

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not properly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Sweden's Population.

Sweden's total population at the end of 1920 amounted to more than 5,904,000, according to the Central Statistical Bureau's preliminary figures just published. This is an increase during 1920 of more than 57,000 and a record increase since 1861.

Neap and Spring Tides.

The tides are caused by the attraction which the moon exercises on the oceans.

The time of high water on any day is roughly fifty minutes later than it was on the day before.

Possibly, too, you have observed that on some days the tide comes in much farther and recedes to a far greater distance than on others.

As a matter of fact, these big and small tides occur at quite regular intervals. Big tides are called springs, and small tides neaps, and they depend upon the changes of the moon.

One night we see in the sky a thin silvery crescent, which we call the new moon. On the following two or three days we shall have spring tides.

Seven days from the time when it is new the moon appears as a half. This is the season of neap tides. A week later the full moon makes night almost like day, and brings the second lot of spring tides.

Neap tides occur again as the full moon changes into the dying half moon. Thus there is a fortnight's interval between spring tide and spring tide and between neap and neap.

GOOD HEALTH CAN BE YOURS

If Your Blood Supply is Kept Rich and Red.

It is a waste of time and money to fight merely the signs of disease: in the long run you are probably worse off than when you started. What is far more important is that you should intelligently examine the various symptoms and trace the cause. When you remove the cause, health will be yours. For example, anaemic people often endure months of suffering while treating its symptoms, such as indigestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and exhaustion after any small effort.

The apparent stomach and heart troubles are generally nothing more than the result of an insufficient supply of pure blood. This anaemic state may have followed some previous illness, or an attack of influenza; or it may have arisen from overwork, worry or too little fresh air. To obtain good health the simple and proper course is to build up the blood, but to do this you must select a reliable remedy with a reputation such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood which carries nourishment to all the organs of the body and enables them to do the work nature expects of them. Thousands of men and women have proved this for themselves. One of these is Mrs. T. Flynn, R.R. No. 1, Erinville, Ont., who says: "Last spring I got into a badly run down condition. I had no energy; work left me exhausted, and the least exertion would make my heart palpitate violently. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to give them a trial and get a half dozen boxes. I had not been taking the pills long when I felt a decided improvement in my condition and by the time I had used the six boxes I could do my housework with ease. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all weak people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Perfect Wife.

There are, it used to be said, three things which a good wife should resemble, and yet those three things she should not resemble!

She should be like a town clock—keep time and regularity. She should not be like a town clock—speak so loud that all the town may hear her.

She should be like a snail—prudent, and keep within her own house. She should not be like a snail—carry all she has upon her back.

She should be like an echo—speak when spoken to. She should not be like an echo—determined always to have the last word.

Needless to add, no modern man would be bold enough to utter such sentiments as these. They date back to early Victorian days.

Can Sea-Shell Walk?

Sea-shells cannot move about, of course, unless the shell-fish are inside. The shells which you generally find on the beach are merely the empty "halves" of their old homes, but even if you place two of the "halves" together and imagine the fish inside, it is difficult to see how the occupants were ever able to move from one spot to another. They have neither wings, fins, nor—in the ordinary sense—feet.

Bivalves are, for the most part, burrowers. They have a strong "foot" by means of which they can excavate passages for themselves through sand, mud, and even wood and rock. The Spiny Cockle, or Red Nose, can burrow very rapidly. It can also spring a considerable distance. The Saddle Oyster (not the edible oyster), possesses a hole in the under shell. It sticks its muscular "foot" through this hole when it wants to stick to a rock.

The common mussel, once it has found its home, never troubles to move again. It spins a bundle of threads, called "byssus," and binds itself firmly for evermore to the spot it has made its own.

Mauretania Will Burn Oil.

The Cunard Line announced recently that the steamship Mauretania, which was damaged by fire recently and is undergoing repairs, will be converted into an oil burner. The conversion will proceed at the same time with the repairs.

The conversion of the Mauretania will make a total of six vessels using oil for fuel in the combined fleet of the Cunard-Anchor lines, with an aggregate of 137,000 tons. All of the new fleet of eighteen vessels ordered since the armistice also will burn oil.

An Alibi.

Anxious Mother—"I am afraid Johnny is unwell."

Father—"My goodness! What does he complain of?"

Anxious Mother—"He hasn't begun to complain yet; but I forgot to lock the jam cupboard yesterday and there isn't a bit missing."

Authorities.

Little Nellie told little Anita what she terms only a fib.

Anita—"A fib is the same as a story and a story is the same as a lie."

Nellie—"No, it is not."

Anita—"Yes, it is, because my father is a professor at the university."

Nellie—"I don't care if he is. My father is an editor and he knows more about lying than your father."

Nicely Worded.

Mrs. Newmother was very much afraid of her baby catching germs from indiscriminate people kissing the little darling. She was careful in every way that baby should not catch any of those germs. Any article that might contain germs was boiled before it came near baby.

But it became harder when relations wanted to kiss the baby. You could not very well tell a cooing visitor to boil her face first.

One day the rich aunt—Charabella by name—called to see the baby, and the first thing Mrs. Newmother knew was that the aunt was aiming to kiss the baby.

Mrs. Newmother did not want to offend the relative, who, probably, was going to keep a good supply of silver-spoons in the youngster's mouth, but she skipped back out of reach with the baby in her arms.

"Oh, Aunt Charabella," she cried, "You must not do that! Germs will be germs, you know!"

"What's that?" flared up aunt. "Do you mean to insinuate that I have any germs?"

"Oh, Aunt Charabella," answered Mrs. Newmother, as sweet as ever. "You ought to take what I have just said as a compliment. Germs and flies, you know—they both like sweet things."

It is wise to strive for perfection yourself, but folly to expect it of others.

What One of the Best Known Travellers in Canada Says.

"Now I am going to give you an unpatented testimonial as they say in the patent medicine advertising. Heretofore I have had a profound contempt for patent medicines, particularly so-called liniments. Perhaps this is due to the reason that I have been blessed with a sturdy constitution and have never been ill a day in my life. One day last fall after a hard day's tramp in the snow of Montreal, I developed a severe pain in my legs and of course like a man who has never had anything wrong with him physically, I complained rather boastfully. The good little wife says: 'I will rub them with some liniment I have.' 'Go ahead,' I said, just to humor her. Well, in she comes with a bottle of Minard's Liniment and gets busy. Believe me the pain disappeared a few minutes after, and you can tell the world I said so."

Surnames and Their Origin

HIGGINS

Variations—O'Higgin, MacHiggin, Higginson, Huggins, McHiggin, McGuigan.

Racial Origin—Irish.

Source—A given name.

While the family names Higgins and Higginson often come from "Hick" or "Hiccon," old English nicknames for Richard, it is safe to say that in the majority of cases in this country such names are Celtic. So far as O'Higgin and MacHiggin or McHiggin are concerned there is no reasonable doubt that they are Irish.

The Irish Higgins, like the English, comes from a given name, but not the same one.

The mistake is often made of confusing this name with the name of Keegan, that is, in assuming that it comes from the same given name, Eoghan, through the use of the prefix "mac." The argument being that there is little real difference between MacKegan and MacHiggin. This argument, however, loses sight of the fact that both of these forms are but English corruptions of the Irish surnames, which are traceable definitely to different sources both by means of spelling and the historical-genealogical records in the Irish language.

The Irish form of the surname is "O'h-Uigin," or "MacUigan," the "h" being a necessary insertion after "O" to make it pronounceable. The family or clan name comes from the given name of "Uigin," which means "knowledge."

The form Higginson would appear to be English, but there are many cases on record where it is simply an Anglicized version of the Irish family name. In Ireland this family name is most common in Westmeath and Galway.

BECK

Variations—Beckett, Becker, Beckman.

Racial Origin—Anglo-Saxon, also German.

Source—Geographical, also occupational.

While the family names of Beck, Beckett, Becker and Beckman have become confused through changes in spelling, so that the tracing of one involves the tracing of the other, there are really two sources of the name, different in racial origin and in meaning.

It is safe to assert, however, that if you spell your name, Beck, or Beckett, it probably comes from England, and if it is Becker, or Beckman, it originated in Germany.

Beck was simply a very old English word for brook. It has become a family name in the same manner that Brooks has. It probably made its first appearance in some such form as "Thomas Ate Beck," or "Thomas at the Beck." It is easy to see how such descriptive phrases early became family names, for they were as naturally applicable to father, son and grandson, through succeeding generations while the family continued to live in the same place. Beck is also an Anglo-Saxon word; all of which points to a very early use of it as a family name, even if unconsciously.

Beckett means a little brook, or a brooklet.

Becker, however, is of German origin, being the word for baker, though this is betrayed by the vowel "e" rather than the ending "er" which was almost as common a method of denoting occupation in old England as in Germany. The same holds true of Beckman, which, of course, is a shortened form of Beckmann.

The Folly of Cheating Nature

Many people get the idea that they can keep their nerves on edge and their digestion upset year after year, and "get away with it." They sleep only half as much as they should—and never get properly and thoroughly rested.

If you tire out easily, if you are getting pale and anemic, if your food doesn't digest as it should, would it not be well to stop and consider whether tea or coffee is having its effect on you?

The thein and caffeine found in tea and coffee are drugs, as any doctor can tell you. Is it any wonder that the steady use of these drugs sometimes causes serious damage?

If you really want to be fair with yourself, and give yourself the opportunity you deserve in order to do your best work, make up your mind to quit tea and coffee for awhile—and drink delicious, appetizing Postum instead.

Postum permits sound, refreshing sleep which builds strength, energy and endurance.

Order Postum from your Grocer today. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for 10 days and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
