Improve The Library

Richmond Hill owes much to its Woman's Institute. And another debt is added to the already long list by reason of the vigorous manner in which the Institute has come to grips with the problem of improving the Public Library's facilities and equipment.

As a matter of fact, there should be no such "problem." An additional $300 or $400, it is estimated, would suffice to take care of the more urgent and immediate needs. That the village cannot readily provide this amount for such a purpose is unthinkable. In quickening the cultural development of a community no force is so strong and so persistent as that of an adequate library.

Admirable service has been given by the Library within the narrow and trying limitations imposed upon Mr. A. L. Phipps, the librarian, by lack of funds.

In the library are some 5,000 volumes. There is a complete catalogue for only about 5,000. Full cataloguing should be carried out by an expert on the duo-decimal system. The cost would approximate $200, of which the Provincial Government would grant $100. Additional space is needed for several purposes, such as:

- 1.—The establishment of a nucleus of a reference section, which could be built up as time goes on.
- 2.—A larger reading room, with a special corner for children.
- 3.—Shelving which would be within easy reach, many books now being placed at about the same general altitude as "Haman's gallows," by reason of cramped quarters.

Provision should also be made for the repairing of damaged books.

The total grants to the Library now are: Province, $90; County, $25; Markham Township, $15; Vaughan Township, $10; Village, 4-10 of a mill, $325; or in all, $465. For one room, rent of $5 is paid, insurance of $1,500 must be carried, and fuel is provided.

A survey of the whole situation is now being made by the Woman's Institute, and if means can be found to raise $300, a report to the Library Board will probably be made by a special committee.

Every consideration demands that the library's equipment shall be kept abreast of the needs of a progressive community—and the burden of carrying forward the improvements should not fall entirely upon the shoulders of the Woman's Institute.

Explanations In Order

Mr. Meighen not long since was berating Premier King for the latter's refusal to shout "Ready, Aye, Ready," and pledge Canada to plunge into a war against Turkey. The resounding call to arms, it transpired later, was merely a tawdry bit of trickery on the part of a third rate Downing Street politician, for which he later earned the censure of all parties in Britain. Now Mr. Meighen announces that he wouldn't think of shouting "Ready, Aye, Ready" without consulting Parliament. What is going to happen to the Empire, unless Old Mother Telegram hoists the Union Jack on the front page, and brings forth her spanking stick for a session with Li'l Arthur in the woodshed?

"P.R." For Toronto

"Probably one of the quickest ways to break up the political Soviet which governs Toronto would be to re-arrange the city's representation at Ottawa, so that nine members would be elected by a general vote of the city at large," says the Hudson Herald. "That would mean that the little frame-tips and the political juggling which goes on now would be largely nullified! It would mean that various interests in the city which are hopelessly outnumbered now would have a chance of representation, and if the 'gang' wanted to go on winning they would have to put real men up as candidates, men who would command the respect of the citizens at large. Premier King might well make such an amendment to the Election Act at the coming session and try it out. It couldn't be any worse than it is now at any rate."

The Liberal believes that some such plan as is suggested above would be a good beginning, but it further believes that a more scientific method would be to select Toronto as the locality for a test of the full application of the principle of proportional representation such as was proposed a few years ago.

It looks like a hard winter. Signs multiply that Newmarket hibernated early this year and pulled the hole in after it. The first indication that Newmarket was suffering from some form of sleeping sickness was furnished in the election returns. Now it would appear to be soundly snoring, oblivious of time, and probably definitely off the map until about "Groundhog Day." The esteemed Express-Herald makes the following open confession: "It would seem as if 'Time was no object' in Newmarket on Armistice Day, when it was found to be very difficult to find out the correct time at which the two minute silence would be revered. Everyone knew it was eleven o'clock, but no one was sure just when that was, as the Post Office clock and the factory clocks were all at variance. Though we may be all at variance about some things, why not try and agree upon 'The Time O' Day.'"

The Milverton Sun says: A Wellesley farmer remarked to The Sun the other day when in renewing his subscription: "I am sure that it would pay farmers holding auction sales to have the list of articles they are offering for sale appear in The Sun where everyone can scan the advertisement when by his own fireside." "It was not long ago," he continued, "that I wanted a certain article that was advertised by poster which I had not the opportunity of seeing. I found afterwards that the article was sold at an indifferent price. Had I known of it being offered the purchaser would have had to raise his bids before obtaining it, as I would have gone considerably higher to obtain it."

It is with pleasure that The Liberal extends its congratulations to The Markham Economist, which with last week's issue reached the seventy-second year of its publication. With the exception of the Newmarket Era, which was founded in 1854 by the late Erasmus Jackson and is still conducted by his son Lyman, The Economist is the oldest weekly newspaper in Canada to be conducted by the one family. The Economist points out with satisfaction that "there are several names on our subscription books who have been subscribers for over fifty years."

The Economist's well-balanced editorial judgment and typographical excellence make it certain that a worthy tradition will be worthily carried forward by its publishers, Messrs. Corson & Son.

HEALTH NURSE PLAN APPROVED

Woman's Institute Supports Movement—Worlds Peace Also Is Discussed.

The Women's Institute held a most interesting meeting on Thursday last, at the home of Mrs. A. L. Phipps. The reports of the various committees showed the institute were taking a very vital interest in local affairs. There being a report of relief work on the local public library with certain recommendations for assistance which the Institute might render. Also a report concerning the possibility of a public health nurse in this community was given, and the Institute expressed their great sympathy with this cause and their willingness to do all in their power to establish such an institution here.

Mrs. W. A. Trench gave a most illuminating address on the League of Nations—reviewing the whole movement from its inception until the present. The growth of the League and the volume of worth-while work accomplished have been most phenomenal. Mrs. Trench pointed out that if civilization did not end war, war would end civilization. That world co-operation was as thrilling a venture as war, was proved conclusively by this instructive address.

Mrs. W. J. McIntosh spoke briefly on "Topics of the Day. The Locarno Pact was her chief subject, and following as it did the address of the afternoon, was most appropriate. That we must learn to regard all nations, irrespective of their tongue and color, as our equals, if the efforts of the League of Nations are to be of permanent value, was very happily dealt with. The recent federal election and the indecisive result of the same was mentioned among other things. That Canadians must learn to think on National lines, lest their cleavage between the east and the west was shown by the speaker, an easterner who has lived several years in the west.

Mrs. R. Macdonald favored the meeting with a solo. A social half hour followed.

York County Team Winners

1925 he won first prize ($20) for judging dairy cattle. In 1924 at a provincial competition in Toronto he stood first in hog-judging. With two Steekley boys, he was a member of the team which won the Junior Championship for judging at Donalda farm. The team, which was coached by Russell Boynton of Gormley won permanent possession of a silver cup.

The Royal Team, consisting of Byron Hill, Queensville, at present is a student at the O.A.C. Jack Frisby and Nelson Boynton of Gormley, stood fourth at the Royal, and lacked only 38 points of winning. Oxford County won first. Byron Hill stood fourth among ninety young men, while Jack Frisby won a medal as high man in swine. Russell Boynton entered as a free lance and judged in a competition against three College teams, all fourth year men, and other competitors who have great reputations. Mr. Boynton was acclaimed high man, and won the premier prize, an accomplishment hardly thought possible amid such strong competition.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Issue of November 21, 1895
"Every good citizen feels that our village band is worthy of our best support. They cheerfully assist at any entertainment or gathering, wherever their services are required, and they make the summer evenings pleasant by the choice music they give in the streets from time to time," reads a local item announcing a concert to be given Thanksgiving Day in the Masonic Hall. Among the assisting artists were H. Sheppard Musson, Miss Eva Cross, Miss Frances H. Crosby, Miss Annie Scarborough, Mr. A. S. Savage, baritone; Mr. R. W. Glass, cornet soloist; Mr. A. Shierk, trombone soloist; Mr. W. E. Wiley, tuba soloist. All in favor of a NEW Richmond Hill band that will keep up with the spirit of '95 say "eye."

W. J. Gould returns from hunt near Bracebridge, bringing a deer, which was displayed in Mr. Hopper's butcher shop. He took north 200 barrels of apples, which he sold in North Bay, and brought back a carload of cattle. Rev. J. Vickery occupied the chair at the Upper Canada Bible Society meeting.

Members of Lord Elgin Camp, Sons of Scotland, Richmond Hill, drove over to Woodbridge in a four-in-hand for Camp McLean's "gathering of the clans." In the party were Thomas Newton, Chief; William Innes, Chief-tain; T. Thompson, James Mackenzie, George Sims, John McKinnon, F. Marsh, John Innes, D. B. Birrell, John Brydon, Alex. Sims, S. Shunk, R. Moodie and P. G. Savage. "Decked in their Scotch bonnets and plaidies, a jollier lot of entertainers is seldom our lot to meet," comments a Woodbridge correspondent.

Petition presented by James Kirby from J. T. Saigson, L. Richardson, E. H. Elliott, asking aid for public library at Maple, laid over by Vaughan council for "future consideration."

Mr. Coombs and Wyc. Trench presented arguments in a debate under the auspices of the Epworth League, to show that "the oily tongues of the gentler sex" had caused more unhappiness than man's intemperance. Taking the other side of the oratorical battle, W. E. Brown and G. R. Coombs pictured women as little below "angels without wings." Mr. Hume, as president, in giving the decision, announced that the judges, Rev. Messrs. Vickery and Powell, had decided that the result was a draw.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Issue of November 22, 1900
Mrs. H. Bailey, of Maple, returned after spending a month with friends in McKeesport, Pa. Aurora decided to hold a Christmas market. Rev. N. Wellwood to preach at in-vin-sary services in Gilford. ## Library Notes

The Library has been enriched by placing on the shelves a number of outstanding literary productions selected under the direction of the Provincial Superintendent of Public Libraries, and no doubt the patrons of our institution will appreciate the opportunity of reading these works. Among the number are the following: "Wanderings in Northern China," by Franck; "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," by Franck; "A Wanderer Among Pictures," by Lucas; "Windows of Westminster," by Winn; "Chas. Dickens," by Chesterton; "Days Before Yesterday," by Hamilton; "Here, There and Everywhere," by Hamilton; "Margaret Ethel Macdonald," by J. Ramsay MacDonald; "A Political Pilgrimage in Europe," by Mrs. Philip Snowden; "The Adventure of Wrangel Island," by Stefan-son; "The Laurentians," by Langstretch; "Friendly Arctic," by Stefan-son; "Two Vagabonds in the Balkans," by Gordon; "The Riviera of the Cornish Road," by Trees; "Canada," by Carpenter; "Glimpses of Japan and Formosa," by Franck; "Thro' Thirty Years," by Steed; "Life of W. H. Page," by Hendrick; "Vanished Poppa," by Hamilton; "Canadian Portraits," by McDonald; "The Man of Promise," by Raymond; "Roaming Through the West Indies," by Franck; "With Staff and Scrip," by O'Hagan; "Outlines of History," by Wells.

There have been placed also quite a number of juvenile books and about 175 volumes of adult fiction. There is a good pair of child's kid
