Ladies Aid Birthday Party

Most successful as also delightful was the Birthday Party held in the (school room) of the Methodist Church last Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid, who are deserving of every congratulation.

The spaciouly laid out tables, so beautifully artistic in every detail of their respective Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter Season pattern, made an effect strikingly pleasing, while the sumptuous repast lacked nothing in completeness. "Spring" by Mrs. W. Mylks was carried out in green and smiling daffodils, "Summer" by Mrs. W. Cook in the blushing pink rose and maiden hair fern, "Autumn" by Mrs. R. Petch in an artistic predominance of Maple Leaves, and "Winter" by Mrs. J. P. Glass, who appropriately chose the cheering Red Carnations and green. Completing each table was the centre candle a brass, the soft glow of the candlebras underneath the daintily arranged shades, adding unconsciously further to the welcome. Equally beautiful in detail was the Children's Table, the ladies in charge most cleverly designing and carrying out in miniature, the enchanting Juvenile May pole scheme.

At the conclusion of the supper a very pleasant programme was given, Mrs. Sainsbury of Toronto rendering two vocal numbers in splendid style, as also Mr. Sautter in a ballad solo. Mr. Newell Price delighted his audience in the reading number as chosen, while Miss Myrtle McCague recited in that finished style, delightful and refreshing always to hear. The Cadet String Orchestra under Cadet Sergeants, Jack Glass, Ernest Dickinson, Stanley Ransom, Clarence Mylks and Mr. Harry Sanderson splendidly performed, while Mrs. W. Mylks, Convenor of the Committee, also rendered a vocal number which was enthusiastically enjoyed. Miss Olive Morrison and Miss Jessie Comisky ably acted as accompanists for the evening, and the Rev. Mr. McNeill, was effusive in his praise for the Ladies Aid who had done so much to make the occasion the success that it was. By their effort Mrs. Grainger and Mrs. Sims had announced that $95 was realized, and in expressing appreciation of the support they received, he also on their behalf thanked those who had assisted in making of the occasion the artistic success that it was.

TICKETS GOING FAST

Yes indeed folks, tickets are going with a rush. On Saturday evening last, when the plan first opened, over one hundred and seventy tickets went with some speed. Now as the show is only one week away, and is positively limited to three big nights, you will have to hustle to secure good seats. Tickets for sale at Sloan's Drug Store—This is the last warning.

Remember the dates—Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 20, 21 and 22, when fun and frivolity in all its forms will be served out, together with plenty of good instrumental and vocal music; not forgetting numerous short screamingly funny skits that will make you chortle with glee for a week. Come everyone and enjoy the entertainment. Laugh and grow fat—or shake and reduce. No sales tax on giggles and grins. Beware lest you forget to book your seats in time, for the great event opens next Thursday night.

R. H. H. S. Literary Society

The Richmond Hill High School Literary Society held its last meeting in the school on April 7th. The meeting was largely attended by the pupils and ex-pupils. After the program, consisting of recitations, speeches, a parody on "Peggy O'Neil," about the boys of the school, and a mock parliament, refreshments were served by the executive. Games followed until half-past eleven, when everyone left declaring they had had a delightful time, but regretted the absence of Mr. Elliott owing to sickness.

The president, Allen Armstrong, presided at all the meetings held during the year, at which the Tattler edited by Carol Langstaff, was read and always greatly enjoyed. During the year the girls and boys of the school rivalled each other in preparing the best programme for the different meetings. The Society is greatly indebted to Cecil Martin for his cornet solos, given several times during the year, and to Blanche Grant who was the assistant pianist.
