York Market

Last Saturday The Liberal reporter paid a visit to St. Lawrence market to compare it with the York Market.

St. Lawrence is a wonderful market. Large, well housed and in the neighborhood of a large retail shopping area with many buyers.

But it is entirely different from the York Market. Much of the produce at St. Lawrence is being sold by the middleman and therefore prices are a little higher. York is a producers market and the buyers gets the benefit.

At St. Lawrence it is entirely a business transaction, sometimes with haggling over prices. At York it is a community market. The buyers are neighbors with a neighborly greetings. The sellers ask a price and it is paid or the buyer passes on.

To-day St. Lawrence is the larger market but it is more than a half a century old. Give the York Market two years and it will be a bigger, better market.

By next Saturday the new addition will be open and arrangements made for winter operation.

Eggs were scarce, extras sold at 70 cents a dozen; firsts at 65, with a few at 60; pullet eggs 60. Almost every producer was "dozens short."

Poultry was plentiful. Roasters of six pounds and over were 45 cents a pound; four to six pounders 40; smaller ones 35; fowls 35. Ducks were 35 and 40 cents a pound and pigeons 45 and 50 cents a pair.

Butter prices were up, creamery sold at 37 and 38 cents a pound, farm dairy at 40, 42 and 45 cents a pound.

Fruit commanded good prices. Apples in wider variety were shown and spows and Mackintosh reds of the highest quality were priced at 35c for six quarts. Good snows, Blenheim Orange, Baxters, St. Lawrence's and Alexanders were 30 cents, second 25 cents; Tolman Sweets 20 and 25 cents, and larger quantities at $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel.

Pears were $2.00 per bushel, 80 cents for eleven quarts and 50 cents for six quarts. Crabapples were 25c for six quarts.

Vegetable prices were practically unchanged. The six quart baskets of mixed vegetables were again 25 cents. Late grown beets 3 bunches for 10 cents; leeks 10 cents a bunch; yellow onions 25 and 30 cents for six quarts. Potatoes 30 cents for six quarts and $2.25 a bag.

Spinach was 25 cents a half peck. Cabbages sold from 3 hearts for 10 cents up to 20 cents each for huge reds and Savoy. Cauliflowers were from 10 to 25 cents each, size and quality governing the price. Brussels sprouts 25 cents a box and $1.25 for six quarts. Late bleached 5 and 10 cents a head. Chinese cabbage, 10 to 20 cents each; head lettuce 5 cents; leaf lettuce, 3 for 10; celery 15 20 and 25 cents a bunch and 10 cents a head. Pumpkins 5, 10 and 15 cents.

Several of the winter specialties appeared on Saturday for the first time. Among them county-made sausage, 35 cents a pound; headcheese, 20 cts. a pound and cottage cheese 10 cents a package.

"Dad certainly was pleased!"

"As soon as Dad read my last letter, with the news of my appointment in it, he jumped for the telephone.

"I felt like a million dollars when I heard his voice, and if I can live up to the things he said to me, I'll go a long way."

There are many inspiring moments when Long Distance is the only adequate vehicle for our emotions. As in the case above, the proper word at the right moment has a great appeal. Let Long Distance speed your message of inspiration when it will be most appreciated.

Bazaar of Presbyterian Women's Association Successful Event.

The Women's Association of the Thornhill Presbyterian Church held a Bazaar on Saturday afternoon which was an unqualified success in every way. Indicating the industry of the Society, tables were loaded with useful and ornamental articles for sale. A long table of Home baking, Garden produce, etc. was in charge of Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Gibson, and was sold out early. A centre Horse-shoe table presided over by Mrs. Finlay, Mrs. Hislop, Mrs. J. Cooper, Miss Hall and Miss Francis had a wonderful assortment of garments, aprons, etc., and realized beyond expectations. There was a Kitchentette which provided largely for culinary requirements, and many very pretty suggestions in that line, and Miss James and Miss Walsh, displayed their wares very temptingly, and succeeded in disposing of it. Misses Cooper and James rivalled Laura Secord in display, arrangement, and general get-up of a pretty variety of Candies, and needless to say attracted so many that soon their stock in trade was exhausted. The joy of the youngsters in the form of a fish pond was in the very acceptable charge of Miss Findlay. There was also a refreshment room set with dainty tables where tea, cake, sandwiches, ice cream etc. were served by the staff of willing workers and attracted many customers, including Mrs. Cooper, Misses Cooper and Walsh, Mrs. Gill, Misses Campbell, etc.

The bazaar was formally opened by the Minister Rev. M. C. Campbell, who stressed in his remarks the useful purpose Bazaars filled in the friendliness and co-operation and spread of interest in Church work among a large number of the people who were influenced by these get-together efforts. And of course, bazaars were unexcelled as money-getters. Some preferred to give the money, but every one could find it just convenient to do so, and instead gave work, which could be turned into money by bazaars. He congratulated the people on the progress of things generally pertaining to the Church. The original congregation was cleft in two when practically one-half left the church, but it was gratifying to know that the half that remained had carried on splendidly financially and otherwise. By the numbers that left all over the country the Church had been greatly weakened numerically but there was indications that a new impetus had been given which has already been felt quickening the life of the Church in its agencies. He reminded them that it was the same old Presbyterian church with its history, traditions, and liberties and limitations, and the new church was elsewhere. They should lift church life to a higher plane, cultivate goodwill towards all, and love peace. The church would survive this disruption. There were 10,000 new members making over 150,000 in all. Over $150 was realized, and some articles remained for some future effort of the same kind, and the ladies who had put time and labor in the venture were cheered up in their reward.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and Miss Wilson rendered some beautiful pieces of vocal and instrumental music which delighted an audience which would have been many times its size had more notice been given of this part of the program. Altogether the Women's Association have every reason for satisfaction and desire to return their cordial thanks to their kind generous patrons.

Rev. and Mrs. Strangways celebrate Silver Wedding

A very pleasant social event took place Friday, October 22 when Rev. and Mrs. B. R. Strangways, Thornhill celebrated their silver wedding. About thirty guests were present for the evening and many messages of congratulations and best wishes were received during the day. A pleasant feature of the celebration was the presence of Mrs. Dr. Christie and her daughter Mrs. Farrow who were present at the wedding twenty-five years ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Strangways were married in 1901 in the town of Uxbridge by Rev. Dr. Gardner, and came to Thornhill United Church from Toronto where Rev. Strangways was stationed for several years.

A presentation on behalf of relatives of a handsome library table was accompanied by a suitable address read by Mrs. F. Strangways of Beaton. Other beautiful gifts included a floor lamp, silver candlesticks and numerous other remembrances. Fred Strangways, son of Rev. and Mrs. Strangways ably presided as master of ceremonies and short complimentary addresses were made by Dr. F. Strangways of Beaton, Mr. W. F. MacMahon, Toronto, Mr. Douglas Strangways, Toronto, Mr. W. J. Inch, Weston, Dr. W. J. Philp, Toronto, and others. During the evening several delightful violin solos were played by Miss Aileen Atkinson of Richmond Hill which were much appreciated. The Liberal joins with the host of friends in this district who sincerely wish Rev. and Mrs. Strangways many more years of continued health and happiness.
