the event must not be forgotten, that of the show of fowls and pets by the Junior Society, the exhibits were very creditable indeed for the first venture.

Spare Moments

"It is not enough to do good,
One must do it in a good way."
Francis Osgood says:

"The little minutes, humble thou they be,
Make the mighty ages of Eternity."

The little minutes of the day, do not seem much in itself, but in the aggregate, they amount to much in the year.

Our school life, which is about to commence, are we going to be as the little "busy bee" and gather all we can while we have the opportunity, have we made up our minds that this coming term at any rate shall be utilized to the very best advantage, for we can see all around us that the boy or girl that is to be successful in after life, is the one that has applied themselves diligently to their studies, and have learnt the lesson of conserving their spare moments to some advantage, either educationally or physically.

The business man has opportunities either in store or office, moments that can be utilized to improvement, there are many that seem insignificant in their way, but used aright, bring great returns.

So with the farmer, it applies to him, the study of economy (not however in a niggardly way.) There are a thousand and one little things that crop up in the day, which if attended to at once, a good harvest will result from that care.

Lastly our religious life, and above all, we need to be ever on the watch, for evil thoughts so soon creep into the life, when idle that catch the unsuspecting young heart as well as the old. In this day and generation, we need to be constantly on our guard, that every spare moment shall be improved to the advantage of the community in which we live, and especially in our religious life, which will result in good and inculcate that spirit of fraternal brotherhood, so much needed to-day.
