HEADFORD

Interesting services were held in Headford Church last Sunday both morning and evening. They were of a memorial character in place of decoration services held in summer time in the interest of the cemetery which has been put into a very creditable condition. The pastor Rev. J. W. Fox preached an appropriate sermon in the morning on Isaiah 64: 6. "We all do fade as a leaf," as also Mr. Sellar in the evening on Matt. 24: 28. "Whosoever the carcass is there will the eagles be gathered together." The singing was splendid by the choir assisted by Miss Smith and Mrs. Quantz.

D.D.G.M. Paid Official Visit To Local Lodge

Richmond Lodge A. F. & A. M. held a very successful evening on Wednesday, October 20th, it being the occasion of the official visit of R. W. Bro. W. E. Hopkins, D. D. G. M. There was a large attendance of members as well as several brethren from Aurora, Thornhill, Markham and Toronto Lodges. The first degree was exemplified and after the regular lodge work the members gathered around the banquet table and an enjoyable toast list was carried out. W. Bro. Herrington, W. M. of Richmond Lodge ably presided as toast master. The toast to Grand Lodge was proposed by R. W. Bro. H. A. Nicholls and responded to by the honored guest of the evening, R. W. Bro. Hopkins. R. W. Bro. W. H. Legge proposed the toast to the visiting brethren which was responded to by R. W. Bro. J. McDonald, Aurora and R. W. Bro. J. E. Francis, Thornhill.

OAK RIDGES

The October meeting of the Oak Ridges branch of the Women's Institute was held on Wednesday afternoon of last week, at the residence of Mrs. R. W. E. Burnaby. Miss Alexina Morton was joint hostess with Mrs. Burnaby.

A most interesting exhibit of Family Relics, including rare china, Sheffield Plate, silver, brass, hand woven linen and wearing apparel were displayed in answer to the Roll Call. Each member in turn gave the history of the article brought. Miss Morton's historical sketch of the Paisley shawl in Paisley, Scotland, added great interest in the shawl she wore it having belonged to her great-grandmother.

A very instructive paper on antiques was read by Mrs. Burnaby, and Mrs. James Stewart's reading of Selina Morrison's "To Home" created much merriment.

The excellent rendering by Miss Morton of Old Time Songs was very appropriate and greatly enjoyed.

A social half hour was spent at the close of the meeting, during which dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The Institute regrets the omission of Mrs. Weldon's name amongst the speakers who so ably contributed to the program of the September meeting held at the residence of Mrs. W. H. Legge.

The next regular monthly meeting will be held on the first Wednesday in November, at 3 p.m. at the residence of Mrs. Fred Legge.

Council Asked Why No Effort To Secure Local Industries

Four Appeals Against Assessment—Only Haphazard Assessment Says H. A. Nicholls.

What The Council Did
Heard appeals against assessment. Passed a by-law prohibiting meetings from the street without a permit from the Council.
Decided to fix the holes on Yonge Street.
Called for tenders for 400 yards of gravel for Richmond and Centre Sts.
Asked the Horticultural Society to beautify approaches to the town.
Passed a resolution fixing rental on corporation cement mixer and forbidding that it be taken outside the village.
Appointed a committee to confer with school board re repair of belfry.

Heard a citizen's request that an effort be made to secure industries for the town.

The regular meeting of the Richmond Hill council was held on Monday night with Reeve Lunau in the chair and all members present.

The council first sat as a court of Revision and heard four appeals against the assessment. The appeals of Mrs. Hamilton, Richmond Street; Chas. Cooper, Centre Street, and J.C. Gostling, Lucas Street, were disallowed, while a reduction of $200.00 was granted to H. A. Nicholls on the shoe factory property on Yonge Street. The original assessment was $3075 which was reduced to $2875. This is made up of $1364 for land and $1511 for the building. Mr. Nicholls complained that the assessment of the town was a haphazard one and was not at all equalized. He however thanked the Council for the small reduction with the remark that small donations are thankfully received. Four appeals against the assessment are the most which have been received for several years. In supporting the motion for the reduction of assessment of Mr. Nicholls property, Councillor Sloan said he did not think it was actually too high, but in proportion to other properties it was.

Messrs. G. H. Duncan, H. Murphy and R. Cooper of the Board of Education waited on the Council regarding the condition of the belfry in the public school, and pointed out that the bell was used by the town for the convenience of the citizens and that they should therefore be responsible for repairs. It was pointed out that when the school was built the agreement was that the town would supply the bell if the Board would build the belfry. Councillor Greene, therefore, maintained that it was up to the School Board to keep their share of the contract in repair. Councillor Sloan thought it was only a question of which pocket to pay it out of and a committee composed of the Reeve, Councillors Baldoek and Sloan, were appointed to investigate and confer with the School Board. It is understood that the committee will climb the tower about one o'clock on Saturday and there was no intimation that the general public would not be welcome to view the performance.

The clerk was authorized to draw up an agreement with the Salvation Army allowing them to use the town hall on Sundays and any night during the week when not wanted by the town. The Army will be responsible for light and heat.

Councillor Green informed the when anything was going to be done with Richmond Street. It was in a deplorable state, he said, and should be fixed at once. It was pointed out that on August the 10th a resolution was passed favoring the repairing of Yonge, Richmond and Centre Streets but that as yet very little had been done. Reeve Lunau stated that the wet weather had interfered with the work but he hoped to have the worst holes in Yonge Street fixed up in the very near future. It was decided to call for tenders for 400 yards of gravel for Richmond and Centre Streets and the work will be gone on with immediately.

Councillor Greene informed the Council that the Electric Light committee were meeting by appointment with the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto on Wednesday at 11 o'clock when an effort would be made to have the local commercial rates reduced. He pointed out that in every town the commercial rates were lower than the rates for domestic use, while in Richmond Hill they are the same. He hoped to come to an understanding with the commission on such matters as this. The members of the Electric Light Committee are Councillors Green, Baldoek and Herrington.

It was decided to ask the Horticultural Society to beautify the approaches to the town, especially around the "Welcome" signs, at the north and south entrances to the village.

Pedestrians Should Keep to Sidewalks

"I can't understand what municipalities are thinking about that pedestrians must walk on the side of the road. There should be a foot path constructed," declared Crown Attorney Frank Moore in the case of C. W. McKechnie, charged in county police court on Wednesday with reckless driving. He was driving a truck on North Yonge Street and knocked down Mrs. Thomas Monkman, causing her serious injury. McKechnie stated that he was raining and blinded by the headlights he was unable to see the woman. He was remanded a week for sentence.

History Repeats Itself

History repeats itself. A few weeks ago from our files of twenty-five years ago we printed an account of a partridge running at large in the town and finally smashing through the bank window. Last Sunday another partridge repeated the performance but this time chose the Richmond Hotel instead of the bank. The stray bird crashed through the pool room window of the hotel which proved a short route to the roasting pan.

Rev. McIntosh Gave Interesting Talk About Quebec

"Though I was born not far from the city of Montreal," said the Rev. Mr. McIntosh in addressing a large meeting of the Women's Institute held at the home of Mr. A. Plewman last Thursday afternoon, "I feel that I know far too little of the province of Quebec and that ignorance of our neighbors to the east is inexcusable. A summer spent in a little village seventy miles east of the city of Quebec which is reached by a spur railway line running from Quebec to Murray Bay has left none but the pleasantest impressions of both the beautiful countryside and the contented and happy habitation.

Les Eboulements is a small village nestling under the lovely Laurentians with the St. Lawrence nearby. In front lies the Isle La Coudre where Jacques Cartier first landed in the Baie des Andros. The St. Lawrence at this point is nowhere more wonderful. As Canadians we ought all to be proud of this noble stream. The great ocean liners do not pass close to Coudre but all the small pleasure steamers for Chicoutimi, Murray Bay and the Saguenay pass this way. At this point the tides rise fifteen feet, the water is salty, there are the most excellent sea fish and dolphins may be seen sporting in the river.

The Laurentians tower behind the nestling villages 2700 feet high and are still volcanic. The Baie St. Paul and Les Eboulements are indeed the centres from which the earthquake felt last year in Richmond Hill and other parts of Ontario radiated and it is recorded that over a century ago some of the inhabitants of these regions moved away because of fear of the earth tremors and some of the people after this last quake moved further up the hills.

The houses in these villages are most attractive and one cannot fail to be charmed by the arrangements both within and without although they are for the most part the homes of poor people.

The picturesque roofs are thatched and curved inwards and all houses however humble have running water of the purest as the mountain streams are trapped and afford a never failing supply of the most crystal pure water. There has never been any typhoid fever in these parts because of this uncontaminated water supply and everywhere we went in our walking tours we found the most sincere hospitality in the homes of the peasants, the loveliest of fine handcrafts, diligence and cleanliness. On one occasion a party of us tramped fifteen miles through the hills, part of the way being on the La Misere Road but steep as was the way there was no misery and nothing but happy experiences. At La Misere post office we were made welcome as friends, later inspected the old mill where the people bring their wool to have made into yarns for the wonderful Quebec homespun and in numbers of the homes we saw the most lovely examples of this ancient and beautiful craft. The more one sees of these people the more one realizes that it is not altogether a drawback to be remote. The Habitate is poor. His farm is rarely more than 20 to 40 acres in extent and is a narrow strip running to the river. The soil is not of the best and one wonders how these large families exist. Well, there is poverty but also contentment and in spite of the lack of material success their lives are neither low nor squalid and there is a spirit of reverence and simple kindness which might well be emulated by the people whom we regard as more fortunate.

Mr. McIntosh also spoke of an interesting visit made to the church of St. Francois da Sale some ten miles from Les Eboulements, one of the finest edifices in Canada. It seats fifteen hundred people and is beautiful in all its details. At St. Anne De Baupre a new church is also being built which is to be as fine as anything in the world. The money spent on it has been contributed through pilgrims to the famous shrine and by the devout people of Quebec province. "Their love of beauty," said Mr. McIntosh, "is another great quality in our eastern neighbors and though I would like to see them have greater opportunities for education I would be very sorry to see their spirit of contentment destroyed, their thrift, kindly, hospitable, industrious and happy lives altered to the feverish activity too often found in communities in our own province where education seems to bring to much discontent with rural life in its train."

At the conclusion of his address a hearty expression of thanks was given Mr. McIntosh for his address.
