

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can Be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters' complexions and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Why They Fluked.

These are culled from a collection of recent schoolboy howlers:

"A grass widow is the wife of a dead vegetarian."

"Oceanica is that continent which contains no land."

"Parallel lines are the same distance all the way and do not meet unless you bend them."

"Louis XVI. was gelatinized during the French Revolution."

"Palsy is a kind of new writer's dance."

"Letters in sloping print are hysterics."

Stories About Well-Known People

Royalty Gets a Diploma.

When the Wharton School of Business administration at the University of Pennsylvania held its graduating exercises this summer many foreign students received diplomas and none showed more pride in the hard won bit of sheepskin than a scion of Oriental royalty, Vira Virakorn, who is a cousin of the King of Siam.

By very ancient tradition the business activities of royal persons have been limited to the narrow but not unfruitful fields of imposing taxes or receiving for the contents of the privy purse voted them by their adoring subjects. Common report has it that Siamese royalty has also kept up a herd of white elephants to let off its excess energy.

Whether Virakorn will stick to the good old days when he gets back to Bangkok, or branch out for himself in some new line, has not been indicated. It may well be that the Siamese monarch has a good many cousins to keep up, and that the young graduate's thorough acquaintance with American methods in commerce, industry and finance will not prove unacceptable to his exalted uncle.

Railroad Man Gives Out Surprising Facts

"If any in my family were sick with stomach trouble or run-down condition, I would rather have one bottle of Tanlac than all the other remedies put together." is the positive statement of F. A. Barrowcliff, 8 Locomotive St., Hamilton, Ont., well-known yardman for the Grand Trunk Railroad.

"My wife's health was restored by the Tanlac treatment in such short order it was astonishing, for she suffered so terribly with nervousness, headaches, sleeplessness and loss of appetite that I thought she would break down completely. She went meal after meal without eating, and was so

Would Signal Mars by Flashing Light.

Dr. A. M. Low, an English inventor, believes it possible to get into communication with Mars by means of light signalling.

"There are several known chemical means of producing a light screen of sufficient size which would last long enough to be noticed by the Martians, if such exist," he said. "I think a suitable screen could be set out on a high altitude by airplanes, to eliminate as far as possible the effect of air and clouds, which combine to make difficult any observation of the earth itself."

Dr. Low considers wireless waves less practical, as they travel in curves, making it difficult to gauge the target. He holds it ludicrous to expect to find the Martians' life similar to our own.

"Some years ago we thought that animals and plants were the only things which lived," he said, "but now we know there is life in everything. I have never seen anything yet which was not alive."

"The Martians might be able to see by heat waves. A small difference in our physical makeup would revolutionize our world and ideas of living. If we were born with eyes having only slightly different lenses to normal we would see the air around us full of life and our bath water a mass of horrible looking creatures."

Dr. Low disagrees with those who assert the Martians are more advanced than earthlings. "If they were, they would have found some means ere this of communicating with us," he said.

"I will have half a dozen of these," said the Bey calmly, and continued his shopping, making purchases on the same scale now and then.

And here is a good story told by him. A French policeman stopped a two seater and, hailing the chauffeur, asked him for his permit to drive in Paris. The man put his hand in his pocket, but, as he was about to produce the necessary papers, Monsieur l'Agent stopped him.

"It is all right," he said, with a smile. "I only wanted to see your permit if you hadn't got it!"

Sherlock-Holmes Methods.

A joke was played on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle by a French taxicab driver recently. The man had driven the world-famous creator of "Sherlock Holmes" from the station to the hotel, and when he received his fare he said, "Merci, M. Conan Doyle."

"Why, how do you know my name?" asked Sir Arthur.

"Well, sir, I have seen in the papers that you were coming from the South of France to Paris. Your general appearance told me that you were English; your hair had been clearly last cut by a barber of the South of France. I put these indications together, and—I saw your name on your luggage!"

EASY TRICKS

No. 44

The Endless String

Ask a friend to take off his coat. Tie the ends of a string, about nine feet long, together and slip it over his right arm. Ask your friend to place his right hand in one of the pockets on the right side of his vest. So far the trick is easy—but now—

Ask him to remove the string from his arm without breaking it, untying it or taking his right hand out of his vest pocket. It seems impossible but it can be done. Show your friend how to do it by putting the string on yourself in the manner indicated and proceeding in this manner:

With the left hand, reach inside the vest, out through the right arm hole and grasp the string. Pull it through the armhole. Then put the loop over your head and then through the opposite armhole from the inside of the vest. Reach up under your vest and draw the string down around your body. The finish of the stunt will now be apparent. Draw the string down over your feet—and the trick is done.

(Clip this out and paste it, with other of the series, in a scrapbook.)

MRS. DAVIS NERVOUS WRECK

Tells Women How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"I cannot speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. EMILY DAVIS, 721 McGee Street, Winnipeg, Man.
