Communication

To the Editor of The Liberal:

Dear Sir,—Geo. Gee and daughter, Sadie, wish to express, through your paper, their sincere appreciation of the many thoughtful kindnesses done, and the many beautiful floral tributes sent to Mrs. Gee during her long and trying illness. This touch of sympathy has done much to soften the blow, which has fallen upon the husband and daughter.

Are You Watching Our Business Grow?

Of a given subject, trade or profession, efficiency is obtained by experience or study. We have been connected with Dry Goods and Millinery for a number of years, and are conversant with every phase of the business, both buying and selling, the buying end of which we consider the most important, it being acknowledged by the trade, that goods well bought, are goods half sold.

By knowing where, how, and the right time to buy, we are enabled to make our display according to the seasons, offering the best possible quality in all classes of merchandise at the lowest possible price.

By giving good service, combined with consistency and courtesy, we are gradually expanding our business and establishing a relationship, meriting the confidence of our customers.
