Exciting Chase

The members of the C. G. I. T. and Mrs. W. Luesby's class met at the home of Ila Brillinger on Saturday afternoon for a fox and hound run. The foxes took a leap off of fifteen minutes going north on Yonge Street as far as Hooper's Garage where the foxes were undecided which way to go and making many tracks where by they would anger the hounds, but decided to go toward the Ladies Golf Course but found a hiding place through Miss Watson's lane so as to escape by way of the Ladies Golf Club. But here disaster met the foxes for they could not leap the creek and lost some time in getting across. In the meantime the hounds were active in closely following the trail and spying them on the second concession a close chase followed, but found shelter behind McKeen's hen house, chickens are very tempting to foxes but in this case they were intent on escaping the claws of the hounds but were caught while dashing in a near by bush, after which they all returned to Mrs. Brillinger's for lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. McGilvray and baby Mary spent Tuesday with Mrs. F. Simpson, Thornhill.

The Business of Agriculture

Farming is more than an occupation; it is a highly commercialized business which requires careful planning and thoughtful execution. Bountiful production is necessary but much effort is wasted unless the business of disposing of the years' output is properly managed. In conducting the business of the farm the Standard Bank can play a prominent and useful part. Consult the manager and learn how true co-operation between banking and agriculture builds a more prosperous community.
