

BRITISH FORCES DRIVE REPUBLICAN ARMY OVER ULSTER BORDER

Infantry, Cavalry and Whippet Tanks Used by Imperial Troops to Retake Pettigoe and Sweep Raiding Bands from Territory Captured in Ulster.

London, June 4.—Infantry, cavalry, artillery and whippet tanks took part in the first offensive action of the British troops on the Ulster borderland early this afternoon, when Pettigoe, which straddles the line, though a large part of the town is in Free State territory, was stormed and retaken from troops of the Irish Republican army, who entered on May 30.

Reports from Belfast describe the border countryside as swarming with khaki, while the British General directs the operations from headquarters on a hill outside the town.

When it became evident that the British were moving in force against Pettigoe, the Republicans began to withdraw, consequently there was little resistance to parties of soldiers, in motors and on foot, who dashed through the town shortly after noon. It is semi-officially announced that the Republicans suffered fairly heavy losses, but the sole casualty on the Northern side was the driver of a motor car.

Besides the Republican commandant and staff, who were taken prisoner when the troops entered the town, it is reported that a large number of Sinn Feiners were captured in a later clean-up of Pettigoe. Of three columns of troops which last evening began advancing into the section of Fermanagh county occupied by the Southerners, two columns operated toward Pettigoe, the other in the direction of Belleek, which the Republicans had also occupied.

Military activity in reality began about 10 o'clock Saturday night, when troops with full fighting equipment marched from Enniskillen along the western side of Lough Erne toward Belleek. Artillery with armored cars, tenders and all the customary paraphernalia of war in its train also rattled along the narrow road. It was planned to place big guns in position near Roscoe, where they would command not only Magheramena Castle, but also Belleek and the fort overlooking it, occupied by Sinn Fein forces.

At noon the troops had approached to within a mile of Pettigoe without drawing the fire of the Southerners who were engaged in the evacuation of the place and of the hills which dominated the main road along the line of march of the troops. While on the Free State side there was complete silence, the greatest activity was displayed by the approaching columns, with manoeuvring cavalry, and specials in motors and whippet tanks flying the Union Jack. The tanks were always in readiness to move to the support of the advancing columns.

There was intense machine gun fire from the Free State side of the border all day Saturday on a six-mile front without perceptible result.

"HIKING" ARMY REACHES OTTAWA

Committee of Twelve to Confer With Cabinet — 278 Survive Journey.

Ottawa, June 4.—The unemployed veterans' army, led by "General" Frank Riley, arrived in Ottawa this morning, and after a parade through the city reached Lansdowne Park shortly before noon. They are now quartered at Howick Hall, and will remain there till the interview with the Government is arranged.

The army on entering the Exhibition grounds numbered 278. According to "General" Riley they will not be allowed to leave the Exhibition grounds till the interview with the Government is arranged. Mayor Frank Plant, who addressed the men in Howick Hall on their arrival, offered his services in arranging an interview with the Government. "General" Riley also addressed the men. Then an excellent dinner was served.

Mayor Frank Plant was busy this afternoon and evening arranging for the meeting between the men and the Government. It was finally suggested and agreed to by the men that a committee of 12 of the marchers would go into the Railway Committee rooms of the Parliament Buildings and confer with the Prime Minister, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King; Hon. Dr. Bland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment; Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor; Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Militia, and Herbert Marler, M.P., Chairman of the Committee on Pensions and Re-establishment.

True Economy in Education.

Renewed interest in Ontario's Provincial University and its needs has been aroused by the publication of a series of bulletins issued by the Alumni Federation of the University of Toronto. One of these bulletins refers to questions asked by some who are interested in the University as to why the expenditure for maintenance should be so much greater than it was seventeen years ago, before the re-organization which took place in 1906. In reply to these inquiries it is pointed out that, for some years previous to 1906, the Provincial University was, admittedly, starved. It was literally in a dying condition. To remedy this state of affairs the Royal Commission of that year recommended greatly enlarged government support and this was forthcoming. Then the Provincial University began to expand and to offer the type of education demanded by intelligent people. To compare maintenance expenditures of seventeen years ago with those of the present year is like comparing the food cost of a delicate, starving child with that of a vigorous, full-grown man. The University of Toronto is managed, the Bulletins state, with the most careful economy consistent with efficiency; no dollar is wasted. The British Government received an adverse vote in the House of Commons recently because the majority of the members apparently thought that the attempt to effect so-called economies in education was ill-advised. The feeling of the people of Canada, like that of the people of Great Britain, may perhaps be most concisely expressed in the following sentence from the "Montreal Gazette": "Economy at all times is requisite, it is admitted; but a failure to secure the best and most progressive system of education for a country is not economy in any sense of the word, but rather a peculiarly reprehensible form of extravagance."

The Duke of York, Premier Lloyd George and Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Colonial Secretary, will attend the Dominion Day dinner in London.

APPALLING DISORDERS IN BELFAST EXCEED ALL PREVIOUS HORRORS

Rebels Use Bombs — Ambulances Summoned Thirteen Times Within Five Hours — Military Obligated to Resort to Bayonet Charges to Dispel Mobs.

A despatch from London says:—The hottest battle between the military and Sinn Fein gunmen since the Belfast turmoil began occurred on Thursday morning in the Roman Catholic areas between Grosvenor Road and Falls Road. The Evening Standard's Belfast correspondent says:

"Appalling disorders have occurred here, the like of which this city of horrors has never experienced before. Between seven o'clock and noon ambulances were summoned thirteen times. The streets were raked with machine gun fire; the rebels, in turn, bombed several places; two whole blocks of houses were set on fire, and while the firemen fought the flames, the battle waged in the streets all round.

"Nine civilians were carried out dead from this inferno, two of them women. Many were killed in houses, into which the rival factions pursued them in fury. The bodies were rescued only in time to prevent cremation.

"Bayonet charges by the military were necessary to dispel the mobs which gathered to join in the battle. The gunmen retreated to the Grosvenor Road area, where a fresh battle broke out, involving Lesson Street, Norfolk Street, Grosvenor Place, McDonnell Street and other thoroughfares. The Crown forces had a difficult task in suppressing the gunmen. Their concentrated fire reduced the gunmen to silence for a while, but later the rebels mounted a machine gun and swept the streets, causing men, women and children to fly for their lives."

More than thirty houses were burned in the Milfield and Peter's Hill area of Belfast on Thursday. Only the skeleton walls of 13 houses in Boyd Street remain. All the 14 houses on Peter's Place were destroyed, while dwellings on California Street and Woodford Street were damaged by fire and looted.

On Thursday a public house in Peter's Hill was burned. Heavy firing occurred near the Stanhope Street area, after which the police made extensive raids for arms.

The barracks of the special constables at Crossmaglen and Jackson House, two miles inside the Louth-Armagh border, were attacked by parties of armed men. Heavy rifle firing ensued for half an hour, after which the attacking party withdrew, apparently without casualties.

The British destroyer Warwick held up a steamer from Moville to Londonderry in Lough Foyle, off the Northern county Londonderry coast. The destroyer put police on board the steamer. They searched the passengers, but made no arrests.

EXCHANGE ADVANCES ON U.S. MARKET

Provisional Moratorium to Germany Caused British Securities to Soar.

A despatch from Paris says:—The Reparations Commission have fully approved the German reply to its ultimatum and definitely decided to grant Germany a provisional moratorium for the year 1922. The text of the Commission's letter to Chancellor Wirth and also its decisions were issued after the Commission had framed them at a session lasting many hours. The decision was unanimous, the French delegate joining in it, despite the report of opposition from a section of the Chamber, which caused deep concern in commission circles during the day.

A despatch from New York says:—The granting of a one-year provisional moratorium to Germany by her former enemies was followed by a series of interesting movements in the local foreign exchange market on Thursday. Remittances on London rose to the highest quotations in three years, demand sterling selling at $4.45%, with cables a fraction over $4.46, and a corresponding gain in sixty-day bills. The German rate also improved, marks rising to the equivalent of 100 for 38 cents, as against the recent low quotation of 100 for 32 cents.

Strength of British exchange, according to well-informed brokers, seemed to be predicted on the belief that the moratorium would be followed by a large German loan and resultant re-establishment of large credits by that country in London, more or less to the disadvantage of France and other Continental centres.

MINE CANADA FOR PREHISTORIC MONSTER

Chicago Scientists to Search for Remains of Extinct Lizard.

A despatch from Chicago says:—A party of Chicagoans left on Thursday night for an exploration trip in Canada to search for the remains of "the terrible lizard," a beast of monstrous size, equipped with huge armor plates of bone and horns. The expedition is being sent out by the Field Museum.

No museum in the country has yet acquired an entire skeleton of one of these prehistoric monsters, but the expedition from the Field Museum, headed by E. S. Riggs, Assistant Curator, hopes to return with a complete specimen.

Hunting for dinosaurs is very much like prospecting for minerals, according to J. B. Abbott, one of the party. Often fragments of bone are found in a wash which comes from some distance. These are traced back to the mother rock and digging is begun there.

Show that you are abundantly worthy of better things. Express yourself as freely as you please in this manner, for it is the only way that will count; that will lead you to the higher place you desire.

General Advance by Central China Leader

A despatch from Tientsin says:—General Wu Pei-Fu, using the Chinese Eastern Railway, has instituted a general advance against the forces of General Chang Tao-Lin, whom he recently drove out of Peking into Manchuria. General Wu's objective is Shan-haikwan, at the southern tip of Manchuria, on the Gulf of Liao Tung.

Feeling against Chang Tso-Lin is said to be spreading in Manchuria. The entire line of the Chinese Eastern Railway is reported in the hands of supporters of Wu Pei-Fu.

Line of Travel Maintained Throughout Trip, Major Westover Claims.

Quebec, June 4.—None the worse for wear as a result of their remarkable experience in the great Milwaukee race which took them across the Great Lakes, over the terrain of Northern Ontario and the virgin forests of Quebec, a distance of nearly 850 miles, in 17 hours, to the point of their forced landing at St. Andre Le-Pouvante, Major Oscar Westover, Chief of the Air Service at Washington, and his companion, Lieut. C. F. Bond of the proving grounds, Maryland, arrived in the city of Quebec last night.

"The feature of the flight, from our point of view," declared the Major, "was the demonstration of the fact that it is possible, by the correct interpretation of the aerial currents at different altitudes, to shape an almost definite course from the moment you take the air."

ASKED TO MEDIATE IN IRISH AFFAIRS

Earl of Balfour Appointed by British Cabinet to Unravel Entire Situation.

A despatch from London says:—The new Earl of Balfour has been asked by the British Cabinet to act as mediator to try and smooth out the entire Irish situation, both as regards Southern Ireland and the border situation in the north.

In the meantime Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, has given the Cabinet his views of the state of affairs in Ulster. Although he now has 10,000 British troops apart from his "Ulster volunteers" and special constabulary, he complains that his control of the situation is insufficient and he wants a free hand to use the troops as he pleases.

He also put forward an explanation as to why the Ulster Government is unable to maintain law and order in Belfast, but he apparently failed to impress the Cabinet, which finally consented to the use of British troops for the sake of the defence of Ulster, but refused to allow him to use them for operations across the border.
